Pipe Organ Given to Willamette U.

The large Wurlitzer pipe organ and its accessories now located in the McDonald Theatre building, Eugene, has been given to Willamette University through recent action taken by the stock-holders and directors of the Mc-Donald-Schaefer Company of Eugene.

Arrangements have been made by the university to have the orby the university to have the or-gan kept in its present location until Willamette's new auditor-ium-fine arts building is con-structed. Plans call for the or-gan to be installed in the audi-torium until the proposed Wil-lamette student union building is ready. Then it will be perma-nently placed in the union where it will be more readily available for student use. In the past the instrument has not only been utilized in theatre performances but has also been featured in regular radio broadcasts originating in the theater. Willamette contemplates such practices upon its installation on the campus. The university board of trus-tees this week gave the go ahead tees this week gave the go ahead plans for three buildings, including the auditorium fine arts structure, pending the raising of an additional $11,000 necessary to meet the $325,000 goal. At that time two contingent gifts, totalling $50,000 will be available on a dollar-for-dollar matching basis.
