AT OSC Salemities Initiated By Groups

By ALICE LEHMAN
(Capital Journal Correspondent)
OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis (Special)—The snow may be gone, but the students here are "snowed" under with work. Mid-term week is here with a bang and everyone is studying hard. There has been a controversy on the campus about the fall term grades. One out of every 5 or 20 percent of the student body is on scholastic probation, as the all campus grades took a decided drop last term. For this reason studying seems even more important in this short 11 week term.

Despite the low grades on campus, the freshmen have managed to make house grades for initiation. The Delta Delta Deltas, national social sorority, initiated this past week. Salemities becoming new members in this house are Betty Zahara, Nan Steele and Nancy Moorefield. Phi Delta Theta, national social fraternity, recently initiated the following Salem men: John Burroughs, Jim Folston and John Perry.

Last week-end proved quite successful for the "Beavers." Although the basketball team had to settle for a split with Oregon, the OSC wrestling team took a clean sweep as did the women's bowling team. Salemities on the bowling team were Jo Stettler and Alice Lehman.

"The Mother Goose Midway," AWS carnival, proved a huge success last Friday night. Alpha Omicron Pi won the booth honors with the theme, "The Spiders' Web." Arlen White won first prize in the tall tale contest and Carl Holmquist of Salem took second place. Dick Meyer, another Salemite, was master of ceremonies for the evening.

Last night, 33 juniors received honor certificates for excellent work in their first two years in college. Those honored had maintained a 3.5 grade point average for two full years of college work. Salemities in this group were Marjorie Church and Rodney Jipp.

Twenty-eight varsity lettermen were recently initiated into Varsity "O" club. Jim Rock of Salem was among the football letter winners initiated.

Try as they may, the Joneses on this campus just can't keep up. The statement comes about from a recent name count here at the college. The Johnsons tied the Smiths with 44 each, but the Joneses are running third and can't seem to keep up for they only have 27.

THE CARNIVAL of St. Mary's guild, St. Mary's Episcopal church, will be Friday evening at the church parish hall. The evening begins with a supper at 6 o'clock. There will be games, movies, and various carnival booths. Mrs. Ed Lewis is chairman of the general committee.

Seminary Mothers Meet on Tuesday

MT. ANGEL—The Mount Angel Seminary Mothers club of the Mount Angel-Woodburn-Silverton area met at the home of Mrs. Bernard Smith, Tuesday evening.

As a special project for this year, the local group will furnish transportation of the Mount Angel Seminary Gregorian Choir to Eugene for its concert at the University of Oregon on February 25. Original plans called for travel by bus, but the mothers will provide private automobiles for the concert trip, thus eliminating the expense and adding to the comfort and pleasure of the choir members' travel.

Mrs. Clarence Schindler will be hostess for the group at her home in Gervais for the next scheduled meeting the first Tuesday evening in March.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Smith served refreshments.

remaining ingredients; stir well. Simmer, covered, about 30 minutes; stir occasionally. Makes about 1 1/2 quarts thick sauce. Use as much as needed and refrigerate rest. Serve over spaghetti and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Heart Hop Of Interest On Campus

By ANNE RITCHEY
(Capital Journal Correspondent)
UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, (Special)—Salemities at U. of O. seen at the game here with OSC last week-end were Norma Stewart, Bob Hazel, Carol Fisher, Tom Angle, Judy Carlson, Mary Gerlinger, Sharon Heider, Joyce Spillman and Mike Thomas.

After the game there was the annual "Lemon-Orange Squeeze" in the Student Union ballroom, and several Staters from Salem were there.

The YWCA's annual girl-ask-boy Valentine dance, the "Heart Hop" is scheduled for a week-end on Saturday night, and Salem's Chuck Wilhoit is one of the 12 semi-finalists for the title of "King of Hearts." Six finalists will be chosen by the YWCA sophomore cabinet, and an all-campus vote will be taken on these to determine the "King."

The current University theater production, "The Moon is Blue," opened last Friday night, with Tom Angle playing one of the three male parts. The leads for the show are double-cast, and starring as Patty O'Neill are Gloria Lee, from Eugene, and Helen Robertson, a freshman from Portland.

Tuesday afternoon was sunny and warm, and little studying was done as students dreamed of spring term, when classes are not well-attended. In the Student Union and walking around campus enjoying the weather were Norma Stewart, Gloria Stock and Tom Angle.

A startling front-page story in Monday's Emerald announced the resignation of Dick Williams, director of the Student Union, who has held his post since the building was built four years ago, and who helped plan its construction. Williams has not announced plans for the future.

Next Monday night the Vienna String symphony, conducted by Kurt Rapp, will appear at McArthur court, under the Eugene Civic Music association's sponsorship. Members of the association, and all University students, will be eligible to attend.

VISITORS here for the week-end from Corvallis will be Mr. and Mrs. Butler N. Woods, who are guests at the home of Jus-

Wed Recently—Mr. and Mrs. Morris P. McElwee (Beverly Ketelohn) were married recently at St. Charles Catholic church in Portland.
