

Some Notations . . .

By M. L. F.

To Salem friends Wednesday was a most appropriate day for Mrs. Oswald Lord, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, Human Rights Commission, to visit here . . . Mrs. Lord lectured on the Willamette university campus last evening . . . Salem folks first met Mrs. Lord when she headed the women's division in the national Citizens for Eisenhower committee, and Wednesday was the first anniversary of the inauguration of President Eisenhower . . . Mrs. Lord worked throughout the country in the Eisenhower campaign and made many friends in Oregon who have kept in contact with her since . . . She was a key worker in the Eisenhower headquarters at the Republican National convention in Chicago in 1952, several Oregonians visiting her at that time . . . And so it was an "anniversary occasion" for Mrs. Lord and Salem friends . . . the social anniversary event during her visit was the party for which Mr. and Mrs. Leon Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Orpitt and Jess Gard, the latter three of Portland, entertained last evening at the Perry home on Fairmount Hill following the lecture of Mrs. Lord . . . For Mrs. Lord, Mr. Orpitt and Mr. Gard, Republican national committeeman from Oregon, it was another anniversary, too—all three had been together at a party in Washington, D. C., just a year ago last night following the Eisenhower inauguration . . . Mrs. Perry and Mr. Orpitt were both active in the Oregon Citizens for Eisenhower group . . . Few public figures have met who is as gracious and friendly as Mrs. Lord, and has such charm and ease as she in meeting and chatting with large groups of friends . . . One of the personal allies of the 1952 Republican convention in Chicago impressing this writer was Mrs. Lord and the vast amount of detail for which she was responsible at the Eisenhower headquarters, and the calmness and efficiency with which she did her job . . . The same enthusiasm, the same sincerity, the same thoroughness are expressed in her new assignment with the United Nations . . . During the party Wednesday evening, as a dedication for the beautiful new recreation room at the Perry home, Mayor A. W. Loucks took over for a little ceremony to present Mrs. Lord with a key to the city of Salem . . . Mrs. Lord was impressed with the size of the key . . . She said her teen-age sons were wondering about all of the keys she was receiving in cities, and now, after visiting Salem, she had a "real key" to show them . . . At Long Beach she said the key was the same size of a regular door one . . . Among invited guests to the Perry home were Governor and Mrs. Paul L. Patterson and Mayor and Mrs. A. W. Loucks and others active with Mrs. Lord in the Citizens for Eisenhower groups — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Needham, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Phillips, Sr., George Haley, Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Pagenstecher, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. de Weese, Mrs. James W. Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hoffman, all of Eugene . . . Preceding the lecture by Mrs. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Needham were hosts at their North 21st street home for an informal open house and buffet for Portland friends coming to Salem to greet Mrs. Lord and hear her lecture . . . It, too, was a happy reunion occasion for Citizens for Eisenhower workers of the 1952 campaign, including several from Salem who had worked with the group, and "happy anniversary" greetings were exchanged by those who worked so hard for the Eisenhower election . . .

OSC NOTES Miss Tarem In Race for 'Miss OSC'

By ALICE LEHMAN (Capital Journal Correspondent) Oregon State College, Corvallis (Special) — Two busy evenings are in store for Staters this weekend. On the agenda for Friday is the Independent students annual show titled "Mayhem." This year the show is in the form a musical comedy and the name is "Flattall State." Always of interest at this show, is the crowning of "Miss OSC," who is chosen by popular vote by the students at large. One of the five finalists for the title is Eevi Tarem from Salem. Eevi is representing Winston House and is a sophomore here at OSC. Other finalists are Barbara Peterson, Tri-Delt; Saily Jo Scott, Kappa Alpha Theta; Sue Gilbaugh, Kappa Kappa Gamma; and Sue Skelton, Alpha Chi Omega. Saturday night's plans include the annual Mortar Board Ball. Members of Mortar Board, senior women's service and scholastic honorary, are the sponsors of the event. Music will be provided by Bill DeSouza and his 10-piece band . . . Sorority and fraternity initiations are beginning to take the spotlight now that winter term, rushing is over. Salemites recently initiated into Gamma Phi Beta, national social sorority, include Barbara Brewer, Marilyn Olson, Roberta Sears and Doris Starrett. Two fraternities, Theta Chi and Phi Sigma Kappa, recently initiated Salem men. The Theta Chi initiated Dave Harra and George Caspar while the Phi Sigs initiated Herb Singleton . . . Salemites were well represented at the recent WRA and WAA state convention at Linfield. General chairman for the convention was Marcia Seiber, a Salem high graduate and now a junior at Linfield college. Mary and Sophia Polales were there representing Willamette university and Kaija Lietuvis and Alice Lehman attended from Oregon State college . . . Last week we mentioned the article to be carried in "Life" magazine on the OSC basketball team. If you will check the January 18 issue on page 47 you will find a picture of Larry Paulus seated in the lounge car of the train as they were travelling east for the Christmas series. Larry is a graduate of Salem High and as a sophomore has made the well known OSC varsity team . . . Religious emphasis week will begin January 24 and last through January 28. Nine religious leaders across the country will be at this time. Committee members from Salem include Chanan and Celia Weaver . . . Building in the Pacific Northwest established the second highest total on record in 1953, according to statistics just released by the Equitable Savings & Loan Assn. of Portland. Total for Washington, Oregon, Idaho and British Columbia was $281,539,805, compared with $261,486,274 in 1952. The increase was 8 percent. Oregon's $81,003,559 was 4 percent above 1952. Washington showed a 6 percent drop. British Columbia was the big gainer with a lusty 72 percent jump. Salem's $5,910,411 led the Oregon cities outside of Portland, though it was 34 percent below Salem's tremendous $8,989,333 figure for 1952. Salem's 2,779,879 for dwellings led Eugene's $1,092,500 by a large margin, although it was 9 percent below Salem's 1952 figure. Springfield was third and Albany fourth in upstate building totals. Last September 27 three teenage Salem girls left their homes to go to an afternoon movie. Their parents and acquaintances in Salem haven't seen them since. The parents of two of the girls prefer not to make their names public, though the names of the girls are on police "missing persons" records. The parents of the other girl, however, believe publicity may help find their daughter. She is Gail Westin, 16, and the parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Westin, 540 North 14th. Gail and two girl friends went to the picture show in the afternoon, her father explained, but they left early, and the trail is lost except for a clue that they may have gone to Portland.
