

Some Notations . . .

By M. L. F.

May day came early this year in Salem's social life. . . In other words, Wednesday featured two very pretty May day parties, hostesses not allowing the dampness outside to dampen their interest in arranging colorful and gay May day settings and favors. . .

First on the busy day's calendar was the chatty coffee gathering for which Mrs. J. L. Siegmund, Mrs. Lloyd Demarest and Mrs. Palmer Sather were hostesses at the Siegmund home between 8:30 and 10 o'clock, the three inviting fellow secretaries in the State Senate and other friends for coffee preceding opening of the session. . .

"Beds behind—Session ahead! Who can work before she's fed?" Featuring the springtime decor for the party was a May basket tree arranged in front of the large mirror over the fireplace. . .

Enjoyable finale for a day of partying was the informal open house and buffet for which Governor and Mrs. Paul L. Patterson were hosts at their home last evening for the legislative press, some 40 attending the gathering. . .

Luncheon hostesses Wednesday were three legislative wives, Mrs. Eddie Ahrens of Turner, Mrs. Arthur P. Ireland of Forest Grove, Mrs. Irvin Mann of Adams, the three entertaining at Lipman's tearoom for about 50. . .

PLEASANTDALE—Mrs. William King St. had as her weekend guest, a friend, Mrs. Effie Smith of Vancouver, B. C. The two ladies grew up together in Scotland many years ago.

Campus Set To Greet HS Students

By ANNE (Capital Journal Correspondent)
UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene (Special)—In spite of less-than-spring-like weather, Webfoots are busily preparing for the "three week ends" of spring term, the first of which is this coming weekend, Duck Preview.
Approximately 1500 high school students had registered Tuesday, and arrangements for housing, keep changing in all sororities, fraternities and dorms as more registrations come in.
Wednesday was the big all-campus primary election day, and it was a big day for at least two Salemites, Marcia Webb, who was a booth captain for one of the booths and was in charge of it all day, and Sally Jo Greig, who was a candidate for junior representative.

Auditions for skills, presented by fraternities and sororities, were Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Sororities participating in the final vovdil show, Friday night, are Kappa Kappa Gamma, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Chi Omega and Delta Delta Delta.
Wednesday was also a big day for Bob Robinson, who has been covering most of the election and political stories for the Emerald. His work will not end with the primary, however, because he'll be covering more politics until the general election, May 4.
Bob Sogge and the Baker's Half-Dozen will provide some of the intermission entertainment for the vovdil show Friday. Another big moment during the show will be the announcement of the court for Junior Week end. Julie Miller of Salem has been busy making arrangements for this presentation.

Robert J. Oppenheimer is a much-talked-about and well-attended lecturer on campus this week end. Tuesday night, his first appearance, brought 2,500 or more people to the Student Union, where there is ballroom seating for only 1100. Among students and townspeople standing in the hallway upstairs outside the ballroom were Ron Morgall and Al Heston.

The fishbowl area was also filled, and many more packed the tables and chairs there where they listened via the public-address system. Chuck Dahlen was a Salemite who chose this method of hearing the famed physicist.
Oppenheimer was at a luncheon meeting and talked Tuesday for members of the two freshman scholastic honoraries, Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Lambda Delta.
An annual car-wash, to raise money for World University Service, was scheduled Thursday afternoon after being called off last week because of rain. Sororities participating in it are Pi Beta Phi, Zeta Tau Alpha, Sigma Kappa, Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Zeta, Delta Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Delta Gamma, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Phi and Gamma Phi Beta.
More Salemites names have been added to the lists of those working on various subcommittees for Junior Week end. A member of the all-campus luncheon committee is Judy Carlson.
Mary Jane Rud will serve as the Theta house's representative for the canoe fate float, also for Junior Week end. She is, in addition, social chairman of her house and as such quite busy with Duck Preview plans.

Peg in Washington

BY ALENE (PEG) PHILLIPS

Washington, D.C., April 17
Dear Marian:
How two women plan the murder of their respective husbands so that they may enjoy life on the Riviera and the romantic ease of traveling about Venice in gondolas is the theme of a new comedy, "The Honeys," playing here this week. Even though it was written as a farce and comedy lines are many, it still seemed too ridiculous in its development of the plot for the viewer to enter into the spirit of the presumably gay adventures. Jessica Tandy and Hugh Cronyn, that favorite husband and wife acting team, and Dorothy Stickney, also a talented actress, carried the leads with skill and zest. But somehow after chuckling over some funny bits of stage business, and admiring the character impersonations, one had little to remember—in fact, when asked 48 hours later how I liked the play, I had to stop and deliberately call it to mind. Perhaps it may polish up into a better production and perhaps my reaction was not the universal one, but it was obvious that there wasn't any appreciable after-glow of enthusiasm in the lobby as the audience filed out.

Congressman and Mrs. Sam Coon, of the Eastern Oregon district, entertained Friday evening at a buffet for Mr. and Mrs. Ed Coon, of Spokane, in their apartment looking out over Rock Creek Park. Some congressional people from Washington, Oregon, and California, and friends of the couple from the home state and from the District here had an enjoyable time for chatter. The Congressman's brother is a banker in Spokane and he and his wife were here on a first visit to Washington. Among the Oregon group were Secretary and Mrs. Douglas McKay, two other Congressional couples, the Harris Ellsworths and the Walter Norblads, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Smyth, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Say. An interesting Chinese couple, Bill and Lillian Lee, almost seemed like Oregonians in their enthusiasm for the state in which they have a number of good friends.

Special Spanish candy that one of the hostesses scurried around Washington to find was one of the tidbits on the buffet table when the Arizerian Newspaper Women's Club entertained last week in honor of the Spanish Ambassador and the Countess of Motrico. The candy, a special favorite of the Ambassador, did not get rave notices from others who sampled it as it seemed both too rich and too dry for American tastes. But it added a filipp interest to the table, which among other things had two hams—a Smithfield and what I call a "western" type—both prepared by Town House in Georgetown which did a lavish job of catering. Spanish and American flags and red roses and yellow daffodils representing the colors of Spain made the club house festive. The vivacity and charm of the couple kept them surrounded until they had to hurry on to their own dinner party given in honor of Secretary of State and Mrs. Dulles. The countess topped her black taffeta cocktail dress with a ruby red, close fitting, hat that sparkled with sequins. The gown had a large moire collar and a brilliant pin at the belt line for further glitter.
The color of tulips by the score was a feature at the Netherlands Embassy last week when Ambassador and Mme. van Roijen entertained at a cocktail party. All shades, and especially long stemmed, the blooms from Holland bulbs provided a marvelous flower show. Even the gayest of Easter hats faded in such surroundings. Imagine what it did to one's year-old bonnet!
