Home Damaged By S. Salem Fire

LIBERTY—The firemen of the Liberty-Salem Heights fire department answered a fire call at 9:45 a.m. Monday to the Charles D. Garver residence at 1185 Albert Dr.

Fire of an undetermined origin started in the rear bedroom of the home. No one was home at the time it started. The husband was at work and the wife was visiting a neighbor. When she returned home and opened the door the house was full of flames.

The house was built about two years ago and is a one-and-a-half-story structure. The house is heated with electric wall panels although no heat was on at the time. The damage was estimated at about $3000 to the house and $1000 to the furniture. The loss was covered by insurance.

Answering the fire call was the fire chief, Norval Hiron; assistant fire chief, Neale Conway; firemen Don Duffield, Lowell Williams, Howard Duffield and Mervin Seeger.

Airman Pleads Guilty—A member of the air force, Richard Fortenberry, 21, of Monmouth, has pleaded guilty in Marion County Court Monday of the charge of obtaining money by false pretenses. He was bound over to the grand jury and held in lieu of $1500 bail.

Postal Receipts Off—Postal receipts of the Salem office for January were $74,559, a decrease of $3,365 over a corresponding period in 1953, according to the monthly report of Postmaster Albert C. Gragg. A part of the decrease is tied up with the fact that the state legislature was in session during January last year.

Building Permits—M. Haverland, to build a one-story dwelling and garage at 2650 Alberta, $13,000. Neil Emmons, to repair a one-story dwelling at 1675 Baker, $2000.

Looked Like Scalp Lock—Mrs. T. M. Allenby, 1450 Oxford, got a bit of a start Tuesday in the family barn when she saw lying in the straw what looked like a scalp lock. She thought of the Indian stories. But Mrs. Allenby examined it and found it was a rare plant. "It looks just like a tuft of gray hair," she said. "I'm going to keep it until I find out what it is."

Swing Strikes Girl—Donna Thomas, 12, of 1070 Barnes avenue, was struck by a swing while playing in her yard at home, and suffered a first aid inch cut on the head. The first aidmen treated the injury and advised her parents to take her to the hospital for stitches.

Charged With Burglary—Louis Richard Carney and Charles Perrie Retherford, both of Albany, were taken to Marion County Court Monday on a charge of burglary not in a dwelling. Carney waived grand jury hearing and his arraignment was continued to Monday. Retherford pleaded guilty to the charge and his sentencing was continued to Monday. Retherford is being held in lieu of $2500 bail.

Easy Transition
With this program, Humphrey said, he is confident "this nation can make the transition to a period of less costly military preparedness without serious interruption in our economic growth."

Humphrey led a procession of cabinet members, business and labor leaders who will testify over the next few weeks on President Eisenhower's economic message to congress. They said the economy then should turn up again, but any economic troubles must not be treated complacently.

DIVORCE GRANTED
ALBANY—Judge Victor Oliver in circuit court here has issued a decree of divorce to Mrs. Lucille Luper from Del Luper, awarding the plaintiff restoration of her former name, Edmonds.

Dulles Calls for

Said Dulles:
"Perhaps Mr. Molotov would admit that he then (in 1939) made a mistake—we all make mistakes. That fact should lead us not to be so confident of our judgment that we throw across the table accusations of criminal intent."

Under Single Man Rule
Dulles said Molotov had "accused us yesterday of being the enemies of peace."

Stork Shower
Here are just a few of the things that will be showered upon the young arrivals, the first three of whom just happen to be boys:

The First National and the United States National Banks are setting up a savings account and a savings bank as one of the prizes. So some baby is going to be off to a good financial start.

Stork Laundry Service is offering two full 30-day baby laundry services.

Another concern is trying to get an electric baby bottle warmer for all of the babies born during the two months, and that no doubt will save many a papa from walking the floor too much at night.

Well, there'll be other things too—a lot of them. Everything needed by the babies, say the merchants, hundreds of items, and besides good-sized gifts for the mamas and daddies. Mentioned among them are bassinets, toilet sets for babies, baby scales, blankets, and robes for mothers.

All the prizes will be displayed at the two banks. Donation of prizes is on a voluntary basis by the merchants, and it isn't limited to the stork shower. There will, however, be a committee to call on the merchants, and if any of them are overlooked and want to get in on the good work they can call either Dick Schlup at Anita's, president of the Salem Downtown Merchants Association, or Douglas Yeater, of Yeater's Appliances, head of the committee.

Demand for Farm Logs Created by Weather

Bad weather has created a demand for farm timber, with the snow and rain curtailing many regular logging operations and there is a strong demand for small "pee-wee" logs cut from farm woodlots, Gene Hanneman, farm forester for Oregon reported this week.

Hanneman said that "pee-wee" logs, 8 feet long and ranging down to six inches in diameter bring $16.00 per cord, while four foot peeler logs, 30 inches in diameter are currently quoted at $35 per thousand. Saw logs are worth from $30 to $40, according to grade and truck haul.

Many beetle killed trees remain on farm woodlands, which should be salvaged, and Hanneman reminded that this is the time of year for such salvage work. Markets are good and the beetles are wintering under the bark, so when the log is hauled from the farm the beetle also goes, reducing the possibility of infecting the remaining timber.

Farmers can use their tractors and other farm equipment in salvaging small logs from their woodlots and logs cut from the farmer's property can be hauled over public highways, using farm license plates.

Hanneman emphasized that timber products from farm woodlots are from private tax-paying forest tracts. Most farmers cut their timber under approved forest practices and many operations are salvage jobs, cleaning up woodlots and preparing the land for another timber crop.

Demand for pulpwood has fallen off, largely due to mechanical chippers located at sawmills. No market exists for second growth Douglas fir bark, used in leather curing, but sales are expected to open up early in the spring.
