Salem Students Active on Campus

By PAT DEENEY

(Capital Journal Correspondent)

University of Oregon, Eugene (Special)—Dads Weekend is coming up soon and many Salem students are keeping themselves busy with the weekend plans. Judy Loucks is co-chairman of hostess selection and Kaye Tomlinson is one of her committee members. The four finalists, two from Portland and two from Eugene, were selected Wednesday. Each living organization on campus nominates a married girl who is enrolled at the university or whose husband is enrolled. These girls are interviewed twice by three judges, the ASUO president, a Eugene business man, and an alumnus of the university. The campus will vote for the hostess Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday before Dads Weekend, February 3, 4, and 5.

Sally Jane Hoy is co-chairman of Special Events for the weekend. She will be in charge of the entertainment at the Friday night game. At the Saturday game the chairmen will present trophies for Dads registration. The men and women's organizations with the best record of Dads attending the weekend and also the Freshman dorm with the highest representation will be given awards.

Four other Salemites are working on the luncheon committee for Dads Weekend. They are Sondra Jochimsen, Nancy Sue Payne, Connie Hammond, and Gladys Maude.

Men's open rush will be completed for winter term tomorrow night. Women's open rush will then begin next Monday and continue for three weeks. Sally Hoy, a member of the Panhellenic council, has been busy this term working with the council to set up the women's rushing schedule for the campus.

Last weekend several Salem students attended one or both of the basketball games with the University of California. Among them were Jeff Walton, Sally Jo Greig, Darlene Crawley, Bruce King, Karen Johnson, Jan McAlpine, Julie Astrup, Stan Dvorak, Kaye Tomlinson, Marlene Bronson, Bill Mainwaring, Sharon Johnson, Sandra Carter, Stanley Page, and Glenn Bender, directing the pep band.

Last Sunday evening the YWCA sponsored a smorgasbord dinner for the campus. About 200 students attended the dinner. Nancy Lidbeck helped with the decorations—soft candlelight and fir boughs. The background music was Swedish. Sondra Jochimsen helped with the serving. Kaye Tomlinson, Marion Baum, Plum Brown, Judy Loucks, Anne Heitzel, JoAnn Hoover, and Dick Engdahl were some of the Salemites indulging in the Swedish food.

Sally Jo Greig is beginning a busy term. Her biggest job at present is Oregona photography editor. Julie Astrup is also working on the Oregona. Her job is the housing section of the year book.

Next Saturday night freshmen will be attending the Frosh Sno-Ball formal dance. Only freshmen and their dates may attend this dance. Anne Heitzel is in charge of the program and guest invitations for the formal.

This weekend several Salem girls are being initiated by their sororities. Among them are Alpha Chi Omega, Gladys Maude, Jan McAlpine, and Carolyn Madsen; Pi Beta Phi, Jean Lidbeck and Nancy Sue Payne; Alpha Phi, Kaye Tomlinson and Sondra Jochimsen.

Dick Engdahl is performing this afternoon in the Student Union "Friday at 4 (one-half hour of campus entertainment each Friday afternoon)." Dick is doing a pantomime called "Blood on the Saddle."

Dick, Judy Kuhn, and Carolyn Madsen have contributed their artistic talents to help make posters for the Religious Evaluation week, which begins this Sunday. During this week students on campus will have the opportunity to hear and talk to representatives of seven different faiths, Buddhism, Eastern Orthodox Christianity, Hinduism, Islamism, Judaism, and the Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths.

Judy Loucks has just been selected by Panhellenic as co-chairman of Greek Week, April 4-7.

The purpose of Greek Week is to further educate the Greeks and the Independents about the National Greek projects.

A tentative schedule of events has been set for the week. It includes an all-Greek banquet Wednesday, honoring the most outstanding Greek of the year, Thursday an orientation assembly is scheduled. A panel of Greeks and Independents will be the speakers of this assembly open to everyone. The purpose of each, the advantages and disadvantages will be some of the topics. Friday will feature a community service project, that of cleaning up Hendricks Park. Exchange dinners will be followed Friday night by a Variety show emphasizing the "Crusade for Freedom." Saturday at noon a picnic for all Greeks is planned and followed by the athletic games. Saturday night the week will be completed by an all-Greek dance.
