

Jim McGill, Stayton, is one of a considerable number of boys from other mid-Willamette valley towns who will be racing in the Fourth Annual Salem Soap Box Derby this Sunday at Bush Park. Here he is shown spray painting the side of his racer as his dad points out a thin spot in the layer of paint. He is sponsored by Wright Truck lines. About one-fourth of Derby entrants will represent such valley towns as Dallas, Silverton, Albany, Sweet Home, Mt. Angel, Stayton and Gervais. Valley area boys will lead off the Saturday morning parade from the Capital Mall to downtown High street to Derby Downs for inspection and trial runs. Parade starts at 10 a.m. Sunday race starts at 1:30.

Ashland Experimenting With Broadcast System

ASHLAND—The sound of rolling drums and militant horns echoing through the town in the late afternoon is becoming an everyday occurrence for Ashland residents.

The noise comes from the Shakespearean Festival theater, where technicians are experimenting with the new high fidelity broadcast recorder.

The system, consisting of a tape recorder, microphone, amplifier, and four speakers, is the newest and proudest possession of the festival staff. Mert Cramer, last year's technical assistant, is spending the month in Ashland, working with technical director Frank Sullivan and his staff to set up the equipment and determine the scope of the recorder.

The tech crew started last week recording with festival musicians

Korean Cuties Barred by GIs

SEOUL (AP) — U. S. 8th Army officers' clubs are quietly shutting their doors to Korean cuties after getting the word from Lt. Gen. John H. Collier, acting Army commander.

Collier gave the verbal order last week. He was a leader in cracking down on U. S. soldiers fraternizing with German women when he commanded at Stuttgart several years ago.

An Army spokesman said Tuesday the unwritten rule was ordered "to eliminate an undesirable situation which was getting entirely out of hand."

Army officers have been courting hundreds of Korean girls and taking them to officially sanctioned dances ever since the armistice.

Business fell off sharply last week end in the clubs. Two clubs closed permanently.

Nine High French Officials Fired

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Moving swiftly only six days after taking over his new job as French resident general in Morocco, Gilbert Grandval yesterday fired nine French administrative officials.

He said "for essentially psychological reasons" the men associated with the old policy in Morocco were no longer suitable. He came here from Paris with instructions to ease up on French control in an effort to end the continuing terrorism.
