Recruit Office Wins Trophy

Eagerness of Salem men and men of the nearby area to get into the uniform of Uncle Sam's Marine Corps has again given the Salem Marine Recruiting office the trophy awarded to the top Marine recruiter in the Oregon district.

Staff Sgt. Robert D. Wilson, the only recruiter in the office, won the trophy for the fourth consecutive month by enlisting a total of 34 men in January for 302 1/2 per cent of his quota. Nearest station to the Salem station in January was Albany which had 240 per cent of its quota.

The Salem recruiter first won the trophy in October, which was the first month that it was awarded. That month Wilson enlisted 180 per cent of his quota. In November he had 240 per cent of his quota and in December, 360 per cent of his quota.

The Salem sergeant also enlisted the most men in the Second Oregon Beaver platoon, which left January 21 for San Diego to begin its training and because he was the top recruiter for the platoon was chosen to accompany the men to San Diego on the charter plane taking them south.

FOR SENATE Hatfield To

Even before President Eisenhower consented to become a Republican candidate for President, Rep. Hatfield organized a large group of citizens who passed out petitions urging Ike to run on the Republican ticket, the first to circulate petitions for Eisenhower in the entire nation.

He was elected a delegate to the Republican National Convention in Chicago in 1952 and served on the important platform committee in that convention.

Hatfield won acclaim from fellow legislators for the manner in which he handled the work in the state and federal affairs committee, a committee that was as busy as were the ways and means and taxation committees.

Rep. Hatfield is dean of students at Willamette University and professor of political science.

The announcement of Rep. Hatfield's intention to run for the Senate makes two Marion county entries, both house members, into the Senate race. Rep. Lee Ohmart recently announced he would seek the Republican nomination for state senator from Marion County.

State Senator Fred Lamport has informed friends that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself and Senator Douglas Yeator declares that he has not yet made up his mind as to whether he will seek re-election or not.

Mayor Al Loucks is the only aspirant to one of the four Marion County House seats to announce intention to run. However it is almost certain that Rep. W. W. Chadwick, Oregon hotelman, will seek re-election and Rep. Robert Ellstrom is also expected to announce soon whether he will run for re-election or take a fling in the Senate race. It is expected that a goodly number of others will file for the House with the certainty of two vacant seats in the 1955 session to be filled in this county.

10-Day Period For Crusade

A 10-day period, February 12 to 22, was set apart Friday night for Marion County's observance of the Crusade for Freedom.

The time was set at a meeting at the Senator Hotel, and it was planned that the program here will include signing of the Freedom Scroll, publicity relative to Radio Free Europe and offering contributions for the European broadcast.

The county was well represented at the Friday night meeting with persons attending from Woodburn, Mt. Angel, Silverton, Stayton and Salem. They came from various groups, including schools, lodges, service clubs, labor, patriotic organizations and women's groups.

Henry L. Corbett of Portland, state chairman, gave a general talk on the movement, and Paul Wirick of San Francisco, who is regional director, told the group that the Iron Curtain is being broken into by the Radio Free Europe broadcasts.

Charles A. Sprague, Salem crusade representative, said that literature would be available at his office in the Statesman-Capital Journal Building. Those attending Friday night took with them Freedom Scrolls, contribution envelopes and literature on the crusade movement.

Mark Hatfield, Marion County chairman, presided at the meeting. Bruce Pickett is Salem chairman.

ported January unemployment up half a million from the previous month, at 2,360,000. The bureau estimated the number of civilians out of work and looking for jobs at 3.8 per cent of the total working force, against 3 per cent a year ago.

While a good part of the January rise was seasonal, it was pointed out, the total unemployment figure was nearly half a million higher than in January 1952.

There were scattered cutbacks in the steel and auto industries. Great Lakes Steel Corp., a major supplier to the auto makers, laid off 1,800 men because of "current slackening in demand."

Plymouth curtailed its production 10 per cent; workers at the Nash auto plant in Kenosha, Wis., voted to accept a management proposal to substitute a four-day week for 1,700 layoffs.

Rising industrial unemployment led the Labor Department to list 15 major industrial centers as "labor surplus areas," including Detroit, St. Louis, Oklahoma City and Sacramento. But, the department said, the trend toward unemployment should be halted by expected to start large-scale rehiring of workers.

regular wheat planting quotas. Durum wheat is extremely scarce at this time.

Major provisions of the law on cotton plantings are:

1. The basic national quota is raised to 21 million acres to be divided among the various producing states in proportion to their average production during the past five years.
2. Addition of 315,000 acres to be divided as follows: 157,500 for apportionment among the western states, Arizona, New Mexico and California, and 157,500 for allocation among all others.
3. A "bonus" of 59,374 acres for Arizona and California, to be divided 38,498 and 20,876 respectively. This was designed to meet the guarantee that every state's quota would be at least 66 per cent of its 1952 planted acreage. Five year base averages for the two were low because production has climbed sharply due to new irrigation facilities in the past two years.

elections be considered. This would give the Russian satellite, East German regime parity with the freely-elected Bonn Republic.

The French diplomat assailed the Moscow plan and at the same time put in a strong word for Eden's five-stage program for German unity which starts with free elections at the outset.

The French statement was the more evidence of united Western determination to go about the German problem its way without caving in to Russian pressure for recognizing the East Communist regime in any form. Earlier in the day, Molotov tried anew to have East and West Germans admitted to the parley and was rebuffed by all three Western ministers.

Atomic Generated Heat To be Used in Buildings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) announced plans Saturday to put the atom to work in a new way—heating some buildings at one of its plants as a by-product of making materials for bombs.

Hitherto all such atom-generated heat in this country has been wasted, though the British for several years have been keeping buildings warm in this way.

The commission said it plans to introduce the new heating system as part of an expansion program now under way at its Hanford, Wash., plutonium-making plant. It will be hooked up to a new production reactor under construction there.

Twenty buildings, occupying a gross area of 250,000 square feet, and including an administration building, will be heated through the courtesy of the atom, it was learned. The AEC said the new heating system would save Uncle Sam the cost of 1 1/2 million gallons of oil annually. That's enough oil to heat 1500 homes in many parts of the country.

The commission told about it in its 15th semi-annual report to Congress. In the same report the AEC also disclosed first details of its previously announced plan to build the nation's first large-scale atomic power reactor in the quest for economical industrial power from the atom.

Simultaneously the commission reported increased progress and tempo in all phases of the military and peacetime aspects of the atomic program in which the American people have invested more than 12 billion dollars since 1940.

Midwest Faces Cold Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Another cold weekend was the outlook for most of the Midwest as fresh blasts of Arctic air from northwestern Canada moved into the north central states.

Generally fair weather, with temperatures around seasonal levels, prevailed in most other sections of the country.

Below zero temperatures were forecast for most of the northern plains and north central states Saturday night.

It was sub-zero weather again Saturday in northern sections of Minnesota and North Dakota. It also was cold in the North Atlantic coastal states. One of the lowest readings was -12 at Caribou, Maine, about the same mark as in Grand Forks, N.D., and International Falls, Minn.

Rain diminished along the Pacific Coast states. There were light showers in East Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley. Light snow fell in sections of Montana and Wyoming with flurries reported in Michigan and southeastward into the Pennsylvania mountain region.
