Group Clears 'Strike it Rich'

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The state legislative committee probing charity rackets Wednesday handed a clean bill of health to the radio and television program "Strike it Rich."
 The chairman and vice chairman said a thorough check-up had shown that money donated by listeners and viewers went to needy persons appearing on the show "at an administrative cost of less than two per cent."
 It is not within the province of the committee "to pass on the good taste or bad taste of a radio or television program," Sen. Bernard Tompkins and Assemblyman Samuel Rabin of the joint legislative committee on charitable and philanthropic agencies said in a joint statement.
 Needy persons appear on the show to tell of their hardships and to answer quizzes for prizes. Over what the producers call the "heart line," listeners and viewers often contribute cash or gifts.
 The committee investigated the show after New York City's welfare commissioner had complained that some persons who went to the city in hope of appearing became public welfare charges.

Bandit Trail at Albany Found

ALBANY — The sawed-off shotgun, mask and rubber gloves used in the Feb. 2 robbery of Pay-Less Drug store were discovered by city police Wednesday and Thursday after Miss Eda Krueger reported theft of an overcoat from her garage at 731 Broadalbin St., Chief of Police Ray Maddy revealed Tuesday.
 Maddy said the articles and a number of stolen checks were abandoned by the robber in and near a garage at the Krueger home. Miss Krueger, police said, was not at home the night of Feb. 22, giving the robber plenty of time to cache his gun and disguise.
 Chief Maddy indicated that he now believes the robber left Albany soon after the robbery.

Miss Krueger also notified police a pair of rubber gloves had been left in her garage.
 Officers making the investigation also discovered a four-foot long piece of blue dress material in the garage, Maddy said. Two holes had been cut in the center of the material and were presumed to be the eye-holes of the robber's mask.
 The ragged article was identified by Pay-Less Pharmacist James Engle, who was held up in the robbery, as having been worn by the bandit. The escapee netted the nervous robber $1115, some of it in checks.

The gun, which had no stock, was identified by William Washburn, Pay-Less clerk who found it in the store's basement three days before the hold-up. Washburn told police he had assumed at the time that it belonged to an employee of the store. It was put to use by the robber after he hid in the store's basement until closing time.
 Search of the Krueger garage revealed checks totaling $183.19 wadded up in the bottom of a barrel, according to Chief Maddy.

Fight to Save Lebanon Mail

LEBANON—A representative of the Chamber of Commerce has talked with Paul Young, district superintendent of mail transportation of the post office department, concerning curtailment of Sunday mail service in Lebanon.
 Chamber secretary Charles DeFoe made the trip to determine means whereby an order cancelling Sunday service might be rescinded. The order went into effect March 1.
 According to a report made this week, Young told DeFoe that the city must show specific examples of hardship if Sunday mail service is to be continued.
 The chamber manager discovered that Lebanon is the largest Oregon city affected by the order, and that Newport is the only other class A post office affected.
 Other towns in the state where Sunday service will be dropped include Lakeview, Heppner, Elgin, Joseph, Enterprise and John Day.
 The chamber civic affairs committee is now preparing data to show postal authorities that Sunday service is necessary to the city's business life, DeFoe said.
