Gates Women Soon to See Hope Realized

Gates—After eight years of effort on the part of members of the Gates Womens club to raise funds to build a community house for Gates, they are about to see their dream come true.

The building under construction will soon reach the stage where it can be used for club meetings and social affairs. Much yet remains to be done before completion but due to progress made in the last few days by donated labor the members of the club will continue to work with renewed enthusiasm.

During the holidays a crew of local men donated their labor to finish the ceiling of the large recreation room and to lay the floor. Windows and doors were also cased. The fireplace was completed less than a year ago. The smaller club room has been finished and in use as a city hall for the past two years. The kitchen, rest rooms and outside finish are yet to be completed.

The efforts of Mrs. W. R. Hutchesson, chairman of the building committee, were directed during the holidays to securing volunteer labor and to arrange the serving of hot meals for the laborers.

Among those donating their time the past week were Dick Parker and Ray word, who directed the work. Pat Adams, Phillip Hess, Glenn Gordon, Burrell Cole,

Charles Cornwell Selected Woodburn Junior Citizen

Woodburn—Charles B. Cornwell, manager of the Ringo-Cornwell funeral chapel at Woodburn, has been selected as Woodburn's first junior citizen for 1953 by three judges, composed of Woodburn business and professional men.
