

Peg in Washington

BY ALENE (PEG) PHILLIPS

Washington, D.C., Nov. 29. Dear Marian: The Army and Navy football game at Philadelphia yesterday. It was a great day for the Army and a cold day for the Navy and the spectators. With thermometers registering around 40 degrees and a sharp wind blowing at times, there was a stampede for the trains parked on the sidings as soon as the game ended, or a whit earlier for a great many who figured that the 20 to 0 score was a final certainty. Of course, as you know, Navy garnered a touchdown in the final seconds. It was a great help to make the trip by train as the score of special trains from New York and Washington landed visitors within a couple of blocks of the stadium and sandwiches and coffee were available enroute to supplement a few tidbits brought from home—for example, Mrs. Douglas McKay's special coffee cake.

Some northwesterners were together on the train enjoying a congenial time to and from the game. Secretary and Mrs. McKay had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ben S. Fisher, who moved from Coos Bay to Washington 23 years ago. The Larry Smyths and the George Scotts were together, representing Portland and Baker. The Wallace E. Casfield, who came here from Portland in June and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davis, Seattle, and I completed the northwest contingent. With us was Miss Florence Taaf, and while she is not an Oregonian, she is as much as an enthusiast for the state as the rest of us, having visited Oregon on several occasions. Work on her home town Minneapolis newspaper prefaced her assignments here in Washington, first with the Army and then with Interior.

The McKays certainly had a close up view of the Army cadets as the 2700 were massed in the rows just behind their box. The huge stadium resounded and rocked with the cheers and groans of the 102,000 persons in the stands. Colorful ceremonies preceded the game with a parade of the middles and cadets onto the field and traditional fun-making devices and stunts spoofing the opposition. It was an impressive sight to see the marching military units, so exact in their cadence and movements, so evenly matched in height in the individual lines. The black overcoats and white hats of the Naval Academy and the West Pointers' gray overcoats and hats were not colorful but the sea of black and white and the sea of gray that filled the field successively was striking anyway.

One of the theater season's treats was "Misalliance" which I saw Friday evening. The gay wit of George Bernard Shaw was handled in spirited style by an excellent cast. Martyn Green, who has played with the world famous D'oyly Carte Opera company, starred in the comedy. While the play is not considered a major Shaw opus, New York critics have hailed it as far better than many of the current plays that are sell-outs for months in New York. From start to finish, it is replete with laughs, action, and a whirl of excitement—all adding up to a great evening's entertainment.

While we were dining on Thursday at the Shoreham, we had the fun of seeing the participants in the annual Debutants Cotillion and Thanksgiving Ball gather for the event. The 21 debutantes, all gowned in white nylon tulle, with strapless bodices and widely bouffant skirts, floated through the hotel corridors with their escorts. When they were presented to the dancing audience, they carried arm bouquets of red roses. Post-debutantes who entered the room with this year's crop were gowned in black and carried white carnations. The two groups came into the ballroom through a large white, red-rose trimmed picture frame, which was framed in turn by two silver trees with black blossoms. The individual girls will have their own coming-out parties in the weeks to come.

Shall be off to New York this week. Of that, later.

Miss Perry, Mr. Temple Are Engaged

The engagement of Miss Susan Perry, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Perry, Salem, to Roger Temple, son of Flavel Temple and Mrs. Herbert Cass of Portland, was announced Wednesday evening as news of interest to many friends.

The announcement was made at dinner time at the bride-elect's sorority, Delta Gamma, at the University of Oregon, Eugene.

The wedding date is to be announced later.

Miss Perry and Mr. Temple both will complete their work at the end of the winter term in March at the UO. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Cass both went to Eugene for the announcement dinner.

Smorgasbord Setting Colorful

Brilliantly colored travel posters, featuring the work of some of the world's best commercial artists, have been secured especially for the YW-YMCA smorgasbord and festival of nations set for Tuesday, December 8. The posters were obtained by Palmer Sather, Salem's travel agent.

