WILL MOVE POLE LINE

Representatives of the Portland General Electric company and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company have reached an agreement covering joint use of a pole line along Claxton Road. However, they do not know just where to place the poles since because of inability to determine where the edge of the right of way will be located after Claxton Road has been widened. One survey calls for a right of way extended 20 feet on each side of the center line of the original survey. This center line, it is said, does not correspond to the center of the present gravel road. The telephone company plans to substitute a cable for its present wires, attaching the cable to the light company poles.

New Training Plan Accepted

Naval Reservists and regular Navy personnel on station keeper duty at the Naval and Marine Corps reserve training center at a meeting Tuesday night decided to accept a new plan for the training of reservists in the surface division.

The Salem installation is one of three in the 13th Naval district selected to be given an opportunity to try the new training program. The three installations in the district, Salem, Seattle and Tacoma, will be used as pilot installations in the program.

Under the program the officer in charge of the center would be in charge of the training and the training program for the reserve surface division and also in charge of keeping the records, with the records kept by the station keepers instead of the reserves. The plan approved by the group at the Tuesday night meeting now has to be approved by the 13th Naval district.

In the past the officers of the surface division here have been in charge of the training and responsible for the program and the records of the division.

of litigation in which they have been involved. No one appears in this case for and on behalf of Local 72, but their activity raises serious questions as to whether the named plaintiffs herein are in reality representing the best interests of Local 401 or those of Local 72.

Judge Brand declared that the appellate procedure of the International is available to any individual member of the union regarding any alleged personal grievance.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue lost in its efforts to enforce a tax lien of $6500 against Morrill Logging Company in Curry county.

In upholding Circuit Judge Dal M. King, the court, with Justice Harold J. Warner writing the opinion, held the money was neither an escrow or a trust, but was a specific deposit title to which remained in the Logging company until by further agreement but prior to the government's lien, title was transferred to the Moore Mill and Lumber Company.

"The rights of the government, when attempted to enforce a lien against property of a delinquent taxpayer," Justice Warner said, "arise no higher than the taxpayer had therein."

The justice said that since the Logging company's interest in the fund terminated prior to the government's lien, the government was held to have no interest in the fund.

The court reversed a decree by Circuit Judge J. S. Bohannon, in a suit by L. H. Adkinson against Wilda Elizabeth Bartron in Washington county, in a suit to recover a property alleged to have been obtained from the plaintiff by undue influence. The trial court held that a confidential relationship existed between the parties and that there had been undue influence.

Case Reversed
However, Justice William C. Perry speaking for the court, found there was no evidence of wrongful undue influence.

"The mere fact that one regrets what he has done and wishes to regain the property he had voluntarily conveyed, is not in law sufficient reason to relieve him of his voluntary act," Judge Perry said. The court dismissed the plaintiff's complaint.

Other Cases
Other cases handed down by the court Wednesday were: Affirmed Circuit Judge M. A. Briggs of Harney county, in a suit for conveyance of land purchased on contract in 1939. Both the trial court and supreme court held that Elvin Hull, the plaintiff, had abandoned the property in 1942 and therefore had no interest in the property.

In a suit by T. J. Starker against Earl Heckart, appellant, Circuit Judge Victor Oliver was upheld in his opinion that usury statutes had no application in a conditional sales contract for $2,251 as it did not involve a loan of money.

Chief Justice Earl C. Latourrette made the following assignments Wednesday:
Circuit Judge M. W. Wilkinson of The Dalles to Deschutes county to hear suit of State Construction company versus the city of Bend; Circuit Judge W. W. Wells of Iendleton to Malheur county; James Arthur Powers, Portland, judge pro tem, to Linn county for 19 days commencing March 1 and John L. Foote, St. Helens, pro tem for Lane county, 24 days beginning March 8.

As for the attorney's fees, the court ruled that $2,000 was payable immediately and the balance within 90 days. The court costs were to be paid within 90 days.

The balance of the attorneys' fees and court costs if any may be filed at the time of trial.

Climaxed Sensational Hearing
The awards climaxed a sensational four-day hearing in which Mrs. Roosevelt, 38, said her husband, 46, was worth two million dollars. He contended he was $72,185.15 in the red as of last Jan. 15, including $100,000 he had borrowed from his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

The judge instructed his court clerk to notify the opposing attorneys. Neither Roosevelt nor his wife was present.

In addition to naming the co-respondents, Mrs. Roosevelt included two letters in filing her separate maintenance suit. They were dated Feb. 25, 1946, were signed by her husband and contained his purported admission of infidelities.

Roosevelt has denied all the charges involving the 12 women.

Airmen Told

Calif., in April 1952 before going to Korea, to give information freely in the event of his capture.

He said a captain whose name he didn't remember told an indoctrination class this was a new kind of war and the old idea that a prisoner should give only his name, rank and serial number was out the window.

Harris said the captain told the Korea-bound fliers in effect: "They're going to find out anyway—go ahead and tell them the truth right off."

"Tell 'Em Anything"
Later, in POW camps where he wound up, Harris said he found 75 to 80 per cent of all air personnel had been instructed to "tell 'em anything they ask—it can't hurt us."

The question for the court to decide is whether Schwable should face formal charges in connection with the confession he signed and later repudiated.

Harris said that 10 or 15 per cent of the POW-irmen he met had been told to use their own discretion on what to tell the Reds if captured, and the remainder either had been given no briefing or told to give no information beyond name, rank and serial number.

Speaking forcefully and at times with obvious emotion, Harris said he had "nothing in the world but profound sympathy" for Schwable.

Langer called the capital officers, as the Californian pressed his demand for a chance to testify. Nobody found a warrant at that time and Wilson himself said he then asked for protective custody. A capitol policeman accompanied him as he finally came to the committee room's closed doors where he waited an hour and a half before he was called in.

The San Francisco indictment charged Wilson hired a jeweler to appear falsely as an eye witness in behalf of Wilson's clients in an automobile accident case. The witness recanted and gave state's evidence after another private investigator produced movies showing that the jeweler was vacationing in Mexico at the time of the accident.

Langer had said earlier that he had received telegrams from Wilson and Burr McCloskey saying they would be here for the committee session and asking to be heard.

PORT FOR REPAIRS
NAPLES, Italy (AP)—A second Russian ship put in Wednesday for lengthy repairs in this NATO southern European headquarters port, increasing concern over possible Red spying on strategic Western bases.

Police officials estimated the wall as being about 48 inches thick, and said the prisoners probably could have effected their escape in about three more hours, if they had not been discovered.

Prisoners in the cell ranged in conviction from burglary, check charges, illegal possession of liquor, all the way to such crimes as car theft, and assault with a dangerous weapon.

Only comment forthcoming from city police officials was "we need a new jail."

Ex-GI Ready

"The thought of having come all this way in vain and of returning as the Charlie I hated was unbearable," she said. "So I managed to have this first operation made unofficially. It happened on a kitchen table at midnight and that's all I want to say about that, but the operation almost killed me."

It took Charlotte months to recover but then the Danish doctors could take care of her according to the law. Injections and operations followed. She spent months in hospitals and clinics. Famous professors and plastic surgeons worked on her, mostly free of charge because she could not afford to pay the bills.

Miss McCloskey said she was in the Army for three months in 1948 and got an honorable discharge for medical reasons.

"Everyone could see that I was no soldier and that it was all a mistake," she said.
