SEATTLE — The lumber-laden lumberjack, a steam schooner, jettisoned its deck cargo of 20,000 board feet of lumber yesterday when it developed a dangerous list 47 miles northwest of Coos Bay, Ore.

The Coast Guard said dropping of the cargo restored the 2,333 ton vessel to near normal keel. The cutter Bonham was standing by to give aid if needed.

The 253 foot ship is owned by the Owen-Parks Lumber Co., Los Angeles.

Hoffman Wins Suit Against Government

PORTLAND — L. H. Hoffman, Portland contractor, won a federal court order Thursday for the federal government to pay him $133,000.

Hoffman said he was forced to overpay income taxes by that amount for the years 1944-47 because the government held he was the sole owner of his business. The court allowed Hoffman's claim that his four children were legal partners and shared in the profits.

Highberger Mill Does Not Make Flour

Lee Highberger, operator of the Highberger feed mill at Aumsville, says he enjoyed reading a recent feature story in the Capital Journal about that mill, but wants to make one correction.

The mill no longer manufactures flour, Highberger says, and its output now is dairy, poultry and turkey feed. Flour has not been manufactured at the mill since 1938.

Highberger has run the mill since 1925, and was first associated in its operation with his father, the late Theodore Highberger, who died in 1944.
