

Special Election On Grid System Demanded

By STEPHEN A. STONE

After a public hearing Monday night it was pretty clear that the only way a decision will be reached whether Salem keeps its one-way traffic grid will be by vote of the people.

Whether this vote will be in May or November is a question, but it looks dark for a vote in May.

There are two ways to put it on the ballot. One is by resolution and ordinance passed by the City Council. This could put it on the ballot as a special election measure in May.

Another way is by initiative petition of the people. Under the law this method can not put it on the ballot until November.

Something was said about such a petition having so much weight that the council would put it up to a vote in May, but there is nothing certain about that.

Two of the speakers at the hearing flatly asked the council to put the question on the May ballot. One was A. R. McFarland, chairman of the Citizens Committee for a Reasonable Grid System. The other was L. F. LeGarie, Court Street restaurant owner, who was neutral on the grid question, but who said it was of so much importance that the council should put it on the ballot and save the people the trouble and expense of circulating petitions.

Nate Steinbock said he believed the council would let the people express themselves. The hearing Monday night was lopsided. Eleven speakers appeared against the grid system. Only one spoke for it. That was Elmer Amundson, member of a special committee appointed by former Mayor R. L. Ellstrom to study traffic.

"We investigated many months," said Amundson, "debated it for six months and then took a year to adopt the grid system. As for the 1200 names on the anti-grid petition, we can't permit the tail to wag the dog."

Al Mefford listed all the arguments of inconvenience, confusion and hazard, and then offered four solutions that he believed possible. They were:

1. Outright discard of the grid system.
2. Run Highway "2" straight out of town on Center Street instead of running it twice across the city. This, he said, would relieve most of State Street, also 12th from State to Court, Court from 12th to Capitol, Capitol from Court to Marion, Cottage from Marion to State; also the intersections at 12th and State, 12th and Court, Capitol and Court, Capitol and Chemeketa, Marion and Cottage, Cottage and Chemeketa, Cottage and Court, and Cottage and State.

3. Urge the State Highway Department to complete the bypass and take the through traffic off Commercial and Liberty.

4. Enforce existing traffic and parking laws.

He finished his argument by declaring "That anything so unnecessary, so disliked, and criticized by so many people as this grid system is not good for the city of Salem."

"In as much," he added, "as a majority of the council say they are right and that a majority of the people are with them, we challenge you to put this on the May ballot and let the people speak. We will gladly abide by the majority rule."

T. H. Tomlinson said the grid system bottlenecks traffic on Liberty Street because it is the only northbound one-way street that goes clear through the city, and declared one-way movement on Cottage, Winter and Church unnecessary.

Other speakers against the grid were Harry Robinson, who favored it only for the arterials; Earl Cook, who said he was for a workable one-way plan; Andy Foster, who said that the whole reaction of the buying public was against it; Marval Edwards; Art Peter, restaurant owner, who said that by the grid the city is denying itself the enjoyable use of its wide streets; Mrs. T. S. Roberts; Don H. Wall; Gil Ward, who said: "Primarily Salem is a trading center, and we find that the people generally in the outlying areas are not for the grid. There are 100,000 of them, and we can't just say they can either stay away or not. We just can't jeopardize that business."

The question is complicated by the attitude of the merchants in the Capitol Shopping Center for whom W. M. Hamilton appeared.

If two-way traffic is restored on other streets, the Capitol Shopping Center wants it restored on North Capitol, he said. They were damaged, said Hamilton, when Capitol went one-way as one of the arterial couplets, but they did not complain. Now they say what is fair for one business center is fair for another.

Mayor Loucks asked for some expression from the aldermen. The only reply came from O'Hara who said, "I don't think it is before the council in the right way. It should be here by resolution. But if you want a stray vote, I would favor putting it on the ballot in May."
