Senators Win 6-2 In First

Whitson Wins 7th, Shields Homers in Rally

SPOKANE—The tight little cluster at the top of the Northwest league today finds Salem still in third place after whipping Spokane, 6-2, last night, but only one-half game behind Wenatchee's runners-up.

There's a new leader in the Class B baseball circuit—the Eugene Emeralds who humbled the Senators here a week ago in four out of five. The Emeralds notched a 10-1 victory over the downhill-moving Chiefs last night and have three more chances to shove them further in this series.

No Errors Made
Tonight at Spokane, Marion Cowdell, the lefty from Utah, is expected to churn for the Senators to try to emulate Bill "Red" Whitson's complete game which brought him his seventh conquest against two losses. Whitson has the most complete jobs of the Salem staff, seven, and gave up seven hits in the game that found no errors on either side.

Salem entered the top of the ninth inning with a 2-2 tie with the last place Indians. But then the warm bat of outfielder Bill Shields spoke sharply again with an opening home run over the 380-foot mark in left center field.

Apparently unnerfed, pitcher Phil Page was touched for consecutive singles by Harvey Koepf, Mel Krause, Jack Dunn and Floyd Robinson, then Whitson set Spokane down in the bottom of the ninth. Salem now stands 4-1 over Spokane for the season.

Krause Drives In Two
Shields also doubled to open the fifth inning and scored on another double, by Krause, which also drove in Whitson to tie the score. Spokane had gone ahead with single runs in the first two innings.

Two double plays helped Whitson along, one on a sharp throw by Shields from short right field with the bases loaded on walks in the seventh frame. Shields pocketed Bill Stanley's fly ball, then pegged to catcher Koepf to catch Page at the plate to end the inning.

Jack Dunn led Salem hitting with three for four and a fine running catch by an Indian outfielder near the fence was all that kept him from having a perfect night.

Krause and Shields got two hits each out of the 12 for Salem, boosting Shields' average to .299, Dunn's to .313 and Krause's to .307.

Barrick Field Dedication Set

Junior Baseball Will Get Started Friday At Jamboree

Salem's junior baseball program will get underway and Barrick Field will be dedicated Friday night in the kickoff jamboree for this year's "Knothole" diamond stars.

The dedication will start at 7 o'clock. The field is being named in honor of Dr. L. E. Barrick, long time former member of the Salem school board.

Two ball games of three innings duration will feature the players from both the C and B loops. All managers and sponsors will be there, officials said.

A total of 18 junior teams, nine in each league, will play this year. The teams to play Friday night will be drawn just before playing time.

Bruce Williams, Salem attorney who is a former Salem Senator president and active in junior baseball, will be master of ceremonies. Bill Beard, president of the junior leagues and Lee Shinn will assist with the remainder of the program and dedication.

Al Kaline Leads All-Star Voting

CHICAGO (UP)—Hard-bitting young Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers remained the top vote-getter today in the annual All-Star baseball poll although he was pressed closely by veteran catcher Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Kaline, a 20-year-old right fielder currently leading both leagues in hitting with .379, held a 1,436-vote margin over Campanella in the latest tabulations. Kaline had collected 112,848 votes to Campanella's 111,412 in the poll to select eight starting players for each league for the All-Star game at Milwaukee July 12.

6 NCAA Champs in Tonight's Meet

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Six National Collegiate champions in seven events head a star-studded field in Tuesday night's 14th renewal of the Pacific Coast - Big Ten inter-conference track meet.

The six won their crowns last weekend in the NCAA test at Los Angeles, with sprinter Jim Golliday of Northwestern notching twin triumphs in both dashes.

Despite the presence of Golliday, the West Coast Stars were favored heavily to rack up their ninth triumph in the series, primarily because of overwhelming strength in the field events and an apparent wealth of middle distance stars.

Ernie Shelton and Des Koch, teammates on this year's Southern California powerhouse, were considered virtual shoe-ins in the high jump and discus. Shelton went 5 feet 11 1/2 inches in his pent event at Los Angeles, while Koch flipped the discus 176 feet 3/4 inch for his history.

A pair of Oregon teammates, Jim Bailey and Ken Reiser in the mile and two mile respectively, rounded out the PCC's roster of champions.

Aside from Golliday, the only Big Ten national titlist is Milt Campbell of Indiana, in the high hurdles. Loss of Illinois' Willard Thomson, another hurdle wizard, was a blow to Big Ten hopes.

