Dora Fanning Died Saturday

Mrs. Dora L. Fanning, who several years ago suffered a stroke and has been in ill health since, died Saturday at a local hospital.

A resident of Salem for the past 33 years, Mrs. Fanning was born January 4, 1887, in Brooklyn, N.Y. In 1904 she was married to Bert Fanning, who died in 1933. The Fannings lived in East Orange, N. J., for several years and then moved to San Jose, Calif. They came to Salem in 1921.

Mrs. Fanning was a member of the Lutheran church in New York and was also a member of the Salem Chapter of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Alma A. Goss and Miss Edith Fanning, both of Salem; a son, Warren A. Fanning of Salem; a sister, Mrs. Agnes Scherwendick of Long Island, N.Y.; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Clough-Barrick chapel Wednesday, January 6 at 10:30 a.m. with Rev. Louis E. White officiating. Concluding services will be in Mt. Crest Abbey Mausoleum.

Foot New Snow At Timberline

A foot of new snow fell overnight at Timberline Lodge and motorists traveling to that resort were required to use chains.

Chains also were advised at Government Camp, with six inches of new snow; Warm Springs Junction, with two inches; Willamette pass, two inches; Chemult, three inches; Ochoee Summit, three inches; Austin, two inches; and Seneca, one inch.

Seven inches of new snow fell at Santiam pass but it was slush and the pack was reaging up. Packed snow was well sanded at Bly and Burns.

Spots of ice were reported at Bend, Klamath Falls, Brothers, Meacham and Basque.

BULGARIA FINISHES
ISTANBUL (AP)—Assisted by more than a score of Soviet experts, Bulgaria has completed the new "Lenin Steel Works" at Dimitrovo, outside of Sofia. Radio Sofia broadcasts of opening ceremonies referred to the new plant as a "giant factory" which took 56,000 tons of concrete in the building.

The broadcast said a train of railway cars 470 miles long would be required to carry away the earth dug out at the site.

Yet the initial capacity was listed at only 50,000 tons of steel and 40,000 tons of iron products annually.

Explorer Scouts Back From Mt. Hood

Twelve Explorer Scouts of Troop 16 returned to Salem Sunday evening from a three-day outing to the Mt. Hood area.

In the annual outing, the Explorers went skiing, tobogganing and hiking and visited Government Camp and Timberline lodge. They stayed in a private cabin near Government Camp and found their trail out blocked with 10 inches of fresh snow one morning, they reported.

They were accompanied on the trip by Post Advisor Lou Amort and Scout Committeeman Gus Harrison.

Dogs Rescued in Fire at Land Home

Fire destroyed a davenport and several trophies won by five Pekinese show dogs at the G. Don Land home, 1188 North Fourth street, Sunday morning, but firemen rescued the valuable dogs unharmed.

An estimated $350 loss was suffered in the fire from the damage to the davenport, trophies and two walls which were charred by the flames and heat, firemen said.

Four of the dogs were found crowded in a special entrance way from the living room to an exercise yard. The other was in a box nearby, firemen said. The fire was discovered by Elmer Matheson, a tenant of a basement apartment in the house, and was also turned in by a neighbor Mrs. Perry Bartlemay, 415 Market street. The lands were at church at the time of the blaze.

Lincoln County Opens Business in Newport

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lincoln County's government officially opened in Newport Monday. A weekend shift from Toledo, the old county seat, was completed and most offices were in the remodeled old high school gymnasium, a temporary site.

Lincoln became the tenth among Oregon's 36 to change county seats. It did it by a vote of the people, a procedure which was scorned in some of the early day shifts.

The earliest moonlight assistance given in the transfer of county seats was in 1868. Baker County then was moving its seat of government from the mining camp of Auburn to the town of Baker City, six miles to the east. There was fear that the change would not go unopposed, so a crowd of Baker residents made an early morning trip to Auburn, loaded the court records in a wagon, and completed the change by sun-up.

That was a relatively simple procedure. Some changes, particularly in Union and Umatilla counties, were complex affairs. And there were some that were inevitable as time brought changes. Until the Lincoln County change, the most recent on Oregon was removal of the Jackson County seat from the pioneer town of Jacksonville to Medford. That was in 1927, leaving Jacksonville to its present role as chiefly a museum city.