The cooperation of the various world wide airlines makes it possible for valley residents to see the work of Arthur Burgess of England, Nettler of Sweden, Schell of Belgium and the humorous Willi Hoffman of Austria. These artists work in air-brush, tempera, water color and oils, sometimes combining several mediums to produce their arresting effects. The essence of poster work is simplicity. A message must be made dramatic and attractive, a story told with as few words as possible, as smorgasbord goes will have a chance to see when they look through the black wrought iron gate toward the fairy tale castle of the Count of Flanders at Brussels, Belgium.

There are scenes from Hans Christian Anderson, ducks flying low over Belgian marshes, dusky maidens from South Africa, yachting on the Thames, and the far away hills of Kashmir to enhance the lobby of the Salem YMCA.

On display tables and on dress mannequins will be found authentic treasures from foreign lands. The international exhibition always attracts the guests in the lobby before and after dinner, for Ardo Tarem of the Salem YM takes particular pride in helping the Y's Men's club stage an effective festival.

The high color carries into the dining area in the gymnasium, where huge flags of many nations flutter overhead, and miniature flags decorate the dining tables. The serving tables will be decorated with fresh flowers and greens by Mrs. Willard Thompson, Mrs. A. A. Atherton.

Dinner will be served continuously from 5 until 8, with the program of the Swingmasters repeated, so that everyone may enjoy it at the hour they prefer. No reservations are needed, and the public is urged to attend.

Proceeds from the smorgasbord are used to further the World Service and Fellowship work of both the YW and YM throughout 29 countries.

Millers Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Miller, who live out of Dallas, are to observe their golden wedding anniversary with a reception this coming Sunday afternoon at their home six miles west of Dallas. The anniversary was December 2.

Hours for the affair are between 2 and 6 o'clock and friends of the couple are invited to call.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were married in Newark, Ohio, 50 years ago and have lived in Oregon the past seven years. Mr. Miller has been an ordained minister in the Seventh Day Adventist church since 1907 and has taught school for the past 42 years.

There are four children in the family, Dr. W. L. Miller of Roseburg; Mrs. W. D. Pierce, now at Blantyre Nyasaland African mission; Mrs. Olive Babb, Hunter, Okla.; and C. M. Miller of Soda Springs, Idaho. There are also two grandchildren.

Only the two sons will be able to be here for the anniversary reception.

Friday Bazaar Day in Salem

It's "bazaar day" in Salem, Friday, the day having been selected by several groups as the one for their big money-raising project of holiday time.

All women's groups of the First Presbyterian church plan their annual pre-Christmas bazaar at the church, starting at 9:30 o'clock, many gift items and decorations for the season to be sold. A nursery is to be conducted until 5 p.m. Coffee will be served between 10 and 11 a.m. and there is to be a tea in the afternoon between 2:30 and 4:30 o'clock.

First Congregational church women also stage their annual bazaar, at the church, on Friday, starting at 9 a.m. Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. on. All types of gift items are being sold. A feature of the afternoon will be pipe organ music by Jean Hobson Rich.

All guilds of St. Paul's Episcopal church have arranged their big bazaar for Friday, too, at the parish hall, opening at 10 a.m. Sandwich lunch will be sold at noon. As at other bazaars, many items appropriate for the holidays will be sold, also the church memorial plates.

Soroptimist club opened its three-day bazaar today at 156 South Commercial, the event to continue open through Friday and Saturday, proceeds to go to the clock fund for the clock installed in City hall.

Winding up the day will be opening of the greens show of Alpha Chi Omega Friday evening at Valley Motor company building, through Saturday, also on Sunday afternoon. Cookies and candies will be sold during the day, Friday, the greens show to open at 7 o'clock.

Ebersoles Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Ebersole are entertaining a group of old Newberg friends Sunday evening at their apartment at the Lee. In the group will be Mr. and Mrs. King Cady, Mr. and Mrs. Cleown Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Dunstan, Mr. and Mrs. John Wanner and Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Backstrom, all of Newberg, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Loe, formerly of Newberg.

