PORTLAND — The head of the Portland school lunch program reported Tuesday that school cafeterias may be serving margarine soon.

Miss Ann Brownlie, lunchroom coordinator, said she had been notified that only one more shipment of surplus butter, acquired by the federal government in support of dairy prices, will be received. The new shipment is due in April. Present butter supplies will not last until then.

When the butter supply is exhausted, most schools will serve margarine because they can't afford butter, she said.

Ike Meets Old Army Friends

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower didn't have to say — as he did — "I'm having fun" at Tuesday night's White House reception. His grin made it obvious.

The occasion was the armed services reception bringing together many men with whom Eisenhower had served during his 33 years in the Army.

The Eisenhowers, he in evening clothes and she in delicate black lace over pink, stood in the Blue Room, as is the custom, to shake hands with their guests.

After the last of nearly 600 guests had gone through the receiving line, aides lined up to form a passageway through which the Eisenhowers usually move toward the elevator which carries them to their second floor living quarters.

The aides stood at proper attention, but the President and his wife had gone into the state dining room where guests were still chatting. The Eisenhowers paused repeatedly to greet old friends again.

Turkish President Gets Kaiser Jeep

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Turkish President Celal Bayar—who campaigned for election three years ago riding in a jeep over dusty Turkish roads—got a new one Wednesday right off the assembly line.

Painted in Turkish national color of red and white, the new jeep is the present of Willys Motors President Edgar Kaiser.
