Punctures vs. Pills Get Comment From Doctors

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Penicillin can be taken by mouth, thereby avoiding rump-puncturing, but can people be trusted to take their pills like the doctor ordered?

Three doctors have looked into that question and the answer seems to be that people can't be trusted. From a doctor's viewpoint the reaction could be — puncture 'em and take no chances.

Out of 245 persons the doctors checked up on, 84 had failed to follow orders. Of the 245, 217 were acting — or not acting — in behalf of sick children 15 years old or younger.

Whether the penicillin pills were taken or not taken was a matter of grave importance because the patients were suffering from streptococcus infections of the throat or the ear.

Medical science has shown that such infections can lead to rheumatic fever and its dangers to the heart unless the streptococcal bacteria are completely wiped out. Penicillin pills will wipe them out provided they are taken faithfully for seven to ten days.

Seniors Do Prescribing

The 245 patients were treated by the Home Medical Service of the Massachusetts General Hospitals in Boston. The prescribing was done by seniors of Boston University medical school under the supervision of their superiors. The check - ups were made by Drs. Daniel N. Mohler, David G. Wallin, and Edward G. Dreyfus.

Of the 84 who stopped taking the penicillin before they should have, 31 stopped because the patient felt better, 23 stopped out of carelessness, 14 stopped on the plea that they didn't have the money to buy the pills, 9 stopped because the child refused to take any more pills, and 7 stopped because they hadn't understood what the doctor meant.

All 245 were of low income, and 80 were getting public welfare assistance. The three doctors, in their report in the New England Journal of Medicine said of these 80 that although they got their pills without charge, they "did not differ in performance from the rest of the group."

Six - Month Study

The study was carried out over a six month period. During the first three months, the medical seniors didn't know it was going on, and so the orders they gave to the patients were no more than ordinarily emphatic.

But during the last three months the seniors "emphasized" to patients the importance of taking the pills for seven days. This helped, but not nearly enough. During the first three months, 60.1 per cent took the pills as ordered; during the last three months, the percentage was 70.9. "Although this represented a desirable trend the increase was not statistically significant," the three doctors remarked.

They added that their findings "are particularly significant to clinics and physicians treating a large number of streptococcal infections with penicillin. It is suggested that the degree of unreliability encountered in the routine oral use of penicillin constitutes a significant disadvantage in obtaining effective thereapy."

FISH STORY

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UP) — Three Kalamazoo girls are telling the zaniest fish story of the season.

The girls said they were leaning over the side of their boat trying to retrieve a frog they had caught which had jumped out of the boat when the frog jumped back into the boat, followed by a four and one-half pound bass.

SURPRISED COP

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)— Patrolman Paul Roberts said he was more than startled when he arrested two "hot rodders" engaged in a "drag race"—a short speed run from a standing start.

Roberts said he arrested Pinellas County Prosecuting Attorney Emerson Parker in one car and his brother, Traffic Court Judge Carl Parker, of Madeira Beach, as the other driver.
