

THREE "BIG STORY" REPORTERS TOGETHER

Three newspaper reporters who have broken into N.E.C.'s "The Big Story" got together in the Capital Journal newsroom and were photographed Saturday. They are, left to right, Mike Forbes, valley editor of the Capital Journal; Mrs. Marguerite Brown, wife of a medical student in the University of Washington, and Jim Miller, Oregon Statesman reporter here. Forbes helped to solve the murder of a sheep herder in a dry gulch near Blackfoot, Idaho. Mrs. Brown, then a reporter on the Idaho Free Press of Nampa, figured in the solution of a poison murder mystery that occurred near there. She was on nationwide radio in December, 1951, and on nationwide TV in June, 1953. Miller will be featured Sunday night at eight. The program will be heard locally over KGW. He figured in a Rosenberg murder case in 1952. "The Big Story" features each week a reporter who has played a part in untangling a major crime mystery.

Your 1953 Income Tax No. 6

For You—You, as the taxpayer, are always entitled to at least one exemption for yourself. If, at the end of your taxable year, you were blind or were 65 or older, you get two exemptions for yourself. If you were both blind and 65 or over, you get three exemptions.

For Your Wife—You get exemptions for your wife (or husband) if you and she are filing a joint return. If you file a separate return, you may claim her exemptions only if she had no income and was not claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's return for 1953. Otherwise, your wife's exemptions are like your own—one, if she was neither blind nor 65; two, if she was either blind or 65; three, if she was both blind and 65.

In Case of Death—If wife or husband died during 1953, the exemption for age or blindness is determined as of the date of death.

Proof of Blindness—If totally blind, attach a statement of such fact to the return. If partially blind, attach a statement from a qualified physician or a registered optometrist that (1) central visual acuity did not exceed 20/200 in the better eye with correcting lenses, or (2) that the widest diameter of the visual field subtends an angle no greater than 20 degrees.

Exemptions for Your Children—You get only one exemption for each dependent child or stepchild (the additional exemption for age or blindness applies only to you and your wife but not to dependents). The term "child" includes a legally adopted child and a child whose adoption was denied by a court because of mental incapacity of a surviving natural parent. The law puts very exact limitations on who is a dependent. Each child must meet all four of the following tests for the taxable year.

- 1. Did not have $600 or more gross income, and
2. Received more than one-half of his or her support from you (or from husband or wife if this is a joint return), and
3. Is not claimed as an exemption on the return of her husband (or his wife), and
4. Was either a citizen of the United States or a resident of the United States, Canada, or Mexico.

Exemptions for Your Relatives—You get one exemption for each dependent relative. The law puts very exact limitations on who may be claimed as a dependent close relative. Each must meet all five of the following tests for the taxable year:

- 1. Did not have $600 or more gross income, and
2. Received more than one-half of his or her support from you (or from husband or wife if this is a joint return), and
3. Is not claimed as an exemption on the return of her husband (or his wife), and
4. Was either a citizen of the

New Approach to Soil Fertility to Be Stressed

A new approach to soil fertility for Marion county farmers will be stressed in the free school to be conducted by the county agents office. Meetings will be held at Middle Grove school at 8 p.m. on three successive Mondays, starting January 25.

Basic principles of the whole plant nutrition cycle with particular reference to fertilizer field trials conducted on six Marion County farms during 1953 by Oregon State College research specialists will be featured according to Hollis Ottaway, county field crop specialist, who originated the school idea.

Aqueous, anhydrous and bulk method of fertilizer application will be interpreted since all three methods of use will be available to Willamette valley farmers this year, Ottaway said.

Liming and its correlation with fertilizers, drainage and cultural methods with particular attention to individual farm problems will be discussed from different angles at each meeting so that each of the three sessions will be valuable for persons who attend the whole series.

A total of 25 Willamette valley fertilizer trails will be analyzed. They include forage pasture on the farm of Howard Eggiman, Central Howell; spring oats, Roy Hagg farm, Victor Point; Alta fescue, Robert Harper, Gervais; corn, Norman Reiling, Donald; Cheung fescue, T. R. Richee, Waldo Hills; and barley, Albert Schmidt & Sons, Parkersville.

Commercial fertilizer use has increased roughly parallel with rising yields per acre on farms of U. S. During 1953 Oregon farmers applied 130,000 tons of fertilizer exclusive of lime, rock phosphate and gypsum. In 1910 they used but 2,500 tons.

This is still puny compared to North Carolina farmers who last year applied 1,800,000 tons, double the amount used in the entire 11 Western states. Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina each used more than a million tons last year.

For the 13th consecutive year U. S. farm use of fertilizer increased during 1953, as 18 1/2 million tons of material was poured on soil to produce more on fewer acres.

At the same time the available plant food in fertilizers has been steadily improving, it now equals the amount of total fertilizers applied in 1932. Average analysis last year was 24 per cent plant food, five years earlier it averaged 20.06 per cent.

Nitrogen, phosphorus and potash are the principal plant nutrients in commercial fertilizers, the most common mixture throughout the U.S. being in the proportions of 3-12-12.

The West has great potentials in all three nutrients. Electric power and natural gas offer

Albany Thespians to Try New Technique

ALBANY — Something new here in theatrical features is planned by the Albany Little Theater group, it was announced Friday by James Johnston, president of the local amateur play producing organization.

The group is planning, Johnston said, to inaugurate the arena style of play, which is enacted in the center of the audience instead of on conventional stage.

Tentatively scheduled is the comedy "Curious Savage," which will be held sometime in March.

The 94,000 accidental deaths in the United States in 1953 were about 2,000 fewer than those of 1952.

Bill Designed to Aid New Fish Markets

WASHINGTON — Rep. Knox (R-Mich.) has introduced a bill intended to raise more than 2 1/2 million dollars for an educational program to develop new markets for fishery products.

The bill would authorize the Interior Department to spend for this purpose 30 per cent of the money collected in import duties on foreign fishery products. Last year the total collected was $8,356,000, Knox said.
