WASHINGTON — Reorganization of the Bureau of Land Management to end a "concentration of operations in the Washington and regional offices" was ordered Wednesday by Secretary of the Interior McKay.

Student Makes Science Honor

Don Crothers, Salem high school senior, was announced as a final in the annual Westinghouse science talent search Wednesday.

Crothers, one of three Salem high entries, carried on research in connection with diseases of the blood, including anemia and leukemia. To enter the contest he had to write a 1,000 word essay on his subject and then complete a 24-hour test.

The first national prize is a $2,700 scholarship. Over 200 other prizes will also be given to other winners.

Crothers, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Morris K. Crothers, is 17 years old today. He plans to attend Willamette university and study for a medical career.

He is one of the top students at Salem high as he ranks first in the senior class in scholarship. Dan is a member of the varsity basketball team and golf team. He is also a photographer.

He leaves February 25 for the five-day Science Talent Institute.

Place of Food in Health Given Study

The importance of food in the health of the community was brought out at a managers food service conference held Thursday afternoon at the Senator Hotel under the sponsorship of the Marion County Department of Health.

Thomas Blair, sanitarian for the restaurant section of the Oregon State Board of Health, discussed "Common Problems of the Food Service Industry" and acted as discussion leader during the showing of pictures held typical of sanitation problems.

Miss Erna Berstecher, clinic nurse for the Marion County Department of Health stressed the "Importance of Personal Health to the Food Server," while Dr. Willard J. Stone, city-county health officer, spoke concerning "The Food Service Industry in Community Health."

William G. Hellic and Wilbur P. Green, Marion County Health Department sanitarians assisted with the discussions.

Gonzaga Glee Has Full House

MT. ANGEL — The Gonzaga University Men's Glee Club of Spokane, Wash., on their annual winter tour, presented a highly entertaining and varied program of choral music in the St. Mary's School Auditorium in Mt. Angel Tuesday evening.

A capacity filled auditorium housed a happy, responsive audience, who enjoyed every number presented. After completing their program, repeated curtain calls kept the singers on the stage for more than a half hour to delight the audience with additional musical selections.

The Glee Club presented a program of fine sacred music, as well as lively and spirited renditions of authentic Indian chants and dynamic interpretations of foreign folk music.

Traveling with the Glee Club was their famous Gonzaga Varsity Men's Quartet; Frances Cardle, pianist and Associate of the Royal Conservatory of Toronto; and guest soloist Margel Peters Ayars. Raymond Grismer was the accompanist, and Lyle W. Moore, director.

Attending the concert were many from Salem and the neighboring communities in addition to the large local crowd. The Glee Club came to Mt. Angel under the sponsorship of the local Men and Women's organizations, who took them into their homes as overnight guests.

14 Finish First Aid Class at Lebanon

LEBANON — Fourteen persons completed first aid training last week and are now qualified to teach classes to other groups. Some previously held instructor's cards and took the course to renew current cards.

The group included nine from Lebanon: Donald Benson, Dolores Christensen, Lester Jenkins, Darlene Long, Clarence Shimanek, Lawrence Penkava, Genevieve Piluso, John Simi and Raymond Workman.

Others were Oliver Butts of Albany; Roy Cook, Sweet Home; Carl Cramer, Corvallis; Vernon Todd, Mill City, and Richard Farrington, Waterloo.

South Salem

SOUTH SALEM — The South Salem Progress Club held its monthly business and social meeting at 1141 So. Commercial St., Tuesday, Jan. 26.

Following a potluck dinner election of officers was held. Clayton Jones was elected president; Robert Emmons, vice-president; Jettie Mae Gleason, secretary-treasurer; Olga Geer, hostess.

The club voted to contribute a substantial sum to the March of Dimes. Motion pictures were shown following the business meeting.

OSWEGO APPROVES SCHOOL BONDS

OSWEGO, Ore. — Voters approved a $300,000 bond issue in the Oswego school district Tuesday for financing of 16 additional classrooms at Lake Grove and Forest Hills grade schools. The vote was 432-47.

Speaker's Wit, Wisdom Keep Crowd Happy

Judge Harold C. Kessinger of Ridgewood, N. J., combined droll good humor, wisdom, deep feeling and understanding to provide the Salem Knife and Fork club with a top notch lecture at a dinner meeting at the Marion Wednesday night.

