

Burns Denies Our Age One Of Inflation

Ike's Economic Adviser Warns About Some Developments

BOSTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser said today it is a "diservice both to truth and to social opportunity to describe our times as an age of inflation."

"We are living in an age," said Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, "that can be either one of inflation or of general price stability, depending on the courage and wisdom that private citizens and government officials bring to their responsibilities."

Burns' remarks were prepared for the National Federation of Financial Analysts Societies.

While qualifying his remarks about this not being an age of inflation, Burns cautioned about some current developments. He said, for example, that the "potential danger" in the rise in wholesale prices in the last six to 12 months should not be minimized, although he said it is important to see the recent price movements in perspective.

The remarkable thing about the level of wholesale prices, he said, is that, despite the widespread accumulating pressures of demand, it has risen so little. He continued:

"When an economy is poised on a very high plateau, as ours has been in recent months, the threat of inflation cannot be very distant. The like, unhappily, is also true of the threat of recession."

"Aggregate economic activity is now proceeding at peak levels, but divergent movements are going on beneath the surface. Capital expenditures on the part of business have been rising rapidly, and governmental spending as a whole has also been moving upward. Home building and retail trade, on the other hand, have been somewhat sluggish. . . . Developments in prices, inventories, and retail trade will bear watching in coming weeks and months."

Man 'Sleeps' Way Into City Jail

Even a cup of cold water failed to arouse a man who had fallen asleep in a lounge chair at a local theatre Saturday night. So the police hauled him off to the city jail where he was booked on a drunk charge.

The officers were called when theatre attendants failed to arouse the man from what appeared to be a deep sleep.

Theater Group Preparing for 'Blithe Spirit'

Play to Be Given at North Salem High Friday Night

Cast members for the production of Noel Coward's Blithe Spirit, to be presented on the stage of the North Salem high school Friday evening by Pentacle theatre personnel, are entering their last week of rehearsals.

The play will be presented only one night. All proceeds from the production will be given to the speech department of the high school for new equipment.

Blithe Spirit is one of Noel Coward's most popular comedies. The plot concerns a novelist who is writing a book about a homicidal medium. In order to get information for his book he invites a local medium to his home. She unwittingly produces the ghost of his first wife, who can be seen and heard only by him. The startling effect of this situation on his second wife creates hilarious misunderstandings and confusion.

This production is a revival of the Blithe Spirit which Pentacle theatre produced two seasons ago. With the exception of two persons, all the actors are the same as in the first show. Special effects, props and furniture are to be arranged by students of the speech department.

Tickets are being sold by students and are also on sale to the general public at Meier & Frank Co. and Stevens & Son.

Teacher Group in Sales Tax Attack

Two resolutions directed against the sales tax were adopted during a meeting of the executive board of the Oregon Federation of Teachers Saturday.

One of the resolutions opposed the sales tax unequivocally, terming it a "regressive tax which requires those who are least able, to pay the same percentage of their expenses as others more able."

Another resolution opposed Joint Senate Resolution 4, which would permit the legislature to forestall any immediate referendum of sales tax or any other tax measure.

Senators Call For Check on Pornography

WASHINGTON (UP)—A combination of federal and state laws is called for by Senate investigators to combat a 500-million-dollar-a-year racket they say has been built up by "loathsome and lecherous purveyors of pornography."

In a 71-page report on a nationwide investigation, the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee said last night "a very large percentage" of this pornographic output is reaching teen-agers.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. "Cafe" (D-Tenn.), said much of it is distributed by "smut peddlers" lurking around schools.

It called on the federal government to halt importation of salacious material and to block its distribution through the mails and its transportation in interstate commerce.

It urged both state and federal governments to enact laws providing stiffer jail sentences and fines.

The subcommittee reported a relationship between what it called the "almost unbelievable rapidity" with which sex crimes in the area had increased and "a mushrooming growth in the production, distribution and sale of pornographic materials."

Its report said that "the most insidious effect of present-day pornographic materials is the portrayal of abnormal sexual behavior as being normal. Perversion of the impressionable adolescent to achieve a normal healthy relationship upon reaching maturity."