Thomson injured his leg in NCAA preliminaries and was not considered likely to compete here.

One of the top racers on the menu was expected to be in the 800 between Michigan's Pete Gray and Oregon's Bailey. Gray chased Fordham's Tom Courtney to a new NCAA half-mile record last Saturday, while Bailey knocked off Oregon teammate Bill Dellinger in preliminaries and was not considered likely to compete here.

Ems Drop Chiefs From Loop Lead

Wenatchee Belted 10-1 as Vanni Unretires

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Eugene Emeralds were the kingpins of Northwest League baseball Tuesday and for the first time the Wenatchee Chiefs found themselves playing second fiddle.

The Emeralds, who moved into contention only a week ago after a slow start, installed themselves in the throne room Monday night after a 10-1 belting of the Chiefs.

It was the seventh loss in nine starts for the Chiefs, who dominated the league through most of the season and less than a month ago held a 6 1/2-game bulge over the field.

Salem also advanced in the standings. The Senators slugged Spokane 6-2 in the league's other scheduled game and moved to within four percentage points of the Chiefs and only a half game out of first place. The night's activities bunched the leaders like this:

| Wenatchee | 32 | 21 | .604 | —   |
| Salem     | 30 | 20 | .600 | 1/2 |

The Emeralds fashioned an eight run fifth inning to topple Wenatchee. Both teams went scoreless until the fifth when Eugene cashed in on the sudden wildness of Bob Roberts for eight tallies on a single, four walks, a hit batsman, an error and Ron Jackson's two-run double.

Manager Edo Vanni, who only last week said he was "retiring from the playing field forever," asserted himself in the lineup and wrenched out a double that gave Wenatchee its solo run in the seventh.

A crowd of 3,037, largest of the season, watched.

Bill Shields homered in the top of the ninth at Spokane to pace Salem to its victory over the Indians. Salem's Red Whitson and Spokane's Phil Page hooked up in a tight pitching duel until Shields pounded his tie-breaking homer.

The Senators went on to score three more runs after that.

The Wenatchee-Eugene and Spokane-Salem series continues Tuesday night while Yakima opens a four-game stand at Tri-City. Lewiston is idle until Friday.

Beyers Pitches Perfect 1-0 Win

Mt. Angel's Ace Edges Prison Officers

Carl Beyers, ace of the Mt. Angel Co-op team, proved his right to a top rating among Salem softball choppers last night when he hurled a perfect no-hit, no-run 1-0 victory over the State Prison Officers.

Beyers was red hot last night, striking out 14 and didn't allow a man to get to first base. But he had to be at his best to beat Gene Hilliker, the Prison Officers' nifty chucker, who gave up only one hit and might still be pitching except for an accidental bump.

Mt. Angel got its run in the third. Harris walked, stole second and third and came home when Bede Annen barely ticked the ball on a lusty swing, sending it gently rolling between the mound and first base. A misplay in who was to cover first let Harris score what proved to be the winning run.

In the Kay Woolen-Burkland class, the winners scored twice in the bottom of the seventh to pull out a victory. Dick Hendrie was the hero, hammering a triple with two men on in that seventh inning windup. Bob Knight and Glen Blanton were the two who scored on Hendrie's booming triple.

HOME, HOME ON THE METOLIUS

Metolius river, Saturday night, June 18: Marshall Hanft and I are camped at 99 Bridge in a beautiful park-like area of Ponderosa pine. Campfires are ablaze all around us and the resinous odor of burning wood drifting on the clean, crisp mountain air is a perfume outdoorsman would not swap for all the Chanel Number 5 in Paris.

This is certainly a wonderful spot for entire families to enjoy together. Even somebody's bulldog named "Pete" seems to be enjoying himself. Looks like the little potlicker would be happy to get a free load of our groceries, and if he doesn't cease and desist, his posterior will be sadder but wiser.

The campgrounds along the river are clean and well kept. Even neatly appointed "chic sales" are provided for the more fastidious. The river rushes by noisily, just the kind of music to lull a weary fisherman to sleep.

Catch plenty of "supper" trout right by the bridge this afternoon on a small brown dry fly. (Got a feeling these trout are recent releases from the hatchery upstream—but they're mighty scrappy, nonetheless.) Fished upriver mile or so this evening, but no evening rise to speak of. It was a bit chilly.

