Cardinals Vs. Salem In Nightcap

FIRST ROUND GAMES
Friday—7:00, Stayton vs. Cascade; 8:30, Sacred Heart vs. Salem.
Saturday—7:00, Silverton vs. Woodburn; 8:30, Mt. Angel vs. North Marion.

Eight high school basketball teams from four leagues will continue their athletic pursuits this week-end as they begin the annual District 11 conflict at the Salem high school gymnasium. The double elimination struggle will run tonight, Saturday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday (March 6) and Monday, March 8 (finals).

If anyone is assigning roles as favorites, one automatically goes to Salem High, perennial champion which has run into the state's best Class A competition this season and given all a troublesome night. The Vikings will open at 8:30 against Sacred Heart, the Capitol league champion.

Other favorites expected to emerge from the first two nights are Stayton (over Cascade) and Silverton (over Woodburn). The Mt. Angel-North Marion game is rated a tossup because they are from different leagues and have not met.

Losers the first two nights will meet Monday night while winners will get to rest until Tuesday night.

The state tourney at Eugene March 16-20 will allow only one entry from each district.

Injured Bevo in Point Lead But Not in Accuracy

NEW YORK (AP)—Bevo Francis of Rio Grande, who probably won't play for several weeks because of an ankle injury, still is far out front in the small-college scoring race. But—surprise!—one of his rivals shows a better percentage for accuracy.

Paul Lauritzen of Augustana (Ill.), a 6-foot 3-inch senior, was hitting 63.5 per of his field-goal attempts through games of Feb. 20, according to statistics released Friday by the NCAA Service Bureau. Francis shows a 49.8 average.

At the rate he's going Lauritzen will set a record. The current mark on the book is 60.6 set last year by Bob Buis of Carleton. Francis, of course, heads the scorers with 1,046 points. Bob Hopkins of Grambling is second with 876.

Rio Grande is the offensive leader, replacing Arkansas Tech, which led for the past three weeks. Rio has a 94.9 average compared to 49.0 for Tech.

Idaho State and Cortland (N.Y.) State both have 56.4 averages on the defense to lead the small colleges in that department.

Knapp Finishes Viking Season Scoring Leader

By PAUL HARVEY, III
Jim Knapp, six foot senior guard, is the Salem high scoring leader in the final regular season averages. Knapp has 273 points to beat Bob Wolf who has 237. Wolf is the leading shot on the varsity with a .475 mark in the 22 games.

Behind Wolf, Gordy Domogalla is next with 188 while Tom Pickens has 168. The other players with over 100 points are Phil Burkland with 106 and Herb Triplett with 103.

Pickens has the top free throw mark of the team with .811, not including the first shot of a one and one situation if it was missed. The team is hitting .569 on all free throws and .322 on field goals. They have scored 1308 points to their opposition's 1210 in their 13 wins and nine losses.

Harold Hauk's Vikings now play in the district tournament and then the state if they win the district meet, as expected.

The final junior varsity averages have Bob Tom, sophomore guard, on top in total points with 151 to edge out Don Zeh who had 133. Dale Jones had 133 while Bob Foreman had 100, mostly in the final part of the season.

Salem Captures District Wrestling Title 6th Time

Salem high school qualified 16 wrestlers for the state meet next Friday and Saturday when the Vikings annexed their sixth straight district 6 championship here Thursday.

The lads coached by Hank Juran and Al Gray produced eight individual titles and eight runner-up positions. Two from each of 12 weight classes get to enter the state at Corvallis.

Salem scored 33 points, Dallas 9 and Corvallis 6. Preliminary rounds were yesterday afternoon and finals last night.

The Vanek twins from Salem, Dean and Dave, had another friendly struggle in the 98-pound division, Dean deciding his slightly heavier brother. Last week, in the Big Six meet at Albany, it was the other way around as they grappled for third place. Referees were Jim Dixon, Oregon State wrestling coach, and Don Hendrie.

By HAL WOOD
SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Towering height and blinding speed are mixed on the 1954 United Press All-Pacific Coast Conference basketball team announced today.

UCLA, the southern division's best team, won two places on the club, while Oregon State, Stanford and California each drew one spot on the team chosen by United Press with the assistance of the coaches.

The height is provided by the forward wall made up of forwards Johnny Moore, UCLA, (6-5), and Russ Lawler, Stanford (6-6 1/2), and center Wade (Swede) Halbrook, Oregon State, (7-3). The speed comes from veteran guards Bob Matheny, California (5-11), and Ron Livingston, UCLA (5-10).

Near Unanimous
Moore, Halbrook and Matheny were near-unanimous choices for the squad. On the other hand, Lawler barely nosed out big Bob McKeen of California, who was great the fore part of the year, but tailed off badly in the last six games due to injuries and illness; while Livingston was the choice over Bob Garrison of Idaho.

