Late Wednesday, the president accompanying the news from Washington were his guests at his new vacation home.

When they arrived, Eisenhower was on the lawn in front of the 1 1/2-story white brick cottage known as "Mamie's Cabin."

He had a motion picture camera and was concentrating on filming the house, with Mrs. Eisenhower on the front porch.

He swung the camera around, trained it on the arriving news photographers, and remarked with a grin: "You fellows get over there so I can take a picture of you for a change."

Most Wanted

Massingale and two other inmates escaped from the reformatory, flashing a butcher knife and swinging a club at two guards. They fled in a commandeered car with one of the guards as a hostage, the FBI said.

Hooover said Massingale was unarmed when found in a Las Vegas hotel. He said Massingale admitted his identity and said "it's been a good run." Hooover's account continued:

"He was travelling under the name of Roy Croft as a photographer salesman for a Cheyenne, Wyo. commercial firm and claimed he was slated for a manager's position in a few months in view of his success as a salesman."

Had a Woman Companion—"Massingale was accompanied by a woman companion, with whom he was living on Las Vegas as man and wife, on a sales tour which covered Wyoming, Utah, Colorado and New Mexico. When apprehended today, Massingale states he planned to take her on a Christmas vacation to Mexico City."

Large Audience Hears Message

Rev. William F. Clay, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, urged a capacity audience at the First Methodist church Thursday morning to look to God for their many blessings.

The service, sponsored by the Salem Ministerial association, was in recognition of Thanksgiving Day.

Rev. Clay's text, "Gratitude Unfeigned," was taken from Psalms 69-70: "I will praise the name of God with a song, and will magnify him with thanksgiving." He said "our blessings are wonderful indeed," adding that it was fitting that the Bible should be given the central place in thanksgiving.

The minister spoke of Paul who exclaimed "Give thanks for everything." God, he said, should be thanked for giving us the ability to rise above our discouragements and fears.

Rev. Louis E. White, president of the ministerial association, presided and read President Eisenhower's Thanksgiving proclamation.

The choir of Salem Academy provided special music and Rev. B. J. Holland gave the invocation. Scripture reading was by Rev. James W. Gentry and the prayer by Rev. Collis C. Blair.

The Thanksgiving offering will be given to Church World Service for Korean relief.

Also increased a cent a quart were prices on premium milk. Cost of 4.3 per cent butterfat milk will be 24 cents and five per cent milk will be 24 1/2 cents.

Producers Get Boost—The new schedules will result in a 12-cent increase for producers of average test four per cent milk or $6.32 a hundredweight, the commission stated. Storekeepers' margin on single quart sales will be 2 1/2 cents.

Medford Plea Rejected—The board rejected an application of producers in the Medford marketing area for a rehearing on a price of $6.25 a hundredweight for four per cent milk.

Quart milk prices in Seattle are 19 1/2 cents at stores and 20 1/2 cents for home delivery; Los Angeles 21 and 22 1/2 cents; San Francisco, 21 1/2 and 22 1/2 cents; Sacramento, 20 1/2 and 21 1/2; Boise, 19 1/2 cents, and Spokane 22 cents.

Portland newspapermen informed Governor Patterson that Administrator Wydell had informed them that no meeting, regular or special, of the commission would be held until December.

S. B. Hall, of Troutdale, a member of the board said the whole matter had been explored previously in public sessions, and final action had been taken at a regularly called special meeting at a time when it appeared most members of the board could be present.

2 Hit-Skip Accidents Get Police Attention

Two hit and run accidents Wednesday were reported by city police Thursday.

The car of Ray Van Valck, 1865 North Commercial street, was struck while it was parked in front of his home. The left rear fender was mashed, the wheel rim bent and the tire punctured, police said. The accident happened shortly after midnight.

A damaged front end was suffered by the car of Darrall Ponsford, 950 Morningdale avenue, while it was parked in the high school parking lot sometime during the day, he reported.

An eyewitness reported another hit and run involving a woman pedestrian but the woman did not report the accident to them, police said. She walked away after being knocked down, the eyewitness said.

STRICKEN FREIGHTER
Newport 604—The Coast Guard Cutter Ivey was standing by a stricken freighter off the entrance to Yaquina bay this morning, but the vessel was reported in no danger.

Trio Accused

An unknown number of men drove up and rifled the armored car while its three guards were having coffee in a nearby drugstore.

It was the biggest armored car robbery in the nation and was topped only by the $1,219,000 Boston Brink's counting room robbery of January, 1950, as the nation's largest cash haul.

Police Chief Raymond Kerwin of Danvers said an FBI agent told him that agents had recovered some bills whose serial numbers matched numbers of the stolen currency.

Kerwin said it had not been generally known that investigators had the serial numbers of the stolen money.

A next-door neighbor of the O'Briens, Arthur L. McGilvray, 33, said the FBI had asked him to keep an eye on their activities since the O'Briens moved into their new white colonial home from a Dorchester, Mass., tenement district last January.

The elder O'Brien was held in $100,000 bail after Asst. U. S. Atty. Edward Hassan told U. S. Commissioner Peter J. Nelligan, presiding at a special night session, that the government contended O'Brien was a participant in the robbery.

The younger O'Brien was ordered held in $5,000 bail. His mother was released in $1,000 bail on her personal recognizance, because she has two other children, aged 4 and 6, to care for. A hearing will be held Dec. 9.

Hassan told the commissioner that the son and mother had received funds from O'Brien that were "knowingly taken from the armored truck in Danvers."

The FBI said the elder O'Brien served two terms in Massachusetts State Prison from 1934 to about 1940 on charges of larceny and breaking and entering.

Research Identifies Benefactor of State

Tuesday of this week a front page story in the Capital Journal told of benefactions to Eastern Oregon Tuberculosis Hospital and Children's Home at Corvallis, state supported institutions, from the estate of Britanna G. Fulton, assets of which include mineral rights in the heart of Texas recently developed by the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation of Amarillo, Texas.

The State Board of Control has been asked by the Shamrock corporation to execute an order for a division of the royalties among the various owners of the mineral rights which would entitle the two Oregon institutions named as beneficiaries to about 1/32 of the royalty payments.

Britanna G. Fulton died May 7, 1933, near Wasco in Sherman county, and by terms of a will she bequeathed $15,000 to the Eastern Oregon Tuberculosis Hospital and $15,000 to the Children's Home at Corvallis. Then her estate was valued at $82,000.

Capital Journal's historian, assisted by the state archivist and Portland reference librarian learned that Britanna G. Fulton was born near Amity, July 16, 1855, the daughter of S. M. Gilmore, Yamhill county pioneer of 1843. She was married to John Fulton at Rockland, Washington Territory, on November 12, 1878.

Fulton, also, was an Oregon pioneer, born in Yamhill county May 24, 1852. His parents were Col. James and Priscilla Fulton who were residents of Oregon Territory before 1850. In 1857 they left the Willamette Valley and settled east of the Cascades.

John Fulton entered Whitman college in Walla Walla in the 1870s and after leaving the institution associated himself with his father in agricultural pursuits. He became a leading citizen of Sherman county with a residence near Wasco where he owned above 2000 acres of land.

When Mrs. Fulton died, 20 years ago, she was 77 years of age.
