Thieves Raid Clinic Looking for Money

Burglars broke into two buildings at the Doctor's Clinic in the 2400 block of Greer street Friday night but apparently got away with nothing, city police reported Saturday.

The thieves forced open windows on the building occupied by Dr. Owen Miller and the dental building occupied by Dr. R. B. Sildaway and Dr. Gordon V. Bickler. They ransacked drawers and cabinets but apparently took nothing, police said after a check was made of the premises.

They apparently were after money only, officers said, and failed because none is kept in the buildings at nights.

Fire Destroys Garage On Moyer Lane

Fire destroyed a garage at 325 Moyer lane Saturday morning, but there was apparently little loss except to the older frame structure, firemen reported. A few hand tools and items in the building were damaged but the car was gone at the time.

The fire call came at 10:48 and the flames were already bursting out of the sides of the building when firemen arrived, they said. Cause of the fire was thought possible to be from defective wiring.

The house and garage is owned by James Moyer, 630 Union street. Contents of the home were not there and neighbors did not know the name, firemen said.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Former swimming star Eleanor Holm Saturday was granted a divorce from showman Billy Rose in a routine 15-minute court appearance.

Miss Holm charged mental cruelty. The divorce was granted by District Judge A. S. Henderson.

Pioneer From Butteville Dies

BUTTEVILLE—Funeral services were held Wednesday in Portland for John Vernon Swan, 82, former resident of Butteville and prominently connected with IOOF work for nearly 80 years. He had worked for the wholesale commission firm of Everding & Farrell in Portland for 50 years prior to his retirement three years ago.

Mr. Swan died Sunday morning in a Portland hospital, a few hours after suffering a stroke at his home. He was a native of La-Crosse, Wis., son of Charles and Johanna Swan. He came to Oregon at the age of 19, but later returned to his native state to study at the University of Wisconsin.

As a young man he worked for John Vantelieur in the Butteville general store, which then received its merchandise by river steamer. He never lost interest in Willamette river transportation, attending nearly all of the veteran steamboatmen's reunions at Champoeg in late years.

His uncle, L. P. Swan, established Swan's flouring mill on Mill creek, near Champoeg, which was operated for many years until the building was torn down about four years ago.

Mr. Swan joined the Butteville IOOF lodge and served as its noble grand before transferring to Hassalo lodge in Portland after moving to that city. He had served as a trustee of the IOOF building in Portland for many years.

His first wife, the former Mary Yergen, to whom he was married at Butteville, died 25 years ago. He later married Lillian Shelton Pryor, who survives. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Hannah Hoskins of Portland, two nephews, Charles and Vern Hoskins and a niece, Mrs. Helen Janoski of Portland. Other nieces and nephews include L. Glenn, Norman and Ray Yergen and Mrs. John Kister of the Aurora-Butteville-Donald area.

Workers All Set to Start Red Cross Drive

George W. Goforth, Marion County director for the annual Red Cross campaign which starts Monday, said today that all the workers are ready for the drive and will be at work Monday morning.

It will not start with a kickoff breakfast as has been done before, but with concerted action nevertheless.

The advance gifts committees have been at work for the last two weeks. Some have brought in direct contributions, some pledges, but their exact reports have not yet been received.

The effort starting Monday will be county-wide and will reach places and home areas. While the campaign is scheduled to go through the month of March an effort will be made to make the goal before the end of the month.

"People helping people" is the keynote of the 1954 campaign, Director Goforth said, and a review of the statistics on the bloodprogram alone reveal the importance of people helping people.

From January 1, 1953, to January 1, 1954, there were 3,282 units of blood used in Marion County hospitals, the breakdown on the use as follows: Salem General Hospital, 1,629; Salem Memorial Hospital, 1,228; Santiam Hospital (at Stayton), 83; Silverton, 162, and the State Tuberculosis Hospital, 180.

During the year 1953, 651 pints of blood were collected in the county. Blood not used in Marion County was given to the armed forces and processed for the gamma globulin which is used in treating measles, polio and for other medical purposes.

The cost to the people of Marion County for the blood used in Marion County would have been $114,870, had the blood been purchased on a commercial basis—yet it was furnished without charge and this was possible because of the large number of volunteers who give of their time to the program. The actual cost to Marion County is approximately 20 percent of the total budget which this year amounts to $49,000.00. There were 232 women volunteers who participated in the program last year, giving a total of 3,900 hours of volunteer service. Considerably more than 4,000 men and women offered their blood, but rejections cut the total units taken. "It is Red Cross organizational know-how, plus the vast number of volunteer hours of service which enables the residents of Marion County to have adequate blood supplies on hand when trouble comes at so reasonable a cost, just 20 percent of the annual budget," Mr. Goforth declared.

gained serving in both legislative branches and the seniority attained in the Senate. I sincerely feel I am in a position to serve in the best interests of the people of Marion County and the State of Oregon, and be instrumental in providing the best of government."

