WOUNDED CONGRESSMEN

Rep Clifford Davis, left, (D., Tenn.) and Rep. Ben F. Jen-sen (R., Ia.), rest in Bethesda Naval Hospital, near Washing-ton, after being treated for bullet wounds suffered on the floor of the House when a band of Puerto Rican extremists fired at the legislators, wounding five. Davis was shot in leg; Jensen through shoulder. (AP Wirephoto)

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R., Mich.) who was seriously wounded when Puerto Ricans opened fire from the gallery on House members, is shown testifying earlier in the day before the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee on a bill which would raise mail carrier salaries. Bentley, one of five con-gressman hit by the pistol volleys, was taken to Casualty Hospital, Washington, after being hit in the upper right chest by a bullet which traveled through the lung, diaphragm, liver and stomach and came out his left side.
