Loucks, White Back in Town

Mayor Al Loucks and Alderman Robert F. White, president of the Salem City Council, returned Monday from New Orleans, Washington, D. C., and other southern and eastern places.

Mayor Loucks attended and participated in a convention of the American Municipal Association, White attended a business convention, and both did a lot of sightseeing along with their wives who accompanied them.

Just before Mayor Loucks spoke at the convention he said he got a telegram signed by William H. Hammond, president of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, with best wishes from the home folks.

Among side trips was one through the bayou country along the Gulf of Mexico.

The trip east was made by plane and the return by the Panamanian train from New Orleans to Chicago and the Empire Builder from Chicago to Portland.

Nibler Talks About Bloat

Bloat was the subject of an after-lunch talk by W. G. Nibler of Oregon State college at the Dairy Herd Improvement meeting in May Lower hall.

Detergents have been tried experimentally to reduce the malady since it is believed by some to be caused by a foaming of materials in the paunch. High humidity is a weather factor.

Nibler said that experiments in Scotland indicate that the size of a cow's bile is constant but to be a high producer she must be able to take at least 70 bites per minute.

Nation-wide, less than one-tenth of one per cent of dairy animals are affected by bloat, Nibler stated. Serious irrigated legume sections of California, Utah, Nevada and Arizona, there is little trouble in states of the northeast.

Preventatives include a pasture mixing, which run 60 per cent grasses and 40 per cent legumes; feeding some dry hay in the pasture lots, and avoiding first year planting heavy in clovers.

Nibler said that irrigated pastures allowed to grow to four-inch height recover faster than that eaten when two inches high, because close grazing injures grass root systems. A three-week pasture rotation has been shown to give 23 per cent more feed than a two-week rotation. Four-week rotation gives 50 per cent more than two-week, he said.

James Phillips of Silverton was re-elected president of the association; Robert Barnes, Silverton, was re-elected secretary. The new vice president is Orville Brown of Woodburn. Frank Poepping of Silverton was elected as director, succeeding Leonard Lee of Aumsville.

Trophy Will Remain Here

That trophy presented monthly to top Marine recruiter in the Oregon district, will remain in Salem for another month.

Staff Sgt. Robert Wilson, recruiter in Salem, in October won the trophy and again in November was the recruiter with the highest percentage, having 240 percent of his quota.

In October Wilson had 180 percent of his quota. At that Lt. Col. Carl E. Fulton, USMC, officer in charge of the recruitment branch of the Western Recruiting area, San Francisco, was here to present the trophy to the sergeant.

In second place in November in recruiting in the Oregon district, which includes southern Washington and northern California, was Sgt. Marvin Lee Cox of Roseburg. He had 190 percent of his quota.

The Oregon district in November enlisted 93 men in the Marine Corps to have 120 percent of its quota. Of the 93 men enlisted in the district 12 were recruited by Sgt. Wilson of Salem.

North Powder Man Conservation Leader

La Grande—Ed McCause North Powder rancher, today was Oregon's Conservation Man of the Year.

Announcement of the award was made Saturday by Ray Forman, Antelope, chairman of the selection committee at a session of the Oregon Wheat Growers convention here.

McCause, who operates a 13,000-acre ranch at North Powder, was selected chiefly because of a rehabilitation project he accomplished on 3000 acres of land which had been considered almost worthless.

Marriage of Playboy Ends in Court

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The marriage of Texas playboy-heir Shepherd Abdullah King and Egyptian dancing girl Samia Gamal ended yesterday in divorce just like evangelist Billy Graham said it would.

But the ever-happy King, who changed his religion to the Moslem faith to marry the voluptuous Nile charmer, still could crow a little. Graham predicted the marriage would not last six months. It endured about two years.

James Phillips of Silverton was re-elected president of the association; Robert Barnes, Silverton, was re-elected secretary. The new vice president is Orville Brown of Woodburn. Frank Poepping of Silverton was elected as director, succeeding Leonard Lee of Aumsville.
