Bonnie's Case Up Tuesday

The State Supreme Court next Tuesday is scheduled to hear a petition for a rehearing of the case of Bonnie Lee Kuhnhausen whose second-degree murder conviction was reversed by the high court on grounds by the high court was given a speedy trial.
The petition was filed by Winston Bradshaw, Clackamas county district attorney, who claims the trial was not delayed an unreasonable time. The woman was convicted in the 1950 slaying of Jalmer Tarkia along with Elmer Dorsey Williams who is serving a life sentence.

Rail Crossing

part, he added, but did not feel it fair to be called upon to bear the entire cost.
Prior to the close of the case the morning session was taken up by cross-examination of C. E. Jaqua, public utility grade crossing engineer, who conducted an independent investigation on assignment by Commissioner Heltzel. Jaqua outlined his recommendations Wednesday and enlarged upon them at the session Thursday.
Earlier Wednesday Val Johnson, state highway department engineer, as a witness for the city, also made recommendations for grade crossings, many of which were similar to those favored by Jaqua.
Mayor Al Louck, also a witness for the city, told the commission that he did not pose as a grade crossing expert and for that reason he did not wish to make any specific recommendations. He thought many of the grade crossings were not adequately protected.
The mayor said that on a recent trip to New Orleans he observed "hundreds" of drop gates at railroad crossings, testimony evidently introduced by a witness for the city, and that he felt that the railroad gates were not being used generally.
Jaqua's recommendations for additional protection at the various Salem grad. crossings were: Silverton road, drop arms; Woodrow, no change; Tile road, either closed entirely or flashing lights; Madison, no change; Market, flashing lights; Nebraska, closed or drop arms; Marion, Center, Chemekeita, flashing lights; Court, flashing lights; State street, tie in with traffic signals with flashing lights; Ferry, Mill, Mission and Hines, flashing lights.
Johnson of the highway department recommended: Silverton road, flashing lights; Woodrow and Tile, no change; Madison, no change; Market, drop arms; Nebraska no recommendation; D street, no change or drop arms; Marion, drop arms; Center and Chemekeita, drop arms; Court, flashing lights; State street, drop arms; Ferry street, no change and no recommendation on Mill, Mission and Hines streets.
Mayor Louck told the commission that the city still was considering insulating the tracks between Marion and State streets by widening the street and building a curb on the west side of the railroad tracks. This proposal was once made in a measure to the people but voted down.
Commissioner Heltzel said that the commission could not base any of its findings on any possible action in the future but only upon fact as they now exist and presented in this hearing.

Red Cells

"I don't think much of the possibility of being court martialled because I didn't do anything to violate the constitution particularly the free speech clause. I didn't hurt any of my fellow prisoners and I didn't give them (the Communists) any information."
Batchelor said he was ashamed of what he did and said he would fight communism "in the most effective way I can find—even to fighting on the front lines in the event of a war."
"I have a personal score to settle," he said. "It's not an easy thing to wake up and find you've been made a sucker of for three years."

Y Rangers to Visit Camp

The YMCA Rangers, composed of nine and ten year olds, will leave Friday at 5:30 a.m. on a trip to Camp Crestwood, eight miles south of Salem. They will return Saturday noon.
It is expected that between 20 and 25 boys will make the trip. Games and boys activities will be on the program at the camp.
Ten Gra-Y boys clubs will participate in a basketball jamboree Saturday night on the YMCA gymnasium floor. Each club will play two games with the team ranking up the most points winning the jamboree. Following the games the boys and their dads will have a party and the club with the highest percentage of Dads present will receive a prize.

Belsky Denies

had stated that all Army and government witnesses should "willingly and cheerfully give testimony" so long as it did not endanger security.
Belsky is general to the Army's Murphy General Hospital at Waltham, Mass.
McCarthy said he thought Belsky should be cited for contempt of Congress after the 25-year-old doctor declined to answer whether he honestly believed it might have tended to incriminate him to answer all the questions he had refused to answer. He had pleaded the right against self-incrimination.
Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) put the broad question to Belsky, saying he did not think witnesses should be allowed to invoke their constitutional protection under the fifth amendment merely to keep information from congressional investigators.
McCarthy said that since Belsky had refused to answer this question, he had successfully invoked his constitutional protection on all the previous questions.
While McCarthy promptly recommended contempt action, the subcommittee deferred a decision until later.
The hearing was recessed until Friday morning without calling any other witnesses. McCarthy said six other witnesses had been summoned in connection with "al-

4 Cars Damaged In Accidents

Three accidents were investigated by city police at Salem intersections Wednesday. Four cars suffered considerable damage but no one was injured, police said. All the accidents occurred during morning hours.
Cars driven by Coy D. Whitlock, 3380 Crawford street and Frank L. Faught, Aberdeen, Wash., collided at the intersection of North Liberty and Marion streets with both cars being badly damaged.
A collision at North Church and Center streets caused considerable damage to cars driven by David E. Hill, 1425 Sagnaw street, and Leonard J. Ahnenmacher, 2350 South 12th street.
Minor damage was done to cars driven by Lois Maxine Braesch, 5120 Robindale drive and George Bingham Causey, 2417 Center street, when they collided at the intersection of Center and 17th streets.

McCarthy said that since Belsky had refused to answer this question, he had successfully invoked his constitutional protection on all the previous questions.
While McCarthy promptly recommended contempt action, the subcommittee deferred a decision until later.
The hearing was recessed until Friday morning without calling any other witnesses. McCarthy said six other witnesses had been summoned in connection with "al-

That fanatic fusillade in the House of representatives touched off a chain reaction that still reverberated through the capital. The latest developments:
1. It was learned from authoritative sources that the FBI reportedly has warned the Justice Department that Nationalists were conspiring to assassinate U.S. leaders.
2. The Justice Department put it up to the FBI to produce enough evidence to smash the Nationalist Party by prosecuting its leaders under the Smith Act that makes it a crime to advocate the overthrow of the government.
3. A fast moving federal Grand Jury returned an indictment yesterday afternoon against the four Nationalist assassins who carried out Monday's attack. They were charged with intent to kill and assault with intent to kill and officials planned to press for an early trial.
