Road Breaking Up—County Road No. 945, extending from the school house at North Santiam to the railroad track is breaking up under traffic, according to a report reaching the county court. Much of the traffic consists of heavy tonnage of carrots which are extensively grown in the area.

Scouts Move—Cascade area council headquarters, Boy Scouts of America are to be located on the upper floor of a building located at 444 Center street. The organization has been located on the second floor of the Ladd and Bush building for the past eight years. Because the bank needs the space, it was found necessary to seek a new location.

Lt. Col. Stone Home—Lt. Col. Stephen A. Stone, Jr., arrived in Salem Wednesday on leave until after Christmas and is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Stone, 377 Leslie. Lt. Col. Stone, who is with the Air Force, is based at Willow Run, Mich. He returned home by United Air Lines.

From New York—Leon C. Culbertson of New York City will arrive in Salem December 21 to spend the holidays with his aunt, Zoe Stockton, 1642 Court street.

secretary, said his office had given up parties altogether. "You mean you finally got common sense?" I asked. "No," he replied. "The secretary just got so middle-aged it no longer was much fun to catch her—even to the boss himself."
Perhaps somewhere there still will be a real rowdy office Christmas party this season, one that looks like the hanging gardens of Babylon swept by a hurricane. If I locate it, I intend to join in the fun for ten full minutes for old times' sake—and then denounce it in the strongest possible terms.
Joyeux Noel has departed from the office, leaving behind it a sign saying: "Gone home." And, of course, that's where it belongs.

Flights Held Up by Weather

Salem's weather cleared Wednesday morning but United Air Lines flights coming into this airport were not able to operate because of bad weather elsewhere.
Both Medford and Eugene were still fogged-in at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday and flights coming into Salem make stops in those cities.
Flight No. 155, originating in Medford and terminating in Seattle, and flight 174, which is a southbound flight stopping in Salem at 9:50 a.m. were cancelled and flight 159, a northbound flight out of San Francisco, which makes its Salem stop at 2:10 p.m. did not operate.

Expected to operate unless weather conditions elsewhere continue bad is flight 178, a southbound flight making a Salem stop at 4:25 p.m.
None of the flights coming into Salem were able to operate Tuesday because of weather conditions in the northwest area.

Shrine Club Election—The Salem Shrine Club will have election of officers at a dinner meeting to be held at the Senator Hotel Thursday night at 6:30.

Officers Elected—Officers elected by the Salem Movie Club at a meeting last night were: President, Clayton Jones; vice president, Clarence B. Conrad; and secretary-treasurer, Melba Conrad.

Get Christmas Tree—Employees of the Marion county recorder's office have the Christmas spirit again, for they have a new Christmas tree to replace the one that disappeared from the temporary court house Monday. A Christmas tree salesman Tuesday sold the employees of that office a small Christmas tree at a reduced price. Now it glistens with blue lights and is ready for Santa to place gifts under it.

Gibson at Home—Rex Gibson, manager of the Ladd and Bush branch of the U. S. National bank, has returned to his home after spending some time in a hospital recovering from injuries which he received in an automobile crash. He is encased in a cast from his hips up to the top of his head with the exception of his face.

Tools Taken—Someone ran off with two tool boxes from his open garage late Tuesday afternoon or evening, Clyde Alden, 1905 Waller street, reported to city police. One of them contained mechanic's tools and the other carpenter tools. He estimated the loss at about $160. They were taken while he was at work, he said.

Kidnap Killers

ransom paid by Bobby's multimillionaire father Robert C. Greenlease, Kansas City auto dealer.
The missing money—which Hall has insisted he had with him when arrested in St. Louis the night of Oct. 6—has become the object of an inquiry by a federal grand jury at Kansas City, the FBI and the St. Louis Police Board.
But the killers have shown no apparent concern about the missing ransom or about their deaths, although Hall has asked an Episcopal minister, the Rev. George L. Evans of Kansas City, Kan., to stay with him "until the very end." Show Little Interest Hall has been reading Wild West magazines. Mrs. Heady has kept busy with crossword puzzles in newspapers. Neither has shown any interest in hundreds of pounds of mail sent to them but detoured by prison authorities at their request.

Both have reportedly gained weight since entering their death row cells Nov. 20, the day after they were convicted by a federal court jury in an advisory trial.

Hall has said he thought he had gained about 20 pounds. Mrs. Heady has put on about five pounds. Their faces are full, free of wrinkles, and Mrs. Heady has even joked about the roll of fat she was told Hall has acquired around his midriff.

But even a rejection of this offer by the Soviets, Eisenhower said, would not stop him from trying to meet the problem of international control in another way.

A reporter asked the president about Secretary of Defense Wilson's statement to the North Atlantic Council in Paris Tuesday that congress would be asked soon to permit the sharing of information on atomic weapons with its NATO allies.

Eisenhower replied that some changes in the law will be necessary before this country can realize the fullest advantages of atomic progress.