Important Decree Near

An opinion of the legality of the reapportionment measure passed by the voters at the last general election is expected to be handed down by the State Supreme Court next week.

Many candidates for both the Senate and House are awaiting this decision before filing, in order to be certain what senatorial or representative district they will run for.

As a result Dave O'Hara, in charge of the election department of the secretary of state's office, expected a rush of filings to follow the announcement of the high court decision.

The final date for filing is Friday, March 12, and many candidates prefer to wait until the last day to file, and therefore there is expected to be a larger last minute rush of filings this year than at any time in the past.

Four House Seats to Fill

Quite a number of members of the Legislature have indicated they will not seek re-election, but legislators are known to have changed their minds, and until all the filings are in, it will not be known how many of these legislators are actually staying out of the race.

On the House side where four Marion County seats are at issue, only three candidates have thus far announced, they being Reps. W. W. Chadwick and Robert L. Elfstrom, both seeking re-election and Mayor Al Loucks who has announced he will try for a House seat.

Syrian Rebels

Advices to Beirut, Lebanon, from usually reliable sources said the demonstrators had seized the house of parliament and forced the resignation of Col. Shawkat Shkeir, the Army chief of staff who had proclaimed his support for a constitutional solution of the crisis.

The Damascus Army garrison was reported to have withdrawn to its barracks in the face of the demonstration.

Kuzbari Strong Man

The rebels appeared to be aiming to install a man of their own choice in the presidency.

Kuzbari, the speaker of the house, took over as president in automatic succession under the provisions of the constitution adopted in Shisheky's reign as a strong man. He said he would hold the office until a new president could be chosen in a constitutional election sometime in the next two months.

Shisheky is exiling himself in Saudi Arabia, a slier state of Syria in the eight-nation Moslem League. He took off by plane Saturday for Saudi Arabia after an overnight stay in Beirut as the guest of the Saudi Arabian legation.

Comeback Due

Naugib was ousted and placed in virtual house arrest Thursday after the ruling Army council charged he was trying to become a dictator.

Saturday's sudden turn of events came near the end of a day marked by an outbreak of conflicting loyalties within the Army. The first indication that something was afoot came in a radio broadcast warning that all disorder would be severely crushed. There was no hint in this broadcast as to the source from which the disorder might come.

The split had been confirmed by Capt. Fuad Nasr, staff officer in charge of the revolutionary council headquarters.

"Col. Nasser is in full control of the situation all over Egypt," he said. "Later today everything will be clear."

Only President Now

Under the compromise agreement, Naugib will come back only as president. He will relinquish his old secondary title of prime minister to Nasser, the man who engineered his overthrow two days ago.

Reports current Saturday morning said Naugib, who had been cloistered in his home since the coup d'etat two days ago, had been taken from there to some secret place, presumably for the meeting at which the compromise was arranged to settle the intra-Army dispute.

There was an air of tension throughout Cairo all day. Troops in battle kit were stationed in the city's main squares, jet military planes circled over the capital and the radio kept repeating its warnings against disorders.

Main center of activity was around the Abbassia Barracks. Sandbag gun emplacement were hastily erected around the area and a line of tanks took positions on the main highway leading to the area. Small field guns were fixed around the barracks. Military cars moved in and out, apparently on urgent errands.

of treaties. Only five senators of the 96 were not recorded on the roll call.

George's proposal—which the Senate had favored previously by a preliminary 61-30 vote—would have done more than nullify provisions of treaties and other international agreements which conflict with the Constitution.

The president objected that one part of the George proposal—requiring congressional approval before international agreements could become effective as domestic law—would have impinged upon his war powers and his authority to deal with diplomats of other nations. These agreements are made by the President or his representatives without having to be ratified by the Senate, as treaties are.

Lower Bonneville Dam Lake Friday

PORTLAND (AP)—The pool behind Bonneville Dam will be lowered beginning next Friday to make room for the Columbia River's annual spring flood crests.

Army Engineers said the draining would continue until the elevation is lowered from the average 78 feet to 73 1/2 feet. That will probably take until March 8.

The level of the pool will rise to about 82.5 feet during the runoff the engineers estimated.
