SOROPTIMISTS MAKE CLOCK PAYMENT

Student Talks To Lions Club

Reynold Neufeld, 16-year-old Salem academy senior, gave the five-minute "I Speak for Democracy" address at Thursday's Lions club luncheon, that won for him first place among 120 high school students of the metropolitan Salem area.

It was Neufeld's first appearance before a visual audience, his former addresses having been tape recorded. He will enter the state contest and winner there will advance to the regional and national. A general picture of the locality is based on delivery, content and originality, with the last phase being given 20 points and the other two 40 each.

Youth Loses Finger In High School Shop

A 17-year-old high school boy lost one finger from his left hand and another finger was badly injured as a result of an accident while using a power saw at the Salem high school woodworking shop Wednesday afternoon.

Donald Smith, 198 North 24th street, was treated at the scene by first aidmen for the two mangled fingers and was taken to Salem General hospital where the ring finger was amputated below the second knuckle. It was feared for a while that the middle finger would also have to be amputated, hospital attendants said, but Thursday it was reported all right and young Smith was reported in good condition.

Mrs. Guthrie Has Stroke—Salem friends were informed Thursday that Mrs. George B. Guthrie suffered a severe stroke Wednesday at the Guthrie home in Portland. It was doubtful that she would live through Thursday and her children have been called to her bedside.

People Held Assembly Vote

The Clackamas county senator said that recent surveys showed that recent surveys have brought to light wide discrepancies in the assessed valuation of comparable properties in Oregon and in other states. He added that the problem of achieving equitable assessments for property tax purposes in this state, as well as in others, resolves itself into providing definite targets of value, appraisal tools and competent appraisers.

Tornado Kills
Her husband's body lay nearby. The storm cut off power temporarily in the Alexandria area, and hampered communications.

The LaSalle officials said at least 20 homes were destroyed or damaged at Tullos. At the Paradise community, 10 miles north of here, four highway employes sleeping in a trailer were carried on a wild 100-yard ride by the raging winds. The extent of their injuries was not known.

The twister narrowly missed the veterans administration hospital five miles north of Alexandria. The twisting terror also struck at Hixton, Dry Prong, Kingsville and the area east of Colfax as it raged across the center of the state in a northeasterly arc.

Livestock Disease Cases in October 281

Keizer Plea Gets Denial

The State Highway Commission has rejected a plea from the Keizer Rural Fire Protection district against the contemplated closure of Keizer Road where it intersects the Salem-Portland Expressway.

Directors of the fire district said the closure would necessitate a detour in reaching the extreme easterly portion of the district in case of fire.

In its reply, the commission holds that it "would be impossible to separate the Keizer Road and the expressway without also constructing a separation with the railroad, which results in an extremely costly project."

"Studies indicated that the traffic of Keizer road would not in any manner justify expenditure of public funds in an amount comparable to the result obtained," the commission's letter continues. "Further studies have been made which indicate that the travel time necessary to use other roads to reach points east of the Keizer Road closure is very small."

Deetz Hailed Into Court

Oregon City (AP)—Elmer Deetz, the Canby dairyman defying state milk authorities, will go to court next Monday to answer the state's charges.

A summons Wednesday ordered him to court to show why he should not be prevented from selling milk in gallon cans at a low price. The State Board of Agriculture seeks a restraining order because he does not have a milk marketing license and sells below prices set by the Milk Marketing Administration.

Deetz insists it is his constitutional right to sell his milk in the way he prefers, and says he will carry his fight to the supreme court, if necessary.

Sale of Beans Cause of Suit
Suit was filed in Marion county circuit court Thursday by Clifford Swartout against the Kolstad Canneries, Inc., seeking total judgment of $16,091.98. The complaint states that the plaintiff made deliveries of some 693,424 pounds of stringless beans to the defendant between August 20 and September 28, 1953, which had a "reasonable market value of 6 1/2 cents a pound." As a result of such deliveries it is said the defendant became indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of $31,073.56. The defendant is credited with having paid $17,423.58, leaving an unpaid balance of $13,649.98. As a second cause of action the plaintiff states he delivered 79 tons of sweet corn to the defendant during September. The corn had a market value of $30 a ton, whereby the defend-