No Change Contemplated
But no changes are contemplated, he went on, which have anything to do with the scientific processes involved in developing atomic energy or with the building of atomic weapons.

This appeared to mean that what the administration does contemplate, if congress approves, is sharing information about the use of atomic weapons and perhaps sharing the weapons themselves with America's allies.

Along that line Eisenhower said it would depend on circumstances, meaning military circumstances, whether this country turned over atomic weapons to its allies.

He said if war comes America should use its atomic weapons in whatever way would be to the best advantage of the United States. Quite possibly, he said, it would be best to let an ally use American weapons under certain circumstances.

Damage Suit Against Oil Firm

Leslie Gene Peterson has filed suit in Marion county circuit court against the George Cadwell Oil company and Raymond Caldwell seeking general damages in the sum of $50,000 and special damages totalling $2000.
The suit stems from an accident that took place April 23, 1953, on Boone road approximately a mile west of Highway 99E.

Peterson says he was a passenger on a motorcycle that was traveling east over Boone road while defendant's truck was being driven in a westerly direction. The claim is advanced that the truck was on its left hand side of the road preparatory to making a turn into a driveway when it came into collision with the motorcycle.

The plaintiff says he received permanent injuries as a result of the accident.

German Army

The ministers backed up Eisenhower's proposal to bring "together the powers principally involved in order to seek a solution to the problem of atomic armaments." The U. S. President made his sensational atomic pool proposal in a speech at the U. N. General Assembly last week.

The council "agreed that special attention should be given to the continuing provision of modern weapons of the latest types to support the NATO defense system."

The council concluded "there has been no evidence of any change in ultimate Soviet objectives and that it remained a principal Soviet aim to bring about the disintegration of the Atlantic alliance."

Then the council "reaffirmed its conviction that peace and security must be the paramount aim of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization," and it added that "improvements must continually be sought in the quality of NATO forces and to ensure that they have equipment which is always up to date so that, in the event of attack, they can act as a shield behind which the full strength of the member countries can be rapidly mobilized."

Acting Chief Justice Harold J. Warner Wednesday announced assignment orders in which Circuit Judge William G. East was assigned to Klamath county to try three cases and to Jackson county in the case of Gerald Macomber, a convict, against Clarence T. Gladden, warden of the Oregon state penitentiary.

Circuit Judge Forrest K. Hubbard of Baker was assigned to Multnomah county for a period from December 14 to January 4, 1954, and Judge E. H. Howell of Canyon City to Lake county for two cases.

Court Holds

"A foster home has its place," Latourette continued, "and, under some circumstances is a very important adjunct to society, but it is not the place to have such as Dee Ann harbored, with children coming and going, when her mother's home is available."
Alvin Stalter is required to pay $40 a month for the child's support, and costs are awarded to Mrs. Stalter, who was the applicant.
Case Reversed

In his opinion, Justice Rossman in a suit affecting the validity of a tax foreclosure, Judge Ralph Holman was reversed and the case remanded to the lower court for retrial.

The lower court held with William G. Murphy, the plaintiff, that the proceedings against Clackamas county and the Jones Lumber company were void as to the property and Murphy's title acquired by deed from private parties in 1944, was valid. A contract of sale of the land had been entered between Clackamas county and the lumber company after tax foreclosure.

In his opinion, Justice Rossman held that the circuit court should have granted the plaintiff's motion for judgment on the pleadings.

"It seems apparent," said Justice Rossman, "that a ruling upon the validity of the county's tax foreclosure suit affects many properties. We do not think its validity should be determined from the meager, confusing and contradictory information which the pleadings in this case submit."

Other Decisions
Ellen G. Eld, appellant vs. Charles E. Larsen and Nane E. Larsen. Appeal from Multnomah county, Circuit Judge James W. Crawford, judgment reversed. Damage action for personal injuries resulting two-car collision. Opinion by Chief Justice Earl C. Latourette.

Edward S. Harriman cross appellant vs. Linn county and W. E. Rhodes, appellant. Appeal from Linn county, Circuit Judge Victor Olliver. Suit to quiet title. Justice George Rossman affirmed trial court which held valid foreclosure suit by Linn county.

three items. A charge of having no operator's license was also filed against him.
Trapp also told officers he had been paroled from the prison once after serving a year of his three-year conviction from Jackson county for auto theft, but was returned to the prison a year later when he violated parole by leaving the state. He later escaped, he said, but was recaptured.
The prison authenticated Trapp's story, reporting that he had been received there on May 1, 1950; paroled May 9, 1951; returned to the prison May 6, 1952, for the parole violation, and escaped August 15, 1952, from a bean picking crew at the prison bean yard. He was recaptured the same day, however, they noted. He was sentenced to an additional year for escape. His release Saturday was upon completion of his full sentence.

Owner Frohman said he would sign a complaint on the auto theft charge and Portland police said they would be down Wednesday to pick Trapp up to face charges there.

A prison aid commented that if Trapp was received back there in time, he could get his look at the outside while still in the full glory of its Christmas decor.
