Tree Planting Day Here Dated for February 12

Spring-like weather the past few days has brought on the urge to garden for many persons, but they have to keep those gardening tools tucked away because the ground is still too damp.

However, they can pull out their shovel and plant a tree next week in observance of Arbor Day.

Gov. Paul Patterson this week reminded that Arbor Day for the area west of the Cascades fall on the second Friday in February, which this year is February 12, and urged residents of that area to plant a tree in honor of the event.

The governor, who also heads the Oregon State Board of Forestry, stressed the importance of reforestation in the state, as well as the planting of shade trees and trees for decorative purposes.

Arbor Day was officially established in Oregon, which is now the number one producer of lumber in the nation, in 1889. The law set aside the afternoon of the second Friday in February for the area west of the Cascades and the afternoon of the second Friday in April for Arbor Day observance in Eastern Oregon.

Its purpose was to emphasize to children the benefits of the preservation and perpetuation of our forests and the growing of timber and to permit them to assist in the work of adorning the school grounds with trees. During observances of the day, the school children were to plant a tree on the school ground. However, planting of trees on Arbor Day has not been confined to school grounds.

Nebraska is the state credited with originating Arbor Day, with the day established there under a proclamation issued March 31, 1874, by the governor, who was Robert W. Furnas. The proclamation was the result of a resolution adopted at the January, 1874, meeting of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture asking that the second Wednesday in April be set aside as Arbor Day in that state.

Rally to Celebrate Scouting Birthday

A rally commemorating the 44th anniversary of scouting will be held at Leslie Junior high school auditorium the night of February 12 with the various branches of the organization taking part.

The program will include singing, stories and a special talk for all boys present. At 8:15 the entire assemblage will repeat the Boy Scout oath and the Cub promise.

All units are requested to come as a group and maintain their identity throughout the rally.

Missionaries at Salem Heights

The Salem Heights Baptist church will participate in a missionary conference during the week beginning Sunday Dr. Alfred Danielson, western representative of the Conservative Baptist Foreign Missionary society will speak at 11 a.m. Sunday. Mrs. Roberts Boddy, Portland, will be the guest soloist.

The 6:30 Sunday night service will be held in the community hall, Liberty road and Madrona avenue, with Mrs. C. Cochrane from Africa the speaker. She will show pictures of her work.

During the week, meetings will be held nightly at 7:30 with a number of missionaries taking part.

C of C Election At Monmouth

MONMOUTH — Carnes Schuler was elected president and Fred Hill vice president of the Monmouth Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting held Tuesday night at the Monmouth hotel dining room.

The offices were vacant due to the resignation of Art Spredborough, president, and Dale Sparks, vice president.

A vacancy on the executive committee will be filled by Gordon Barzee.

The new president named Ralph Dutoit, Q. L. Jacobson and Carl Fisher on a membership committee.

Ray Rauch, Mert Sudgen and Eric Ewensen were named to investigate the possibility of joining the Highway Lifesavers' Polk county branch, and are to report at the Feb. 23 meeting.

This hello is almost a goodbye. By the time you read this, I'll be vacationing in the Islands and penning a memo to you from there. Now that the actual hour of departure is practically here, I'm beginning to be jumpy with anticipation and excitement.

We've just finished painting the first floor here on Court St. and here's an invitation to come down to see our new decoration. The colors are the new tones which will be found throughout the new home furnishings field — copper, new green, a red charcoal. You should have heard the snide remarks down here when the paint first started going on — a lurid combination of our old color scheme! I was afraid I'd be run out of town on a rail for a while, but now that it's nearly finished, everyone is happy and the store looks bright and cheery.

We were shown the new line of Mohawk carpets today. They have added several new colors to their running patterns. One is called Nutria, a beautiful greenish brown that looks just like its namesake. Another shade is called Palmetto, a fresh new spring green. Patterns in carpeting continue to accent texture, blended tones and tweeds. Our samples have arrived of Mohawk's new Chevy Chase, a thick, heavy cut-pile Wilton carpet with all-over carved effect. With rubber pad you sink in to your ankles! A lifetime of wear from carpeting like this and yet within a reasonable outlay of funds. A carpet is your largest purchasing in decorating and should answer the needs of the family for style and wear and offer the best of value for the money put into it. One thing about carpet today, there's a pattern and texture for each individual taste and the manufacturers have wholeheartedly tried to blend practicality and fashion for us in each price range. Our hat off to them.

So much for now. I'll write from Hawaii. Aloha,

Mary Thomas
