

Power Output Tops Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Electrical energy distributed throughout the nation last week topped the nine-billion-kilowatt-hour mark for the first time in the 72-year history of the electric industry.

Edison Electric Institute said bitter cold weather helped to shove output in the week ended Jan. 16 to the record high of 9,013,905,000 kilowatt-hours. This was an 11 per cent advance from the 8,121,357,000 kilowatt-hours in the same week a year ago.

All sections of the country showed gains last week over the same week of 1953, with advances most pronounced in the Pacific Northwest and the Southeast. The Pacific Northwest was up 31.1 per cent and the Southeast 22.2 per cent.

Blizzard Heads Into Mid-West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another blizzard swept across sections of the Rocky Mountains and Plains States Wednesday and headed into the nation's mid-continent.

Temperatures dropped to nearly 40 degrees below zero in Montana as the icy blasts from Canada whistled across the border and pushed southward into the Central Plains.

Snow and strong winds accompanied the arctic air and falls of from 3 to 6 inches of snow were in prospect for many areas. The snow belt extended from Minnesota southwestward through Wyoming.

Readings of sub-zero were general across Montana and the Dakotas with the zero line extended from around Duluth, Minn., southwestward into Western Nebraska.

Montana was the coldest, with low readings early Wednesday of -37 at Cut Bank, and -35 at Havre, Mont. Other lows included -31 at Dickinson, N. D.; -19 at Sheridan, Wyo.; -9 at Aberdeen, S. D., and -5 at Chadron, Neb.

It was mild, but foggy and wet, over most of the mid-continent and in wide areas in the East and South.

The northwest quarter of the nation was the only area with a significant amount of fair skies.

Moderate rain continued over Southern California.

Your 1953 Income Tax No. 5 Should Married Persons File Joint or Separate Returns?

The law provides a special tax rate for any individual who qualifies as a "Head of a Household."

If you are not married (or are legally separated) at the end of your taxable year, you qualify as a "Head of a Household" provided you furnish over half the cost of maintaining a home which during the entire taxable year, except for temporary absences, was occupied as a principal residence both by yourself and by:

- (a) Any person for whom you are entitled to an exemption, or (b) Your unmarried child, grandchild, or stepchild, even though such child is not a dependent.

If you are married to a nonresident alien at any time during your taxable year but otherwise meet the foregoing tests, you are considered a "Head of a Household" since you are not permitted to file a joint return.

If your wife or husband (not a nonresident alien) dies during the taxable year, you do not qualify as a "Head of a Household" since in such case you are generally entitled to file a joint return.

If you claim the status of the "Head of a Household," you are required to fill in Schedule J on page 2 of your return.

The cost of maintaining a household includes expenditures for such items as:

1. Maintenance of the dwelling and premises. For example, rent (or if the taxpayer owns his home, real estate taxes and interest on a mortgage on the home), insurance on the dwelling and premises, repairs, upkeep, and domestic help.
2. Utilities. For example, gas, telephone, electricity, water and fuel.
3. Food consumed in the home.

The cost of maintaining a household shall be computed without regard to the value of personal services rendered by a member of the household, including the taxpayer.

The above expenditures are to be used only for determining whether you are entitled to the use of the head of household tax rate. Do not claim them as deductions on your return unless they are otherwise allowable.
