

Another Flax Plant Goes

PORTLAND, UP—The St. Paul Flax Growers Association today announced it would liquidate its property and plant, thus reducing by one the number of few surviving plants of Oregon's once-booming flax industry.

Closure of the St. Paul plant leaves only three of the 14 plants that once made fiber flax a 25-million dollar industry in the Willamette valley. Of the three, only one, the state flax plant at the penitentiary, is in operation. The other two, co-op plants at Mt. Angel and Canby, are closed, but still solvent, waiting for improved economic conditions.

Thefts Cleared At Woodburn

A number of Woodburn burglaries and thefts were cleared Thursday by confessions of two Woodburn teen-agers, the Marion county sheriff's office reported. The two were arrested Monday by Woodburn police and a sheriff's deputy.

The two boys, ages 12 and 13, told officers that they had entered the Archie McKenzie home on three different occasions and took an estimated total of $25 to $30. They also entered the Paul Sowa machine shop twice where they took a Soap Box Derby racer and an extra set of Derby wheels and racer frame.

They entered the Woodburn Feed and Supply company mill on several occasions where they cleaned the cash register of small change and emptied the March of Dimes container, they confessed, and stole some tools from an unidentified Woodburn home.

They also admitted shoplifting from about a dozen Woodburn stores including such items as two expensive fountain pens (which they sold for $1.50 and $1.65), a box of rifle shells, a date stamp, flashlight batteries, a bike tail light and battery, a football, a toy speed boat, a jet fuel pump, a hatchet, gun sights, cigarettes.

They also admitted prowling about six to 10 cars, taking mostly flashlights. They took a billfold from one, they said. One admitted that on two occasions he

TWO-HEADED BABY AT HOME

This exclusive Indianapolis Star photo shows the world's only living two-headed baby, Donald Ray-Daniel Kay Hartley, with its parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley of Petersburg, Indiana. The five-week-old infant, which has two heads, four arms and two legs, was photographed Jan. 18, shortly after the parents and baby arrived home after child was released from Riley Hospital in Indianapolis. Picture was taken by Star staff photographer James C. Ramsey, with approval of parents. (AP Wirephoto)

Marilyn Monroe Fails to Report

Monroe has failed to meet the deadline for reporting back on the picture "Pink Tights." She and hubby Joe DiMaggio are still honeymooning somewhere in southern California but they haven't been seen at any of the Hollywood spots. Marilyn's studio late last night announced that it had extended to Jan. 25 her "vacation" from the movie. Her agent told 20th Century-Fox he doesn't know her whereabouts.
