By DAVE BARROWS
Willamette university made its three Northwest conference victories in a row last night here as it frolicked to a 100-79 conquest of College of Idaho.

Willamette, the only unbeaten club in the circuit, showed why it is considered now to be a contender for the title which has eluded the Bearcats since the 1951-52 season.

The dramatic quest for 100 points came from the crowd, not from Willamette generalissimo John Lewis, who cleared the bench with the score 91-76 and let the lads play who had done their playing mentally from the bench previously.

The last time Willamette hit the century mark was in the 1951-53 season, 103-69 over Linfield, and in the 1951-52 year, 105-62 over Lewis and Clark.

It was a substitute guard, Dale Gustafson, who gave out with a display of shooting as he tanked the last seven points and single-handedly, almost, pulled the team up to the 100 mark with about five seconds remaining. He got an assist from an interception by Wes Malcolm, and fans roared their approval.

Contributing an unknown quantity was the fouling out of College of Idaho's two scoring stars, R. C. Owens and George Makini, in the third quarter. Owens, after a rattle-dazzle performance of ball handling and shooting, got his fifth foul with only 2:30 gone. Makini, the freshman flash from Hawaii, joined Owens two minutes later.

With them out, Willamette outscored the Coyotes 25-16 in the third quarter and added 31 sizzling points in the fourth quarter. Pouring in the most points were Jerry McCallister, Neal Causbie, Dick Hoy, Bill Colvard and Pete Reed, but it was McCallister's uncanny jump shots in the third quarter which caught the fans' eyes.

The first quarter was an even affair, with the Bearcats leading at the buzzer, 16-17. Tom Gooding got nine of his 13 in this frame and held Owens to four points.

Captain Hoy, forward, got hot in the second stanza and dumped in 14 from every angle, while Owens earned six for C. of I. This gave the Bearcats a 44-37 lead at the halftime rest.

Scoring honors went to Hoy and McCallister with 20 each. Reed got 18 and Gooding 13. For the losers, Owens and Dick Sprans each cornered 16. Up to last night, Owens, a Negro sophomore, had been averaging 22.2 and was leading small college rebounders with 26.1 per game. He snagged 16 rebounds last night.

In the preliminary, the Bearkittens defeated the local YMCA team, 63-56. Bill Turley was high with 14 for the winners and Wally Unruh, YMCA forward, was worth 22 points.

Next Saturday the Bearcats will meet Linfield at McMinnville, and on Feb. 5 they will play their next home game, against Lewis and Clark.

Three bowling teams representing Mid-West brewers finished among the first four teams in the 1953 ABC tournament.

Dallas to Play Estacada Tonight in VWL Header

Dallas Dragons travel to Estacada tonight for one of the leading battles in Willamette Valley league basketball. The Dragons clipped Sandy, 53-43, Friday, and dropped Silverton, 57-50.

Estacada has lost to Molalla, 62-52, after subduing Canby, 73-46, in the opening round.

Dallas will have a height advantage over the Rangers. Herb Brandl continues to head the smooth-working Dragon five, being one of three lettermen back from last year's VWL champions who finished fifth in the state.

Mt. Angel, sharing the VWL lead with Dallas, will entertain the Molalla Indians. The Preps racked up Canby, 51-33, in a Friday game while the Indians upended Estacada. Big problem will be to bottle up Stan Childers, Molalla guard who has scored 50 points in two league games.

Silverton will be after its second win against Canby, having defeated Woodburn, 53-43. Woodburn will travel to Sandy. The Pioneers edged Woodburn, 27-18, in the VWL jamboree, if that is any indication.

Northwest Wrestlers Not So Tough—Gorky

The strong-armed George Dusette will team with Carl Engstrom tonight to try to show the Gorky brothers they are wrong in asserting, "Competition in the Northwest is not so tough."

Granted that it takes a combination of toughness and trickery to beat the Russians, Soldat and Ivan Gorky, Dusette and Engstrom are handicapped by being classified as decent guys.

The Armory card will start at 8:30 with a special event matching Ivan Kameroff, the "bear-hug" professional, and Danno McDonald.

In the semi-final session of fastones who dish out the action will be "The Great" Yamato, master of the sleeper hold and judo, against Chester Wallick.

It was Soldat Gorky who piped up after last week's hard-headed triumph over Engstrom and David Jones: "I didn't even have to use my wolfpen." His wolfpen, said to be a Siberian method of killing wolves caught in traps, is aimed at the throat with the shoulder.

The Gorkys finally won when Ivan tossed Engstrom through the ropes, striking Soldat's head and knocking Engstrom out.

Team of ROTC Drillers Perform

The Mitchell Marchers, Willamette's ROTC drill team, entertained basketball fans at halftime last night with a smart precision drill with rifles.

Team commander is William Sundstrom and drill team leader is Bill Van Horn, Roseburg. M/Sgt. Robert Harman is Air Force ROTC adviser. The 24-man team of three squads, executed various orthodox and unorthodox routines which included silent manuals of arms and ended with the Queen Ann salute.
