

Tell New Beau of the Past Before Someone Else Does

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: Should I tell the man I'm in love with of previous sex experiences I have had? I have had relations with a married man, a boy I once loved, and a boy I cared nothing about. The first was under the influence of liquor, the second because I was in love, and the third I can't explain.

The young man I love now is 25, two years older than I am and I'm afraid he'll hear of my reputation, which isn't too good. I am trying to live it down but people just don't forget. I know I'd be a good wife if I ever married this man.

ANSWER: In the case of one mistake, I advise discreet silence, but since your reputation is quite well known, trying to hide your affairs would be rather useless. Sooner or later your beau is bound to find out and if deceit is added to indiscretion in love, faith in you is bound to suffer a complete blackout.

Confession is best, coupled with a sincere determination to make your future cloudless. A man who truly loves you will try to understand.

DON'T COUNT ON HIM

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 62 in love with a man the same age, who is very unhappily married. He says he would leave his wife except for the fact that he owns considerable property and she would insist on having it if she divorced him. She is his second wife, doesn't get along with his children, won't do anything for him. I think she's only interested in his money.

ANSWER: When a man, no matter what his age, shows interest in a woman and makes excuses for not getting a divorce and marrying her, his intentions are certainly open to suspicion.

Not many men are willing to dissolve a marriage, no matter how unattractive they make it sound. It's a bad deal for the other woman, whether she's 22 or 62. Naturally he's going to paint his domestic picture in unattractive colors, but you can safely discount half of it. I'm sorry for you, but chances of acquiring this man as a lifetime companion are extremely slim.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a high-school junior. Eric and I have known each other for six months and are very much in love. My parents seemed to like him, but suddenly mother has forbidden me to see him. I intended to finish school before we were married, but now I wonder if it wouldn't be best to run off. Being with the one you love seems more important than an education.

ANSWER: If you and Eric marry when you graduate from high school, you'll have 50 years or more of wedded bliss ahead of you. Does a year, then, seem too long to wait? Especially when it means a more solid foundation for marriage?

I'm sure your mother's ban on Eric was caused by her conviction that you were getting too serious, too young and upon too short an acquaintance. When she has your assurance that you will finish school, that you will co-operate as to dating and curfews, she will most likely relent.

DEAR MISS DIX: The girl I love is 10 years younger than I, has a very good job, and money in the bank. I've never saved anything, as I never expected to marry, and now at 34 I don't have the money to set up an apartment. What can I do? I am sure the girl loves me and her parents seem to approve of me.

ANSWER: Cupid has laughed at bank accounts (or the absence of them) before. If your intentions are sincere, your affection genuine, a mutually satisfactory plan can be worked out. Tell the young lady, frankly, the status of your finances, and start saving like mad. With her co-operation, that apartment will soon materialize.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX, care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Don't Address Saucer Queries To 'Confidential Files', D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you want information on flying saucers, don't address your request to "Confidential Files, Washington, D.C."

Takes too long. And besides, you may be investigated by the FBI.

A lady out in Los Angeles (name withheld by various government agencies) dashed off a note on Jan. 15. It said: "Confidential Files, Wash., D.C. Dear Sirs—Please send me a bulletin of flying saucers, or the address where I can get information about them. I am enclosing 20 cents."

"Thanks,"

Seemed like a simple, direct approach—except for the address. The Post Office, casting about for some federal agency that might have confidential files, sent in to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The FBI, never one to pass out military secrets, made discreet inquiries.

Then the FBI forwarded the letter to the Air Force, advising that nothing derogatory or indicative of subversion could be found in the lady's activities.

So the Air Force reached into its nonclassified files and plucked out the latest summary on the number of sightings of UFO (unidentified flying objects) together with an explanation of why people think they see flying saucers—or what it is they see which the Air Force can or can't explain.

The lady's 20 cents was taped to the summary and both were mailed to her address in Los Angeles.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... tiny parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pills must not only be used, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P.W. Tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P.W. Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. B. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

1200 Jam Church For Allen Funeral

NEW YORK (AP) — A throng of theater and broadcasting luminaries jammed St. Malachy's Church Tuesday for the funeral of Fred Allen.

Police estimated that 1,200 persons, including many standees, crowded inside the church. Another 700 persons massed behind police lines out front.

Allen, who was 61, died of a heart attack early Sunday morning after collapsing on the street while strolling.

Horan Urges Coulee Dam Floodlights

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appropriation of $75,000 to floodlight the Grand Coulee Dam spillway as a nighttime, tourist attraction was asked Tuesday by Rep. Horan (R-Wash.).

More than twice the height of Niagara Falls, the 350-foot-high spillway, Horan told a House Ap-

Portland C.C. Seeks Money For Dredging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appropriation of $1,800,000 to continue dredging on the 48-foot channel across the mouth of the Columbia River was urged Tuesday by Harold B. Neville, Portland, Ore., chairman of the Columbia River Reclamation Commission.

Neville said the $1,800,000 would be used to continue dredging the channel to the 48-foot depth, which is necessary to permit the passage of the largest ships to the mouth of the Columbia River.
