Elistrom said that in seeking re-election he was mindful of the need for wise legislation in this period of the state's growth.

"I firmly believe that Oregon" business can be conducted in a manner comparable to those methods which are essential in private, free enterprise," he said. "Addi-tionally, good legislation must benefit all people, regardless of party attiliation. I believe my record in civic and state affairs, and

Dave Beck of the International Teamsters Union said a protest funds will be laid before unio

Martin Crouse, former Team-sters business agent in Yakima. Wash., protested against the loan to the Fruehauf Trailr Corp. in a letter received yesterday by union executive board.

Crouse charged the loan violated a union constitutional clause prohibiting investment of more than $30,000 of union funds in any one firm. Beck would not comment but had said earlier that he was authorized to make any investment for the union so long as "the investment is sound."
