Salem Women Aid Work at Hospital

Christmas means presents and presents mean problems at the Oregon state hospital. The 3200 patients there receive many more gifts than the personnel of the institution's mail room can handle alone. So again this year, volunteers of the Red Cross are helping Mrs. Nadine Fargher, the matron, and her assistant, Mrs. Christine Fradwood, in taking care of the presents.

Each package received at the hospital must be opened, its contents inventoried and the sender notified that the package has been received. Then the package must be re-wrapped for the ward Christmas trees.

Starting on December 14, the Red Cross Gray Ladies regularly assigned to the hospital instead of the wards and with the assistance of other volunteers will work until December 23.

Gray Ladies at the state hospital are Mrs. Roy Ostrin, Mrs. J. S. Boudreau, Mrs. Charles Musser, Mrs. A. E. Ullman, Mrs. B. V. Radcliff, Mrs. Robert M. Needham, Mrs. Wallace Cowan, Mrs. Clifford Robinson and Mrs. C. E. Jaqua. Other Red Cross volunteers are Mrs. Robert J. Herrall, Mrs. Harold M. Olinger, Gray Ladies; Mrs. James T.