CAUGHT IN HIS OWN BACKYARD
Caught a trout right in front of a cramp, and an ensuing conversation revealed the camper to be a Salemite, Jess Crouse of 5055 Robindale. Jess was with his son and a neighbor boy, and they'd been taking their share of the tough Metolius rainbows.

Say—if you think you don't feel any older than you were ten years ago, here's how to prove you're living in a fool's paradise: I'd ruined my waders not so long ago, and for the first time in many years waded in sneakers. The Metolius is COLD, running around 44 to 46 degrees. From now on, if anybody calls me "kid," I'll know they're just being polite.

Deschutes river, Sunday evening, June 19: Sitting by the car waiting for Hanft to quit so we can go home. Trouble is, he's just caught a pair of good pound rainbows in this spot a few miles north of Tumalo and decided he wasn't so tired after all. That's what happens—teach a guy to fly fish and he winds up beating you at your own game. He's been taking them here on a number 12 Royal Coachman dry. The water is fast (though about as low as I've ever seen the Deschutes) and he had a rough hustle, keeping the fish out of the snags.

Left the Metolius this afternoon, after a stop at the Wizard Falls trout hatchery just below Camp Sherman. Got some interesting stories there, that will have to wait till we can get home and un-scramble our notes before reporting, probably in Friday's column.

Summing up this hurried jaunt: The Upper Metolius, while offering small fish for the most part (it is under terrific angling pressure) is as beautiful a river as can be found anywhere, and for family fun it's camping area tops. Even tame deer wander in to delight the kiddies.

Come on, Marshall, give up so we can go home. Last time I got in at midnight, the little woman rolled over in bed and muttered "is that you, Bob?"

SHERLOCK OF THE WILDS

Back home, Monday evening: We'll do anything for anybody in this column. Example: Reader Ray Bates out in the Sunnyside district had been losing some pullets to a varmint of some sort, he told us on the phone. Camped out all night with a shotgun, but the thief never functioned during the times Ray laid for him. What was it? he asked. Skunk, coon, or hungry hobo? We told him to call friend Lee Crawford, who, when he isn't lawyering, is either hunting, fishin' or trapping.

Ray called Lee, and the result was inevitable. Lee hoo-footed it (along with son Tom) out to the hen-yard. The marauder had left remnants of his kill, though not many feathers were around. He had never killed but one chicken per trip.

Lee could find no clues anywhere on the ground to indicate the type of creature responsible. So, with uncanny logic, he deduced that the predator must be flying in. A trap placed on the top of a 20 foot pole proved the correctness of his deductions. Next morning, chicken-rancher Bates found a 46-inch wingspanned timber owl in the trap. . . . and so ended another chapter in the story of E. L. Crawford, State Street Sleuth.

3 New Faces on Mat Card Tonight

Three new faces will be on the wrestling card tonight at the Salem Armory, one from Canada, one from Mexico, and the third from Kansas City.

They will spice up the prelims before the main event which matches Luther Lindsey and Ivan "Killer" Kammeroff for the Northwest heavyweight championship.

The "guests" are Gory Guerrero, the junior heavy champion of Mexico, who will take on Bill Fletcher, the former boxer from Boise. Guerrero has been on many Hollywood TV wrestling films and comes here recommended by Pepper Gomez, an all-time favorite in this area.

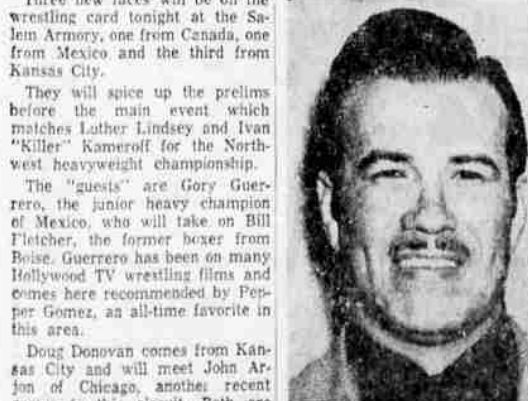

Doug Donovan comes from Kansas City and will meet John Arjon of Chicago, another recent comer to this circuit. Both are fast and smooth.

Johnnie Foll of Toronto is the third newcomer, meeting the strong-armed George Desette in the opener at 8:30. Foll recently met Lou Thesz in Spokane, is big, young and energetic.

Red McKim will referee.