The address attracted a capacity audience in spite of a heavy rain. The judge, who presides over a municipal court just outside the boundaries of New York City, stressed the necessity of having a citizenry that will think for themselves.

"Freedom is not automatic," he declared. "We must have a thinking citizen. No organization is good enough to turn one's vote over to it without study."

Touching upon the economic situation in this country, Judge Kessinger expressed the belief that inflation had been halted. He based this opinion on the fact that the present federal administration is making an honest effort to balance the budget.

As for deflation the speaker pointed to the periods of economic stress that followed every war in the country's history. However, Judge Kessinger believes we are better fortified against a serious downward spiral than was previously the case.

On the world scene, Judge Kessinger asserted "it was dangerous to have no foreign policy at all." That was the reason why Hitler and Mussolini started grabbing territory. "They saw that Japan got away with it in Manchuria" and felt that neither Great Britain nor the United States could or would do anything to stop them.

Judge Kessinger voiced a plea for "prosperity without war and a nation that is strong but which will not misuse its strength. If we keep the faith, what is wrong will never defeat what is right."

The speaker's good humored but somewhat barbed jokes about the various brands of religious faith drew chuckles and outbursts of laughter from the audience.

Salem Soldier In Pre-Trial

Anchorage, Alaska (AP) — An Army inquiry to determine a course of action in the case of four soldiers who said their religious beliefs would not permit them to perform duties on Saturday opened at Ft. Richardson Wednesday.

The pretrial investigation was ordered by the post commander, Col. Barney A. Daugherty. The recommendations will be submitted to U. S. Army headquarters in Alaska for action.

The soldiers, all members of the Alaska Mission of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, were arrested last Saturday when they refused, citing their religious beliefs, to take part in a practice alert.

The Army identified the four, all privates of the First General Dispensary at Ft. Richardson, as: Numan V. Haffner, Route 1, Harrisburg, Ore.; Harold L. Massey, 5015 Ridge Drive, Salem, Ore.; Robert L. Nelson, Chicago; and Robert B. Spencer, New Orleans.

Capt. Harry T. Slough, Windsor, Ohio, a dentist, was ordered restricted to quarters pending investigation of the case.

Sweets Blamed for Child Decay of Teeth

"Excessive consumption of sugar is one of the major causes of tooth decay. Think of that the next time you consider letting your children have sweets or soft drinks," stated Dr. Robert B. Stone, president of the Oregon State Dental Association, as he announced that February 1 will be recognized as the sixth national children's dental health day.

In observance of children's dental health day, many component dental societies in Oregon have planned various types of dental health programs, including talks to service clubs and messages on radio and television. "It is our duty to keep the public properly informed," said Dr. Stone.

A recommendation that the sale of sweetened drinks and confections be banned in schools has been adopted by the American Dental Association, representing 70,000 of the nation's dentists, he reported.

Bonus Proposed For Korean Vets

PORTLAND — A bill to pay Oregon state bonuses to veterans of the Korean War will be introduced in the next Legislature by Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, Portland Democrat.

He asked Sam R. Haley, legislative counsel, to prepare it. Then he said he had tried to introduce a similar bill in the last legislative session but it was rejected by the Rules Committee because it was too late. That, he said, was the reason for the early request for preparation of the bill this time.

His proposal as outlined in his letter to Haley: Following the general pattern of the World War II bonus with $10 for each month of domestic and $15 for each month of foreign service, with the termination date left open pending declaration by the President that Korean hostilities are at an end. He proposed the same administrative and financing procedures as for the World War II bonus.

Change of Venue Is Denied by Judge

ALBANY — Judge Victor Olliver in circuit court Tuesday disallowed a motion of Kermit A. Molitor and wife for a change of venue for their retrial on a first degree arson charge.

Neither Molitor nor his attorney appeared in court to support the venue change motion, so Judge Olliver based his ruling merely upon the substance of the motion, which charged that newspapers had so fully aired the alleged offense and the first trial which ended in a deadlocked jury, that an unprejudiced jury could not well be assembled for a second trial.

The case is scheduled for retrial next Monday and Tuesday.