At one time Grants Pass was in Jackson County but in 1885 it was moved into Josephine County—and became county seat, to boot. The original county seat was Kerbyville, which had a variety of spellings such as Kirbyville and Kirbeyville. It also changed its name at one time to Napoleon and finally wound up as Kerby. That changeable town, 33 miles south of Grants Pass, lost its courthouse in 1885 when the Legislature changed county boundaries and provided that the people should vote on a county seat. The people chose the newly annexed city of Grants Pass.

One of the most unusual transfers in Oregon county history was that which gave Pendleton the county seat. When Umatilla County was formed, the Legislature provided that Marshall Station should be the site until an election gave the people a voice. The election, in 1864, gave Umatilla City—also known as Umatilla Landing—the victory and the following year the records and offices were moved there. The Legislature of 1868 was prevailed on to reopen the matter and allow the people to decide whether they liked Umatilla City—or would prefer some vague place off to the east.

Vagueness won. And the county court after thinking the matter through, decided that Pendleton was the right spot. There wasn't any Pendleton then, in 1869, except in the mind of the county judge, F. W. Bailey. It turned out that his house, on the Moses Goodwin farm, was his idea of a fine county seat town named Pendleton.

So he whisked the records to his house. Umatilla City, outraged, sued and he had to take them back until there was some place better than a farm house to keep them. In a jig time he and Goodwin built a courthouse, moved the records again, and that time made it stick.

There was another case of records-grabbing when McMinnville won out over Lafayette in Yamhill County. But it, too, won at the polls as well and took over legally in 1889.

Tomorrow: A double reverse in Union County.

Bank Offices Will Expand

The United States National Bank was issued a building permit Monday for alterations of the second floor of the Ladd & Bush Building, which will give the bank the use of all space on the top floor except two offices on the Commercial Street side.

The cost of the alteration is estimated at $38,600. The bank has been using part of that floor for some time. The bookkeeping and interior departments of the bank will be expanded with completion of the work.

Other permits today: Consolidated Food Producers, to alter cannery at 1105 North Front, $6500. L. M. Hughes, to alter a one-story dwelling at 940 Cascade Drive, $80. Mrs. Jessie Boedigheimer, to reroof a wodshead at 480 North 23rd, $30.

Check Made on Road Project

The work of improving the South River road came a bit nearer to reality Monday when the county court turned over to the engineers and surveyor description of 23 pieces of property that will be needed in connection with the project.

The pieces are all small in size but are needed to widen the curves and straighten other portions of the road which is extensively used.

The next step be that of reaching an agreement with the property owners concerned, most of whom have petitioned the county court for the improvement.

The work of widening and straightening the road will start at the south city limits of Salem and extend to the Robert community.

Surveyor to Check Drive Improvements

The county surveyor was asked to check petitions covering the proposed improvement of Candlewood drive and Pleasant-view drive after the county court received a letter from W. W. McKinney, who is interested in the project.

The two streets are located in the South Keizer road district and their improvement, if made, will come under the provisions of the county Banerott road act.

The petitions asking the improvement, filed several weeks ago, will be checked to determine whether the property owners constitute the majority needed to cover the situation.

Retired Engineer Passes at Home Here

Death Saturday evening claimed Van W. Carrall, retired civil engineer and late resident of 4595 Battle Creek Road, Carrall, who had been ill for several years died at his home.

He was born in Decatur, Iowa April 13, 1892, and for many years prior to moving to Salem in 1936 was employed in Nebraska and Colorado. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cora E. Carrall, Salem; daughters, Mary Carroll of Denver, Colo., Mrs. Alice Coons and Mrs. Jean Welliver, both of Salem; sons, Warden, Donald and Van W. Carrall, Jr., all of Salem; brothers, Ray Carroll of Denver, Colo., and Lawrence Carroll of Kansas City, Kan.; sisters, Willa Carroll of Denver and Ruth Hartman of Boulder, Colo.

Funeral services will be held at the W. T. Rigdon company chapel Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.
