and Senat-lobbies to enable members to keep up to date on weather conditions at home. Secretary to me that keeping current with the frequently unpredictable Washington weather would absorb all of the time that he could devote to his duties.

Ever since 1888 there has been a 32-foot blank space in the historical files in the Capitol building that tell of the New York artist, Allyn Cox, finished the panels to complete the frieze which depicts American historical events from the discovery of America by Columbus to the birth of aviation. The aviation mural was one completed by Mr. Cox, and the others were the Civil War and the Spanish-American War panels. Also for the first time since his frieze was started by Constantino Brumidi in 1877, the entire series of frescoes was given a cleaning. Congressional members will find many other interesting facts about the frieze when they give up an idea of the activity that has gone on during the vacation period.

The first Oregonians to call at Interior for the beginning of the new year was Arthur V. Carlson, of Portland, many times a business caller at state office. In Salem after completing some business for Oregon lumber interest in New York, he came to Washington to present the gift of two Peace roses to the President and Mrs. Eisenhower from the Royal Rosarians.

To tie on the subject of Oregon gifts, I must tell you that one of the thrills of the New Year's start was a live pound tin of salmon, a gift from the Oregon Fish Commission. Some Washingtonians learned about when talking of eastern and western crabs.

Sincerely, Peg
