5-Year-Olds Go Fishing, And Get Lost

Two shivering young fishermen who disobeyed their mothers were only too happy to get an assist from police Wednesday to find their way back home.

Timothy Daley, 276 North 14th street, and Pat Burke, 210 North 14th, wanted to go fishing but were told they couldn't. That wasn't enough to stop the 5-year-old Isaac Waltons, however, and they stepped out into the world on their own, looking for a likely spot for some angling.

A couple hours later—along about noon time—the young fishermen began to get a little hungry and were ready to set out for home—but where was home? They didn't know and home did not know where they were either. After a search of the neighborhood, anxious mothers called police.

Four patrol cars went to the area and began searching the streets and alleys and about 2:45 an officer found them—a good 10 blocks from home near Shelton Ditch and 14th street.

No fish, Pat and Tim reported. But then they were hungry enough to eat most anything by that time.

There'll probably be no more fishing trips for those two until they get this area better mapped so a feller can find his way home again.

OREGON TREES TO PHILIPPINES

A bundle of Port Orford cedars and Ponderosa pines from the Oregon state forest nursery Friday started a journey to the Philippine Islands, where they will be presented to President Ramon Magsaysay. Taking the trees will be James Clinton (left) who is going to the Philippines to assist in setting up a civil service program there. Gov. Paul Patterson (right) is shown presenting the trees to Clinton. In the center is George Spaur, state forester for Oregon, who sent planting instructions with the trees.

Clinton Will Deliver Trees to Philippines

Trees from Oregon soon will be growing in the Philippine Islands.

Next week President Ramon Magsaysay of the Philippine Republic will receive a bundle of Port Orford cedars and ponderosa pines from James C. Clinton of Salem, going to that country to accept a position with Louis J. Kroeger and Associates of Manila.

Gov. Paul Patterson, who is chairman of Oregon's state board of forestry, this week handed the bundle containing the 50 cedars and 50 pine seedlings to Clinton and commented that the small trees were an Arbor Day gift from the people of Oregon to the Philippines.

Accompanying the trees is a letter from State Forester George Spaur giving planting instructions. Oregon's forestry department said that both the cedar and pine, famous for their wood and beauty here, should grow well in the higher elevations of the north Philippine Islands. The seedlings are two years old.

Clinton, who recently resigned as director of the state civil service here, left Salem Friday for the Philippines. In that country he is to aid in setting up a civil service program. Mrs. Clinton and the couple's three children accompanied him on the journey, which is to be made by air to Manila.

When the trees are planted in the Philippines it will be the sixth place that seedlings from the Oregon state forest nursery have been planted. Previously trees from the nursery have gone to Guam, Japan, French Morocco, Hawaii and England.
