GOP Policy Group to Meet

Washington (AP)—The Republican National Committee will meet here February 5-6 to plan for the 1954 congressional campaign and, perhaps, to talk about patronage gripes and finances.

The session, starting on the same day as the party's annual Lincoln Day celebration, will be the first since Leonard W. Hall was elected chairman last April 10.

Hall said Sunday there is "nothing special" on the agenda, but that he thinks the committee should meet at least once a year.

Control of congress is at stake in next November's elections.

Cardinal Nears End of Tour

Seoul (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, who has talked to an estimated 24,000 servicemen in the past six days, neared the end of his Christmas tour of Korea Monday.

The white-haired prelate will spend his final two days touring Marine installations and visiting ships of the Navy's Task Force 77.

"The boys did a wonderful job while they were fighting and they are wonderful as they keep watch through the truce," the cardinal said on his return from a visit to front line positions.

Cardinal Spellman has spent the past three Christmas seasons in Korea.

2 Named on Zoning Board

Mayor Al Loucks announced Sunday that he had appointed John H. Carkin and Stuart Compton on the Salem Planning and Zoning Commission.

Carkin, who is president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, and who recently retired from state service as director of the rail transportation division of the Public Utilities Commission, will fill the unexpired term of Frank M. Guerin on the zoning commission. Guerin, freight agent for the Southern Pacific Company, resigned because of a transfer to Oakland, Calif.

Compton, who is on the official staff of Pioneer Trust Company will fill the unexpired term of Milton L. Meyers. Meyers was granted leave of absence from the commission about a year ago and Mrs. Gertrude F. Lodbell has served since as his substitute.

Other appointive members of the commission are W. W. Rosebraugh, chairman; Robert Stanley, who was recently reappointed; Hedda Swart, Robert Powell and V. D. McMullen.

Rosebraugh, who has served continuously on the commission for 28 years, had talked of retiring, but the mayor said he had changed his mind and would remain a member. Rosebraugh said his decision was influenced by the loss of two other experienced members and that he hoped to see the new zoning code through its "shake-down" period.
