GRANTS PASS UNDERRATED AND UNSUNG

Odd, these all-star teams—their selection, not the players. We've got to ask Mel Ingram at Grants Pass how he comes within inches of the state championship without any material.

A study of the all-state team as voted by coaches and as published last Sunday by the Portland Oregonian shows the Cavemen with a halfback on the second team, two backs and a tackle in the honorable mention pew. North Bend, on the other hand, defeated by Grants Pass 14-12 in the quarterfinals, had two on the first team, both ends on honorable mention, two guards on honorable mention and a center on hon. mntn. Unless there is a typographical error in the listings, that means that three guards from North Bend were

We suspect that the voting was done before the state finals and that the coaches from District 6 didn't get very chummy in order to make their votes feit in unison. The headwork of District 8 coaches is a model. They agreed beforehand on which boys really were the best, then all voted alike. However, there are two angles we don't understand: They voted for Ray Taylor as a back but he didn't appear, and they picked Phil Sturholm of Sweet Home as a fullback and he appeared as a guard.

NOW THE PREP POLL CHECKED OUT Here's the way Oregon sport writers and broadcasters voted in the final poll of high school teams, compared to ow they actually finished:

1. North Bend (finished in four-way tie for fifth). Salem and Central Catholic (Salem tied for third Jefferson, Central Catholic was state champion).

4. Benson (tied for fifth).
5. Jefferson (tied for third).
6. Prineville (Won Class A-2 title).
7. Marshfield (only one of top 10 not in playoffs, losing Saake Says to North Bend 7-0).

8. Grants Pass (state runner-up).
9. Hillsboro (tied for fifth). 10.Baker (tied for fifth).

GETTING-CLOSER DEPARTMENT

GETTING-CLOSER DEFARTMENT

Track records approved by the AAU this week are getting into the fabulous or impossible bracket—awfully close to the 7-foot high jump, 200-foot discus throw, 60-foot shot put and 4-minute mile. They include Walt Davis' 6 feet 11½ inches in the jump, 194 feet 6 by Fortune Gordien in the discus, 59 feet 2½ by Parry O'Brien in the shotput, 4:02.4 by Wes Santee in the mile and 263 feet 10 in the javelin by Parry Hald

The javelin tess, incidentally, was pretested by Cy Young, the U.S. Olympic champion, who said Held's javelin was a hollow pointed spear which floats 20 feet farther than an ordinary javelin. Held denied this, said it is perfectly legal javelin modified by removing some of the metal point and can be examined in the Helms Foundation at Los Angeles.

ODD ENDS FROM THE BASKET

Salem's Mike Campbell is the victim of unofficial statistics In that there aren't enough to prove he's the ground gaining the common courtesies to us champion of the Big Six. Against Bend he gained 105 yards when the large colleges hardly in 10 carries, 84 yards in three tries against Albany, and if sweet Home were in the league he would have runs of 76, 36. Sweet Home were in the league he would have runs of 76, 36, 10 and 16 for his record. He starred against Corvallis, too, and seemed always to be good for 10 yards or more... Our ears didn't hear right about the wealth to flow into Salem High's chest as a result of two playoff games. The Benson game netted $2800 for the two teams' 50 per cent, to be divided evenly, and the Central Catholic game here brought in $8400, which must be split between the Rams and Vikings ... Pete Paulus, a Salem High basketball prospect, is the third, last and smallest Paulus to play for Salem. Tom played in 1947 and Larry is at Oregon State now ... The fullback for Bakersfield junior college, which will play in the Little Rose Bowl, averaged nearly 13 yards per carry in nine games and plans to transfer to Southern Cal...
