Warned of No Special Favors

Tribe Members Would Be on Same Footing As Other Citizens

By JAMES D. OLSON
Governor Paul L. Patterson Monday warned members of the Klamath Indian tribal council that if legislation now pending in Congress removing federal control and benefits from the tribe, the members of the tribe would be on the same footing as any other citizen and could not expect special privileges.

Boyd Jackson, a member of the tribal council had told the governor's committee on Indian affairs that his people expected some property tax exemptions as well as income tax exemptions for older members of the tribe.
Want Waiting Period

Jackson also said that the members of the tribe wanted a waiting period between the time that the government relinquishes control of the tribe until the members are on their own, in order to better prepare themselves for self-management.

Governor Patterson said that he had serious doubts if the legislature could be convinced that one set of citizens, regardless of what the set is composed of, should have special privileges.

No State Machinery

"There is no state machinery to take over the Indians and attempt to perform in the manner the federal government is doing," the governor added. "I don't believe that the legislature could be inclined to set up a state department of Indian affairs."

It was brought out at the meeting that revenue derived from the sale of timber by members of
