

Joe Carson Announces He'll Run for Governor

Joseph K. Carson, twice elected mayor of Portland and one time member of the United States Maritime commission, has entered the race for the Democratic nomination for governor at the May 21 primaries.

Carson made his announcement over both television and radio Monday night, declaring that he was making his bid for his party's nomination and subsequent election on a program calling for federal government development of the resources of the Columbia and Snake River basins, including government construction of Hells Canyon dam. He promised the state a leadership "unafraid—a leader with imagination enough to propose, a leader audacious enough to try, a leader bold enough to take a stand."

More liberal treatment of the state's elderly citizens was advocated by Carson, who proposed a system of public loans for establishment of nursing and rest homes where they can be cared for in their own communities. Carson says he proposes the state pay for the care of those people if they are unable to do so themselves.

Rotation of federal authority over labor relation is favored by Carson, who said that the 1953 labor act had been nullified in two circuit courts and declaring he knew no benefit such a law had brought.

An enabling act to make possible creation of metropolitan transit authorities in cities and towns facing mass transportation problems, was advocated by Carson.

Citing protests against proposed abandonment of regional development of power dams, Carson said in the suggested "partnership" arrangement a chance for bickerings was probable and declared that the new schemes "are so beclouded with political and economic uncertainties as to leave our people confused and apprehensive."

"Cheap power is the key to our industrial development in Oregon," Carson said. "It is the foundation of all modern industry. If we give that key away or lose it, we shall become economic prisoners of those who have it."

Public business, Carson said, will be conducted in public if he is elected governor. He cited the action of the state milk marketing commission in attempting to raise the price of milk without public notice. He commended Governor Paul L. Patterson for stopping that practice.

"If I am governor," Carson said, "all public business except that involving security and the execution of criminal law will be done openly. I would fire any board, commission or individual engaging in back room tactics."

He also promised that there will be no name-calling in his campaign.

Gragg Named For Crusade

Albert C. Gragg, area chairman for Federal employees in the 1954 Crusade for Freedom in Salem announced today that Vice President Nixon had signed the first "Charter Freedom Scroll" in a campaign to carry the truth behind the Iron Curtain.

The scroll was delivered by Vice President Nixon to Edward F. Bartelt, Fiscal Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who is serving as National Chairman for Federal Employees in the Crusade.

The Crusade for Freedom is a non-governmental movement of private American citizens to send the Truth to 70 million people in the enslaved countries behind the Iron Curtain and to give new hope and determination to fight for freedom.

The movement has received the endorsement of President Eisenhower who said, that every American who joins the Crusade for Freedom for support of Radio Free Europe can be sure in his heart he is supporting the cause of peace throughout the world.

Gragg is asking a 11 Federal employees in this area to join with other American citizens in a re-

Nun's Death Recalls Long Ago Journey

MT. ANGEL—Funeral services were held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock with a Requiem High Mass at the Convent Queen of Angels here, for Sister Mary Theresa Kramer, OSB, 92 years of age, who died at the Convent Friday after a short illness. Interment was in the Convent cemetery.

Sister Theresa, born in Wurttemberg, Germany, was the second oldest Benedictine nun at the convent here. She entered the Benedictine motherhouse, then at Gervais, in 1886, three and a half years after its foundation in Oregon.

Sister Theresa was employed in various occupations during her long years of service, among which was a 25-year period of type-setting at the Benedictine Press. Taken from extracts of notes and reminiscences, Sister Mary Theresa told of her arrival in Portland, March 1886, and soon after her arrival, she tells of her first trip to Mt. Angel, then known as Filmore, to visit her brother Father William Kramer at the Mt. Angel Abbey.

Her notes state — "what a unique trip it turned out to be is almost incomprehensible to those who had never gone over such pioneer roads: stumps, mud-holes, sitting in a wagon, while one wheel would be half-way in the water and the other up, nearly upsetting the wagon and us with it; we surely held on to the seat on top of the wagon box..." "We did have a glimpse through the trees of a frame building; but what a difference from the monastic structures of stone in Europe..."

"On this Mount were seen little mounds in which were found skeletons of Indians long buried there."

Sister Theresa's survivors include a number of nieces and nephews in Friedrichshafen, Germany, among whom are Sister Mary Wilhelmina Kramer and Sister M. Eugenia Kramer, Sisters of Social Service in Germany. Her brother, Father William Kramer, OSB, preceded her in death in 1929.

We have waited long enough! Evidently, some of our wonderful styles from our nationally advertised brands are not so wonderful. Styles that fashion professors gave such a pompous build-up were a pompous flop. At least we think it was their fault. We just know it couldn't be the fact that we might have overbought.

Nevertheless, it hurts us deeply... deep into our pockets, that is, so, out with the pups and away we go!

THE OPINIONS EXPRESSED HERE ARE OUR OWN AND DO NOT NECESSARILY EXPRESS THE OPINIONS OF YOU, OUR CUSTOMERS

Blouse Pups!
99c

This will do it! Whether your going to a dance, dogfight, or nowhere. Dressy blouses of chromespun taffeta. Were 5.95.

Hat Pups!
99c

These are... shall we say, different. An odd collection for odd people. An excellent way to scare small children. Reg. 3.95 to 10.95.

Bra Pups!
99c

This is a hold up! In fact its plain robbery, but why not live dangerously. Reg. to 2.95.

Dress Pups!
12.00

What a group. Something is missing, but we don't know. You tell us. Wool, orlons, ???, Reg. to 29.95

Angora Clip Hat Pups!
99c

Especially for those who hunt polar bears on roller skates. Reg. 1.95 to 2.49.

Bag Pups!
99c to 1.99

Real neat handbags in leather, suede, a small group but very stimulating. Reg. to 7.95.
