WASHINGTON to — Secretary price supports are not the way to oi Agriculture Benson said Monday President Eisenhower still is committed to 100 per cent parity for farmers in the market place and is working for it.

But Benson also told members but Benson also told members in the price supports are not the way to get full parity income for farmers. In his first appearance before a congressional committee this session, he vigorously defended the President's farm program whose key feature, flexible price supports are not the way to oil Agriculture for farmers. nuch opposition.
Renson also told the senator

Benson also told the senators that Eisenhower soon will ask Congress for authority to use up to one billion dollars worth of surplus farm products to help strengthen the economies of friendly coun-commodities—wheat, cotton, corn rice, peanuts and tobacco—but this rice, peanuts and tobacco- but this expires at the end of the year, and a flexible provision for 75 to 90 percent of parity is scheduled to go into effect. Parity is a standard said by law to provide farmers a fair price in relation to the cost of things they must buy.

Under Eisenhower's recommendations, the flexible provision would be allowed to operate. Many farm state lawmakers want the mandatory 90 per cent level extended, however, and contend they have the votes to do it.