Mothers Know!

But have you ever helped your husband understand the difference in the enjoyment of life that your child experiences on the day he wakes up dry instead of in a wet bed?

Dry beds are important to your child's happiness and self-confidence, so help him now. Bed-wetting can be corrected by a new, simple, safe, scientific method.

If your child has this problem, write The Psychological Research Foundation, 1019 S. W. 10th Avenue, Portland 5, Oregon.

AT UO Students Look to Winter Term

By ANNE RITCHIEY
(Capital Journal Correspondent)
University of Oregon, Eugene (Special) — With the all-too-brief vacation behind us, studies have once more resumed and are progressing rapidly toward the dreaded final week, which begins on Monday, December 14.

Starting to classes Monday morning were Salemites, Mary Sundet, Bill French, Glenn Benner, Mary Gerlinger, Plum Brown, Carol Fisher, Marcia Webb, All Cohen, Roger Weaver and Jeff Walton.

Monday night was the night designated for freshmen and sophomores to meet with their faculty advisers in preparation for the delayed-registration program to be tried this Winter term.

All students will register on the Monday following the Christmas vacation, so programs are hastily being arranged now. Among the Salem freshmen attending these meetings were Sally Greig, Otis Phillips, Howard Messmer, Pat Deeney, Gloria Stolk, Eileen Lang, Lynn Loring and Jim McKenney, who is from Amity.

Sophomores going to the meetings, many of which were held in the new, modern Commonwealth hall were Mike Thomas, Sharon Heider, Mary Jane Rud, John Templeton, Jean Smith, Pat Collins and Scott Page.

A week ago Tuesday night the Journalism school staged its annual family dinner, a turn-about affair where the faculty members serve dinner and do the dishes. A traditionally riotous and entertaining affair, this year's banquet lived up to expectations. The only serious presentation of the evening was a talk by Dean Gordon Sabine on the new Journalism building, which is to be completed before next fall term. Completely modern in every respect, the new building will contain innovations in design and operation most conducive to speed and ease of operation in every department.

HOSTESS to her bride club this evening will be Mrs. Wilmer H. Page, Mrs. George T. Bunn is to be an additional guest.

Mrs. Cameron Asked To Pour at Tea

Mrs. Malcolm S. Cameron of Salem is one of the matrons who will preside at the tea table next Sunday afternoon at Marylhurst college, when Friends of the Library entertain for the benefit of the library fund.

Guest of honor at the tea will be Sister M. Gilbert, author of a fall publication, "The Springs of Silence," which has already gone into its second printing. Although a member of the faculty of Holy Names college in Spokane, the author is a thorough Oregonian, having been born in Hillsboro and educated at Marylhurst college and the University of Oregon school of journalism. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence DeFreese of Hillsboro, will attend Sunday's reception.

Mrs. Cameron's daughter, Miss Patricia, is a freshman at Marylhurst.

Firemen's Group Plans for Holiday

Salem Firemen's auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Gerald Hall, Wednesday evening. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Raymond Tompkins and Mrs. Ronald Ruch. This was the club's annual Christmas party. They decided to make cookies and candy for Fairview home at Christmas.

Seventeen members were present as follows: Mrs. Milo Aschlimann, Mrs. Charles Bower, Mrs. John Hall, Mrs. Frank Hills, Mrs. William Hunt, Mrs. Jack Johnson, Mrs. Donald Morley, Mrs. Clarence Nelson, Mrs. Charles Patterson, Mrs. Warren Paynter, Mrs. Dene Ray, Mrs. Glenn Shedeck, Mrs. Ellsworth Smith, Mrs. Robert Norton.

Co-Rec Club Event

Salem Co-Rec club is arranging dance instruction for the Friday evening meeting of the group. Ervin Lay is arranging for the instruction with Miss Helen Tibets assisting in taking charge of the program and activities following the dance session.

The evening will begin at the Salem YWCA with dinner at 8:30 o'clock, the dancing and program events to be at Chresto cottage on the Willamette university campus.
