

Rutschman on UP Little All-Coast Second Team

Mention Given Pinion, Cummings, Menashe

San Francisco (AP)—Linfield's Ad Rutschman was chosen a second-string fullback on the United Press little All-Coast team announced today.

Rutschman was the only Oregon player to make either the first or second teams. Backs Ted Martin and Boyd Crawford of College of Idaho also made the second team.

The following Oregon players received honorable mention: Guards: Rube Menashe, Willamette, and Ron Useldinger, Lewis and Clark; center: Ray Cummings, Oregon College of Education; backs: Hesdon, Southern Oregon, and Chuck Pinion, Oregon College of Education.

Menashe was chosen all-Northwest conference last year. He is a 195-pound junior from Portland Grant high school.

Cummings, OCE team captain, is a graduate of Salem high school and an 180-pound junior. He played on OCE's 1949 undefeated team, dropped out of school in 1950 and returned in 1951.

Pinion, chosen most valuable OCE player this season, is a 170-pound senior from Reedsport.

Notre Dame Picked Over USC Saturday

Los Angeles (AP)—Notre Dame's precision-like football team, once tied and probably very determined to get back on top of the nation's football heap, remained favored Friday to defeat an old foe, Southern California, in their big game Saturday.

This is the end of the 1953 line for USC, but Notre Dame still has Southern Methodist ahead next week.

Victories for the Irish—and smashing scores, at that—might send the team booming back to the No. 1 spot in the national rankings, a position the Irish held over Maryland before they scrambled for a tie with Iowa last week.

The immediate objective, however, for Johnny Laitner, Neil Worden and company is to knock off the Trojans in this silver anniversary of the Notre Dame-USC series.

The Irish arrived by plane Thursday night.

The game is a near sell out. More than 80,000 fans are expected in Memorial Coliseum.

Stojack Matched Against Lindsey At Salem Armory

Frank Stojack will return to the Salem ring Tuesday night when he tries the veteran's tactics against Luther Lindsey, the apple of local wrestling fans' eyes.

Stojack, once an All-American for WSC, is recognized by the National Wrestling Alliance as world lightweight champion and will be 20 pounds lighter than the rugged Lindsey.

Tickets are on sale at Barb's sporting goods store for the mat card which will include a tag team match and a preliminary.

Cal Poly Has Four on First Coast Team

By HAL WOOD

San Francisco (AP)—When a football team runs up 400 points in nine games against 65 for its foes, it must have some pretty fair country ball players.

Such was the case this year for Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo, and the result is that four members of the Mustang club made the 1953 United Press Little All-Coast first team. Two of these, center Stan Sheriff and halfback Alex Bravo, are repeaters from the 1952 team.

The other two Mustangs to make the first team are tackle Sheldon Williams and guard Vic Buccola.

This was a year that saw California teams dominate the small schools competition. For instance, Cal Poly, in its only intercollegiate, beat Willamette from Oregon by a 57-7 score. Little Humboldt State whipped three Oregon foes. As a result 10 of the 11 men on the first string are from California. The other spot is held down by end Mert Baxter of Nevada—a school that now plays among the smaller leagues with much more success than it had among the big boys.

San Francisco State, fast rising among the small school powers placed two men on the squad: Quarterback Maury Duncan, who made the club the second year in a row, and end George Wehner.

The man unanimously nominated for the squad by coaches, scouts and players was George Maderos of Chico State. This lad, called a great young inspiration leader, played end on offense and middle line backer on defense.

George Fisch of Fresno State, star of the Bulldogs' 21-21 deadlock with "big school" College of Pacific, holds down one of the other backfield posts, along with Bill Nygaard of San Diego State, rated a "fine all-around performer."

Ledio Fanucchi of Fresno State, a tackle, filled out the all-star team.

Perez Favorite To Beat Gallardo Tonight on TV

New York (AP)—Young Lulu Perez, Brooklyn's hot-shot featherweight, was favored at 13-5 to win again tonight over Dave Gallardo, the Los Angeles Mexican who gave him a terrific fight on Sept. 4.

The winner of this nationally televised and broadcast return 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden has been promised a January match with Willie Pep, top contender among the 126-pounders.

Perez, 20, won a technical knockout over Gallardo at the end of the eighth round in September, but the ending was so unsatisfactory, Lulu's plans for a Pep match were blasted temporarily, at least.

Utah Is Thankful For 33-32 Edge

Salt Lake City (AP)—The game which the oddsmakers had pegged a four-touchdown rout turned out to be a thriller as a favored Utah thankfully accepted a 33-32 victory over a surprisingly strong Brigham Young.

A fumbled pass from center on an attempted conversion in the final two minutes was all that stood between BYU and a tie with the Utes in a game that turned out to be an offensive circus and a tasty dessert for Thanksgiving Day homebodies seated by their television sets.

Maryland Said to Deserve Top Rank, Even Over Irish

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York (AP)—Those experts who have seen both Maryland and Notre Dame against their strongest opponents in the past month seem to agree almost unanimously that the powerful Terps deserve their ranking as the nation's No. 1 football team.

A dozen or more of them we have seen express an opinion in print start out by saying that a meeting between the No. 1 and No. 2 powers would provide a terror of a ball game. They end up, after skipping about for 1,000 words or so, by saying they believe Coach Jim Tatum's team would win such a showdown through superior reserve power.

Depth in Material

It is the Irish who traditionally are famed for their ability to keep on pouring muscles into the fray, but this is one time, if we may believe all we read, that they run second in that department. This is especially stressed by those who watched Maryland trounce Alabama's big team 21-0 last week.

Several expressed the opinion that had Maryland's gifted quarterback Bernie Faloney not been forced to leave the game with a damaged knee in the second period after engineering the Terps' first two touchdowns, the final count might easily have been 40-0. Tatum conceded later that he had only an "ordinary" team without Faloney, though this was not too obvious to the spectators.

'Best Quarterback'

The Maryland coach also said that Faloney was the best quarterback he'd ever had, and that would take in his Jack Scarbath, who was on nearly everybody's All-America last season. The critics agreed without dissent that, while Faloney was handling the ball, it looked like a much stronger Maryland team than the one which trounced Tennessee in the 1951 Sugar Bowl.

Arthur (Dutch) Bergman, former Notre Dame star and veteran coach, called the Maryland backfield a "reincarnation" of his school's famous Four Horsemen in an article in the Washington Times-Herald.
