Gerry Frank to Talk to Lions

Gerry Frank, who will become manager of the Salem store of the Meier and Frank company, will address the Salem Lions club Thursday noon at the Marion hotel on the subject "Meet Me Under the Clock." The talk will constitute a development of the Meier and Frank story of nearly a century of history.

Gerry Frank is a fourth generation man of the Meier and Frank concern. He attended Stanford and Loyola universities and received his master's degree from Cambridge in England.

During World War II Frank served as a sergeant major in the artillery with the U.S. Third army in Europe.

Ike's Statement

loyal members of the United Nations, we also say that in compliance with the obligations and principles contained in Article II of the United Nations charter, the United States will not use force to disturb the settlement. We also say that any renewal of Communist aggression would be viewed by us as a matter of grave concern.

"As evidence of our resolve to assist Cambodia and Laos to play their part, in full independence and sovereignty, in the peaceful community of free nations, we are requesting the agreement of the governments of Cambodia and Laos to our appointment of an ambassador or minister to be resident at their capitals (Phnom Penh and Vientiane). We already have a chief of mission at Saigon, the capital of Viet Nam, and this embassy will, of course, be maintained.

"The United States is actively pursuing discussions with other free nations with a view to the rapid organization of a collective defense in Southeast Asia in order to prevent further direct or indirect Communist aggression in that general area."

Members from about 30 chambers of commerce in Western Oregon will be invited to attend the September meeting.

Appearing with Johnston will be a panel of staff members handling various departments of the organization. A question and answer session will follow his talk.

President of the Salem chamber, William Hammond, will preside at the meeting and Charles A. Sprague will act as moderator. Sprague is nominally chairman of Johnston's appearance since he is chairman of the Salem chamber's national affairs committee.

Johnston in private life is president of the Britol Grocery company and an officer and director of several other large business firms.

Say Untested

long-range combination receiving-sending sets although the sets were still unproven.

This contract later was expanded to call for 3,900 sets for spare parts at an estimated price of $4 million dollars, the subcommittee said. As of last June 30, approximately 790 sets had been delivered. And, the subcommittee said, the Air Force now estimates that required redesigning will run the costs under this contract to 71 millions.

The subcommittee said despite serious and obvious defects in the sets, the Air Force entered into a second contract in April 1953 for 1,845 more sets at an estimated price of $3 million dollars. This second contract was cancelled three weeks ago.

The congressmen said they would not criticize limited purchase of an untested model, to try to supply armed forces with the best of equipment. But they called the size of the first contract, and especially the letting of a second contract, "completely unjustifiable."

The subcommittee said the Air Force went into the second contract "when there were tested commercial sets of advanced design available at a fraction of the cost."

The subcommittee recommended a complete re-study of contracts for the long-range sets, and a similar study of other contracts for short-range sets including a new RCA-developed model.

Murray Wins In Montana

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Veteran Sen. James E. Murray and Rep. Wesley A. D'Ewart, a 10-year member of the House, will battle for a U.S. Senate seat in Montana's general election next November.

Murray, a 78-year-old Democrat and the Senate's sixth-ranking member, and D'Ewart, senior Republican on the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, held lopsided leads for their respective party nominations in primary election returns early today.

About half the state's record total of 283,651 registered voters cast ballots yesterday. The campaign, calmest in Montana history, was void of national issues.

Murray, who remained in Washington and left his vote appeals to a strong state organization, and other incumbents based their campaigns on their records in office.

Subversion Expected
He indicated, however, that he expects the Reds to continue using deceit and subversion as well as secret, well-financed conspiracies to gain its ends.

To a question of whether he thought there was "any element of appeasement" in the cease-fire in Indochina, as suggested by some Congress members, the chief executive said he hesitated to use such words as he meant different things to different people.

He added the agreement was not entirely satisfactory to us, that it was not what we'd like to have, but that if there is no better plan, he is not going to criticize what has been done.

Traffic Laws

The analysis reported less center line marking than in most other states. Other engineering recommendations included continuance of posting curves with safe speed signs and urged that the need of posting special speed limit signs along additional highways in fringe areas be investigated.

Oregon's highway engineering program last year won an award for excellence from the Institute of Traffic Engineers.

Further development of the public information section in Oregon was recommended. At present personnel in this division barely meets the recommended minimum. The safety council urged supply of more newspaper materials and said more radio and television time is needed. Stepped up distribution of safety literature, further use of posters and billboards and more safety speeches by state people were also recommended in the analysis.

