Thiessen-Hunsinger Rites Recently at Aberdeen, Ida.

From Aberdeen, Idaho, comes an account of the wedding of Miss Yvonne Louise Hunsinger of that city and John B. Thiessen of Salem. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hunsinger of Aberdeen and Mr. Thiessen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Thiessen of Salem.

The wedding was the evening of March 10 in the First Mennonite church at Aberdeen, Idaho, the Rev. Rudolf Toews officiating. Mrs. Raymond Funk was the organist. Lighting the candles were Miss Wanda Thiessen, sister of the bridegroom, and Ivan Hunsinger, brother of the bride. Mrs. Maurice Wedel was soloist for the wedding.

The altar was decorated with tiered candelabras holding lighted tapers, white baskets of deep rose stock and Calla lilies, potted palms and ferns.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a dress of white slipper satin and lace. The bodice was of lace and net, styled with a small collar trimmed with silver sequins, and the sleeves were long and pointed. The skirt of satin ended in a train. The veil was the something borrowed, having been worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Albert Horsch. It was three-quarters length, edged with wide French lace and was caught to a small white satin halo decorated with miniature seed pearls. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and white carnations tied with white ribbon.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Albert Horsch, sister of the bride. She wore a white faille taffeta frock, ballerina length, with net overskirt and red sequin trim on the net and at the neckline. She wore a half hat and carried a colonial bouquet of red roses, white carnations and narcissuses, tied with red ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Homer Hadley, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and her dress was identical to that worn by the matron of honor, and her flowers also were a colonial bouquet.

Carla and Alberta Horsch, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. Both were dressed in white baby puckered nylon frocks with scallops and tiny red bows at the hemline. Mark Hadley, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Jerald Thiessen, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and Homer Hadley the groomsmen. Albert Horsch, Elmer Moser, Elmer Isaak and Howard Klempel were the ushers.

A reception followed the service. Miss Barbara Hege played piano music during the reception. The bride's table was set with a white lace cloth, a four-tiered wedding cake topped by a bridal couple ornament and decorated with small red roses and green leaves, and white candles tied with red ribbons. Pouring were Mrs. Elmer Moser and Mrs. Elmer Isaak; and cutting the cake were Mrs. John Neuman, Mrs. Sam Neuman and Mrs. Abe Isaak. Others assisting at the reception were Miss Sharon Wiebe, Miss Marlene Lehnötn, Miss Norma Lehman, Miss Lucille Hege, Miss Arliss Hege, Miss Maryann Maisch, Miss Susan Maisch, Miss Karen Dalke, Miss Nancy Dalke, Miss Rachel Toews, Mrs. Fred Maisch, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Harder, Mrs. Art Langenwaller, Mrs. Howard Klempel, Miss Elsie Wiebe, Dale Hadley, Miss Loretta Neuman.

AAUW Hears Dr. Laughlin

The history of the Eskimos and of the Aleutians was the subject for a talk given at the luncheon meeting of Salem branch of the American Association of University Women, Saturday, by Dr. William Seva Laughlin, associate professor of anthropology at University of Oregon. The luncheon was at the Marion hotel.

Dr. Laughlin has spent much time in Alaska making studies of the culture and biology of the northern peoples, and reports that due to many factors the anthropologists know more basic information about the Eskimos than is known of our own people. The early Eskimos left a rich material culture, and the fact that these people occupied the same site for hundreds of years makes the study of their life easier, he said.

Dr. Laughlin spoke of the family life, homes, food and the education of the Eskimo. He stressed the individualism of the Eskimos, their conviction that a person can always find his way out of a problem, and the ingenious methods developed for arctic survival.

Mrs. John H. Hann, president of Salem AAUW, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Paul L. Patterson, state chairman for committee on by-laws and Mrs. Robert Y. Thornton, state president of AAUW, were introduced, also Miss Mary Laughlin, sister of the speaker.

Miss Griffith Wed At Lebanon Rites

LEBANON—Miss Ida Jean Griffith and Ronald Ray Reeser were wed at the First Christian church on the evening of March 10. The Rev. L. O. White read the double ring service at an altar decorated with gladioluses and lighted tapers.

Mrs. Carl Newport was organist, and Ray Workman sang.

The bride, daughter of J. J. Griffith and Mrs. Charlotte Griffith of Lebanon, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin dress with full train and matching mitts. On her white Bible was a spray of red carnations.

The bride's sister, Miss Joan Griffith, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of pink net over satin. Miss Vivna Brinson, wearing a similarly styled blue dress, and Miss Shirley Grace, in yellow, lighted the tapers.

Charles Reeser was best man for his brother, and ushers were Joe Sherman, Larry Dryden and Dell Kennel.

A church reception followed the ceremony, more than 300 guests present. Mrs. Robert Reeser and Mrs. Tom Kelly poured. The cake was cut by Mrs. A. H. Levins.

For her wedding trip to California, the bride wore a blue tweed suit and white accessories. She attended schools in Redmond and Lebanon. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reeser, Tangent, went to school in Albany. The couple will make their home south of Lebanon.

Society Meets

DALLAS — Mrs. Elmer Goossen and Mrs. Matt Gillis were co-hostesses when the St. Ann's Altar society of St. Philip's Catholic church met at the home of the former last week.

During the business meeting plans were made for the Italian spaghetti dinner which the Altar society is sponsoring Sunday, April 24, at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Mrs. Henry Schmitt is general chairman of the affair.

At the close of the evening the hostesses served refreshments to Miss Paulin Aulen, Mrs. Donald Page, Mrs. Darrell Williams, Mrs. Robert Rodgers, Mrs. Ted Primus, Mrs. Rose Nichols, Mrs. Dean Reichardt, Mrs. Schmitt and Mrs. William A. Duncan.
