

TRACE COURSE OF SILVERTON MURDER CAR

SILVERTON—Sheriff's investigators believe they may have discovered the escape route used by the rifle slayer of Ervin O. Kaser, 49-year-old Silverton farmer, Thursday night. A witness has been found who saw a car answering the description of the murder car emerging from Paradise Alley into Silverton-Stayton highway and driving towards Silverton 10 minutes after the killing. At the time of the killing the slayer fled south on the Stayton highway. Police believe he turned west and fled northward to Silverton Road over back roads as the first wave of police cars sped to the scene, then emerged behind them over Paradise Alley and drove northward into Silverton. An intensive search of the Paradise Alley area for the murder weapon will be made. Arrowed line marks theoretical escape route.

Lynch at Ontario Heads Press Conference

EUGENE (U) — Don Lynch, publisher of the Ontario Argus Observer, is the new president of the Oregon Press Conference.

Others elected Saturday at the closing business session of the annual meeting were W. Verne McKinney, publisher of the Hillsboro Argus, director of the Erie W. Allen Memorial Fund, and Carl Webb, secretary-manager. Both held those offices last year.

Don Belding, Los Angeles advertising executive, was principal speaker at Saturday's session. Belding announced that Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, an organization which he heads, will make a series of awards totaling $20,000 for college journalism students.

There will be 100 awards of $100 each and 20 fellowship awards of $500 each, he said. The awards will be made to the writers of the best

Banquet, Business At Credit Conference

A Saturday night banquet at the Senator Hotel and a Sunday conference at the Marion featured the Oregon-Columbia Retail convention, attended by credit agency representatives.

About 200 attended and Salem Credit Association was host with Charles E. Schmitz, manager of the Salem association as chairman of the meeting. Al Loucks, former Salem mayor and now a member of the Legislature, was master of ceremonies at the Sunday morning meeting. Among speakers were J. D. Hartup, president of District 10 of the National Retail Credit Association; Walter W. R. May, Oregon City and Portland publisher; Robert W. Johnson, Portland credit manager; and R. O. Johnson, state real estate commissioner.

Women of the conference attended a separate breakfast Sunday morning with the Credit Women Clubs of Salem and Roseburg as hostesses.

Academy Mardi Gras Monday Night Event

The Mardi Gras Carnival at Sacred Heart Academy gets under way at 6 p.m. Monday and will last until midnight with proceeds to go into the student fund.

Participating in the colorful event will be students, parents and faculty members of the school.

Each of the classes will be in charge of one phase of the event. The senior class will sponsor a variety of games; junior girls will operate the gift shop; the sophomore class will conduct a "country store," while the freshmen will sponsor a cakewalk and snack bar. A shoe shine parlor will be manned by fathers of the students.

The carnival is open to the public.

Pauper's Grave Receives Body Of Little Girl

BRYTE, Calif. (UP) — The short impoverished life of little Katela Ann Doyle ended in a pauper's grave here today.

The little girl, daughter of an unemployed Fresno, Calif., laborer and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Doyle, became sick two weeks ago. She was taken to a clinic and pronounced not seriously ill.

But the Doyles didn't have money to give proper shelter to the family and last week started out with hopes high for a lumber mill job in Medford, Ore. During the trip the family slept in their car, one night in this small community near Sacramento. The next morning the girl was dead from pneumonia. Katela Ann was buried in the county plot of Woodland cemetery. Then the Doyle family drove on to Medford.

GOP Chances Good in 1956

WASHINGTON (U) — Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.) took issue Monday with an appraisal by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) that the Republicans face "heavily stacked" odds in their fight to regain Senate control in 1956.

Millikin, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, said in an interview he isn't at all pessimistic about GOP chances of gaining the net of one or two seats they need to recapture the Senate. "We have never had better prospects than we have right now," he declared. "We have an excellent national administration and I am sure its record will appeal to the voters."

Goldwater, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, reported to the GOP National Committee last week that a grass roots survey indicates 10 GOP Senate seats are "in great danger" while only two Democratic posts are similarly threatened by the Republicans. His report became available Sunday.

Of the 32 seats at stake next year, Republicans now hold 17 and Democrats 15. The Senate's present division is 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans. Whichever party wins the vice presidency in 1956 could organize the Senate with 48 regular party votes, since the Vice President may vote to break a tie.

The U. S. traffic death toll is 7.3 deaths per hundred million miles of auto travel, the lowest in the world and 50 per cent lower than it was 15 years ago.

Neuberger Attacks School Program

PITTSBURGH (U) — Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore.) Sunday continued his attack on the Eisenhower administration's proposals for federal aid to public schools.

He said he was particularly opposed to the 200-million-dollar limitation in federal aid to hard-pressed school districts.

"Why my own state—with only one per cent of the national population—needs 100 million dollars alone in additional public school funds in the next five years," he said.

"We're 300,000 classrooms behind now, in terms of new construction. We'll never catch up under a program like this," he added.

Neuberger was here to speak at a dinner sponsored by the Henry Monks Foundation of Bnai Brith.