Other recommendations were largely with administrative, dealing with such fields as legislation, accident records, driver licensing, motor vehicle inspection, school traffic and death and injury records.

Inventory analysis commended Oregon for "tremendous improvement in state safety organization in 1953."

Mill City Reverses And Approves Bonds

MILL CITY—A bond issue of $93,000 was approved by Mill City voters Tuesday by a vote of 203 yes to 53 no. This reversed the vote of a year ago when the issue was disapproved by a vote of 112 yes to 115 no.

The bond issue will finance street improvements, drainage and grading which will start as soon as materials are ready. N. W. Haner of Portland is the engineer in charge.

Boy Scout Camp In Second Week

The second week of the Cascade Area Council Boy Scouts of America camping program for the summer got under way at Camp Pioneer Sunday with a capacity enrollment. Registration for the entire four weeks has been at capacity, reports Gordon Gilmore, scout executive.

Scout units in camp this week and their leaders consist of: Troop 11, Nate Steinbock; Troop 15, Dr. Bongberg; Troop 105, Don Dawson; Troop 19, Nate Steinbock, all of Salem; Troop 48, Aumsville and Troop 50, Stayton, C. R. Baldwin; Troops 22 and 21, Albany, Orris Carnegie and John Murray; Troop 83, Albany, Mel Fleener; Troop 59, Woodburn, Sam Smith.

In some instances wives of the leaders accompanied their husbands and are living in the section of camp allotted to families.

The advancement program was emphasized during a recent court of honor when 65 merit badges were awarded. Other advancements included 7 tenderfoot awards; 20 second class, 4 first class, 2 star scouts, and 3 life scouts.

The second tour of the Eight Lakes basin was started Monday under the leadership of Jim Kern. The boys, of high school age, make the trip on foot over trails and sleep out. They will return Saturday.

A meeting of the executive board of the council will be held at camp Sunday with W. W. McKinney, council president, in charge. An inspection of the camp will be made.

NGUYEN HUU TRI ILL
SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—Nguyen Huu Tri, who recently resigned as governor of northern Viet Nam, suffered an internal hemorrhage Wednesday. He was rushed to a military hospital, where his condition was considered critical.

Iron Curtain

its traditional position that peoples are entitled to determine their own future and that it will not join in an arrangement which would hinder this," Smith told the conference.

Hopes for United Action
He said the United States shared the hope that the armistice agreements signed Wednesday would permit the three associated states, Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam, "to play their part in full independence and sovereignty, in the peaceful community of nations, and will enable the peoples of that area to determine their own future."

Smith told the conference the United States was not prepared to "join in a declaration by the conference such as is submitted." The United States, he said, is resolved to devote its efforts to the strengthening of peace "in accordance with the principles and purposes of the United Nations."

The final declaration of the conference was a three-page document, listing in 13 paragraphs the various agreements reached here for establishing peace.

Confidence was expressed in the declaration that a political settlement would be achieved in Viet Nam in the near future. The date of the general all Viet Namese elections was disclosed for the first time—July 1956.

Election Supervision
The elections will be conducted under the supervision of an international commission composed of representatives of India, Canada and Poland. The same states will police the armistice in Indochina.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said the agreements sealed here Wednesday were "the best that our hands could devise."

W.U. Campus Very Active

Willamette university's campus is unusually active in spite of the fact that the fall term will not get under way for several weeks.

The building program, which includes the construction of three structures on what was known for many years as Sweetland field, is providing work for several score mechanics.

Also on the campus are about 60 young men who are housed in Baxter hall, when they are not drilling on McCulloch field as candidates for the New York Giants professional football team.

The summer session, sponsored by the university, has attracted a considerable number of young men and women who are either taking advanced work or are securing credits to enhance their educational background.

The buildings, which consist of a health center, a woman's dormitory and an auditorium-fine arts structure, are all under way, with the former the furthest advanced. All three structures will be of reinforced concrete with brick facing. They will be finished for the opening of the 1955 school year.

The university is engaged in its customary program of repairs and alterations.

MOSCOW CLAIMS VICTORY
TOKYO (AP)—Reporting the cease-fire in Indochina, Moscow radio said today the Geneva conference is closing with "an important and final decision that will prove a new victory for the power of peace."

"All will now depend upon the spirit in which those agreements are observed and carried out," he said. "The agreements concluded today could not, in the nature of things, give complete satisfaction to everyone. But they have made it possible to stop a war which has lasted for eight years and brought suffering and hardship to millions of people."
