Roosevelt

"At this time I was entering the fifth year of my active service in the Marine Corps, much of it overseas.

"Unfortunately, due to prior physical disabilities accentuated by malaria contracted in the South Pacific, I was very much below par physically.

"I further was actually conscious of the tremendous burden which my father was then carrying as President of the United States, and the horror of adding another to these burdens seemed to me to be overwhelming.

"I was promised that if I would sign a letter that attorneys would prepare, it would never be made public and that in time it would be destroyed.

"I wrongly believed that no individual in their right mind could or would ever make public such a statement."

Roosevelt said he had fully accepted his wife's statement that all such documents had been destroyed. Earlier in the day, at the urging of Democratic Party leaders, Roosevelt released his supporters "from any further obligation" in connection with his hopes for a seat in Congress.

WET WINTER ROAD DAMAGE

Top view shows six foot settlement in Northwest Coast street, Newport, immediately north of Nye beach. Settlement here may be attributed to erosion of a soft sand base over which the road was built. Lower: Settlement of the highway near Buell on Wallace bridge cutoff is due, say state highway engineers, to a slip plane formation well lubricated by long winter rains. A new, realigned section of highway will be constructed to the northward to bypass this slip plane formation.

Texas Senators Denial of Jobs

Daniel dictated this statement to a reporter: "Sen. Morse is still crying about our victory in the tide-and-legend legislation.

"He fought Texas and the other states longer and harder than any other senator, breaking the senate filibustering record. I'm not surprised that he has criticized the Texas senators who prevailed against him in this fight, and I'm sure the people of Texas can make up their own minds about their elected officials without any outside help from Sen. Morse.

Regards If as Compliment "It was a compliment to me to be criticized by Sen. Wayne Morse because that puts me in the same boat with my state and its people. No one in the U. S. senate has fought and voted against Texas, and the interests of its people, more than Senator Morse."

HEALTH TALK

By Dr. J. A. Romberg (D.C., N.D.) 1515 State St.

Headaches
 Perhaps there is no physical discomfort more common than headache. It is one of few abnormal conditions about which there is so little understood. Many think of headaches as a disease in itself. Nothing could be further from the truth for headache is merely ONE symptom of an abnormal condition. It is common knowledge that headache is associated with many physical disorders. Many sufferers give credit to Natural Methods of treatment for their complete recovery from this malady. The results are due to restoring normal nerve energy, reducing nervousness, and building up the body. A nation-wide report shows good results with Natural Methods. Of 2,367 cases of chronic headache and migraine, 86.7% made permanent satisfactory recoveries. If you are a headache sufferer, you are invited to investigate our Natural Method of recovery that does not mask symptoms but removes the cause.

Compromise

The suggestion was that, if the Senate would approve an amendment without the clause, the White House would meantime study the possible effect of such a clause and either approve it as it stands or submit substitute language to the House when it takes up the issue.

George said in an interview he would not agree to any such procedure.

"I will not support the amendment unless it has this clause," George said. "It is the only way, that Congress can find out what is in some international agreements. It protects the rights of the states where they must be protected if they are going to be protected at all—in the Congress and the Supreme Court."

The Georgia senator's position was regarded as extremely significant since he is looked to for advice on the treaty segment of Senate's 48 Democrats.

Knockland and other GOP leaders were in conference with the President for 2 1/2 hours.

He said he and his colleagues were returning to the capitol to consult with the Democratic leaders of the Senate and with Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

Oregon Blue Book Ready This Week

Said Molotov: The conclusion of a peace treaty is of major importance for the promotion of peace in Europe. The necessity of accelerating the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany is dictated by the fact that the danger of resurgence of German militarism, which twice has unleashed a world war, has not been removed.

This was the Kremlin's way of saying that West Germany's intention to rearm even within the defensive framework of the European Defense Community is aggression to the Russians. The peace treaty idea was one more haymaker swung by the Russians to damage, postpone or cancel EDC.

Molotov spoke after British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had declared:

"It is our purpose to associate Germany so closely with other peace-loving states that she will neither seek nor be able to use her regained strength for aggressive purposes."

Only Soviet Plan Wanted The Soviet minister said the German peace conference should be convened within six months and in any case not later than October this year.

He proposed the deputy foreign ministers of the four occupation powers get together on the treaty as a purely unilateral Soviet version.

At all stages of handling, however, "appropriate participation of German representatives shall be provided for," Molotov declared.

It was to have been published early last fall.
