

Dams Will Be Open to Public

Oregon this week awaits the arrival of George H. Roderick, Assistant Secretary of the Army, in Eugene for the dedication of the Corps of Engineers' Lookout Point Project, 23 miles southeast of Eugene on the Middle Fork Willamette River.

Although both Lookout Point and Dexter Dams will be open for public inspection all day Saturday, the dedication program beginning at 2 p.m. will last for only one hour.

Governor Paul L. Patterson of Oregon will be master of ceremonies. Other speakers, besides Assistant Secretary Roderick, will include Brigadier General Emerson C. Itchner, Assistant Chief of Engineers, and Congressman Harris Ellsworth of Oregon.

It is estimated more than 10,000 persons will attend the dedication of this key $89,000,000 unit in the Corps of Engineers' multiple-purpose Willamette River Basin Project.

The three 40,000-kilowatt generators in the Lookout Point powerhouse and the 15,000-kilowatt generator in the Dexter powerhouse will be in operation on dedication day.

On hand for the occasion will be the 22-piece 2nd Infantry Band of Fort Lewis, Washington. The 497th Fighter Interceptor Squadron will conduct flight maneuvers at 1 p.m. Dedication Day. The Eugene Yacht Club will sponsor an aquatic show, with sailboat races, speed boat races, water skiing and excursion trips on both Lookout Point and Dexter reservoirs.

Science Award For 2nd Time

Rev. Charles A. Saalfeld, S.J., former Salem and Gervais resident, graduate of Sacred Heart academy in Salem, and now science teacher at Marquette High School, Yakima, Wash., has been awarded a Westinghouse science fellowship for the second consecutive year.

He left Monday for Cambridge, Mass., where he will attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology from June 27 to August 5. Last year he attended Carnegie Institute of Technology on one of the Westinghouse fellowships.

Father Saalfeld is a member of the Jesuit order and was ordained to the priesthood at San Francisco in 1946. He has been teaching chemistry and physics at Yakima for the last six years.

His mother, Mrs. Frank Saalfeld, lives at Gervais and a sister, Teresa Cooper, lives in Salem. He is cousin of Rev. Lawrence Saalfeld of Portland and of H. C. Saalfeld, Marion county veterans' affairs director.

Enroute east Father Saalfeld will visit his nephews, Henry F. Cooper, Jr., in Chicago, and Dr. Thomas H. Cooper in Milwaukee, Wis.

High lights of the science teachers program in which the former Salem man is to have a part will include lectures in the field of chemistry and physics ranging from atomic and microwave physics to particle dynamics and accelerators, tours of the cyclotron, synchrotron, and Monsanto Chemical Company, Van de Graaf Laboratory, the electronics laboratory and wind tunnels.

Vacancies in Civil Service

The State Bureau of Labor in Salem will have five vacancies for electrical inspectors in the near future.

These positions have a salary range of $4104-$5280 a year. Minimum qualifications for the positions call for two years of experience as a supervising electrician and possession of a valid state of Oregon license for supervising electrician. The positions are located in Bend, The Dalles, Albany, McMinnville, and Klamath Falls.

The Industrial Accident Commission has an immediate vacancy for a safety inspector. The salary range for this position is $322 to $394, and minimum qualifications call for high school graduation or a certificate of equivalency, or two years of experience within the past 10 years in work as a journeyman electrical lineman or heavy construction. Applicants over fifty years of age will not be admitted to the examination.

There is an immediate vacancy at Oregon State College for a senior tabulating machine operator. Applicants for this position must have 15 months experience in the operation of various kinds of tabulating machines, and graduation from a senior high school or any equivalent combination of experience and training. The salary range is $272-$336 a month. A civil service examination is required for these positions.

Higher Standards for Cannery Workers

Higher work standards for women and minors working in canneries and meat processing plants were ordered Monday by the Oregon Wage and Hour Commission, and are effective August 13.

The order does these things:

- Sets an hourly wage minimum of 66 cents.
- Provides for time and a half overtime pay after 10 hours.
- Provides for double time after 12 hours.
- Calls for 10-minute rest periods after three consecutive hours of work.
- Puts restrictions on weight-lifting.
- At present overtime is paid after 12 hours.

Loucks Appointed Liaison Officer

Rep. Alfred W. Loucks of Salem has been assigned to the job of liaison officer between the Republican party of Oregon and the Republican members of the Legislature.

He was assigned to the post by Wendell Wyatt of Astoria, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, who made the announcement Monday, following an executive committee meeting in Portland.

NOTES ON THE NEWS

"Mr. Renneck, just because I got an 8 per cent pay hike doesn't mean I need a new TV set."