Lawler won for more consistent performances during the full season. He leads the southern division of the loop in scoring with a 17.8 points per game average and 178 total. He is tied with two others. "Russ is the most improved basketball player on the coast," says his coach, Bob Burnett, "and possibly the most under-rated."

Livingston has been the spark-plug of the Bruin drive to the pennant in the southern division, but there were quite a few votes for this boy Garrison.

"Bob Garrison of Idaho," said Coach Bill Borchert of Oregon, "is the best looking sophomore I've seen in years."

Halbrook, of course, was a unanimous choice. Only a sophomore, he is one of the finest young basketball players in the country. He leads the league in scoring with 297 points and a 21.2 average per game. He also is tops in field goals on a percentage basis, and on totals; and in rebounds.

Matheny is justly called the "old pro" of the intercollegiate ranks. He ran the California offense and defense and did a great job of it. Three to five years older than the rest of the lads, he was the most polished performer in the PCC during the 1953-54 season.

Moore, the other senior on the squad, was the come-through guy on the Bruin team and its top scoring punch. He was the man most closely watched by the opposition, but still his club's leading point-getter.

Russell Lawler, Stanford F
Wade Halbrook, Oregon St. C
Bob Matheny, California G
Ron Livingston, UCLA G

Perrydale Tops Falls City Five In Polk County

MONMOUTH—Perrydale defeated Falls City, 42-27, here last night in the second round of the double elimination Polk County B league tourney.

Tonight Valselet and Falls City, both one-time losers, will meet and the winner will take on Perrydale again Saturday night in what should prove to be the final.

The tourney champion will enter the District 2B tourney at Salem, March 3, 4 and 6.

San, Stewart, again was high for Perrydale, scoring 17 to go with his 32 the night before in beating Valselet. For Falls City it was Marston Murphy with nine.

LAST WEEK-END FOR STEELIES

Steelhead fishing for the winter of '53, '54 on Oregon's coast streams is fast drawing to an end. Coast streams will be closed to angling for two months, beginning March 1. So, if you still have a yen to tangle with a rambunctious sea-run rainbow, better do it this week-end.

Looking back over the season just past, we can't help but feel that the fishing was not up to par. True, many fish were caught, and some were whoppers. But the weather was so frequently "liquid" that streams were seldom in fishable condition for more than a few days at a time. And, to further frustrate anglers, these good periods seemed to come in the middle of the week. Most of us, poor wage slaves that we are, could only fish on week-ends—and we can scarcely recall more "lost" week-ends.

A few interesting items did crop up this season. For one thing, the much-lauded cherry bobber seemed to prove itself very conclusively. Fish were taken with it from every coast stream that we got reports from. And, many times the bobber worked well in murky water, under conditions that usually indicate bait and nothing else. In fact, we would venture a guess that, proportionately, artificial lures of one kind or another accounted for more fish this year on the coast than any season previously.

While spinning gear was still king, this season saw considerably more anglers using longer rods—and in a number of cases, spinning reels were attached to drift rods. Anglers found that they could control their lures better with the longer rod, especially when fishing from the bank.

A little telephoning this morning provided the following information: Such rivers as the Necowin, Three Rivers, Salmon, Nestucca and Little Nestucca and Beaver creek are in fair condition, and, despite a bit of rain last night, are still dropping. Yesterday, boats drifting the Nestucca took fish, and the river is in better shape today, with the water at about the 3-foot stage. The sky was showing lots of blue this morning, and if the rain stays away, undoubtedly many last-minute anglers will bring home some steelie steaks. . . . For a general look at the over-all picture, examine the game commission's forecast, on this page.

CHEMEKETANS TO BE HONORED

Salem's Chemeketans, that hardy group of mountain climbers and outdoors lovers, will be guests of honor this coming Wednesday evening, March 3, when the Izaak Walton League, Salem chapter, holds its social meeting.

The Ikes will show a motion picture of the Dinosaur National Monument, that spectacularly beautiful area that is at present endangered by plans to erect a dam at Echo Park, within the Monument boundaries. Many folks are in a quandary as to which is the proper course—to allow the construction of the dam, which would supposedly provide for irrigation of 380,000 acres, or to preserve this region as an untouched scenic area.

Frankly, if it were only a matter of Dinosaur Monument alone, we might not find too strong an objection. But, as far as the reclamation bureau is concerned, there is no line drawn. Given time, and an apathetic public attitude to aid them, the reclamation bureau would "reclaim" much of the west. The demands of an increasing population are great—the pressures on nature are great, and at least a few areas should be perpetuated in their primitive state. Some folks judge progress in terms of dollars and cents—expansion, production, modernization, mechanization. But others, including this writer, feel that to rob this country of its great heritage of outdoor beauty will be to render "progress" an empty accomplishment.

Be that as it may—the public is invited to attend the meeting at the IWL clubhouse at 8 p.m. Wednesday, see the movie, and make up their own minds as to the value of Dinosaur National Monument.
