

Gun Used in Robbery of Station Here

A gun-toting robber and his two companions held up a Salem station operator Wednesday night and made off with about $82 in cash and the station's phone receiver.

The young trio walked into the Richfield station, 3125 Portland Rd., shortly after 11 p.m., proprietor James Ackerman, 1906 Trade St., told police. One of them asked for a road map.

As he went to the rack and reached for a map, one pulled a gun on him and ordered, "Okay, freeze. Don't move!" Ackerman related. While the one held the silver-plated pistol, another moved to the cash register and emptied it of the money. Before they left, one jerked the receiver loose from the phone and took it with them.

The trio then walked out, got in a Chrysler, 1952 to 1954 model, and drove northward on Portland road, Ackerman told officers. He ran to a neighboring motel and called police. Road checks were set up by state police and sheriff's deputies at the Molalla junction on 99E and on the St. Paul highway but the thieves were not apprehended.

Ackerman described the three men as about 20 or 21 years old. They did not attempt to disguise themselves, he said.

Ackerman has worked at the station less than a week, he said. The station is owned by Ed Fischer, Mt. Angel.

Post No. 136 Acquires Home

Salem Legion post No. 136 acquired a home Wednesday night when papers were signed transferring ownership of the Kingwood post meeting hall on Parkway Drive to post No. 136.

Previously, post No. 136 had met at the Frank Walton hall. Both 136 and Kingwood post No. 81 will now meet in the Parkway drive hall.

Signing the agreement were Emmett A. Dickson, commander and Orville B. Long, adjutant of post No. 81, and Reginald H. Rees, commander and Earl R. Lee, adjutant of post No. 136.

Both posts will recess meetings until September, Rees said, at which time some improvements and additions will be made to the legion hall. An open house will be held next fall.

Dick Comes to Aid of Goats

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore), friend of the White House squirrel, now has come to the aid of goats.

Neuberger demanded Wednesday that Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson investigate "shocking" reports the Army is shooting goats.

His statement was touched off by a news dispatch quoting Capt. Carolyn Taylor of the Army Medical Corps as saying goats were shot with high-powered rifles at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., to give doctors battlefield experience.

Bank Debts Rise in May

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, June (Special)—Bank debits in the lower Willamette valley area, including Salem, showed an increase of 20.5 per cent for May 1956 over May of a year ago. At the same time, the area reported a rise of 6.3 per cent over April, 1956.

The debits are collected monthly from 152 Oregon banks by the bureau of business research at the University of Oregon. The bank debits represent the dollar value of checks drawn against the deposit accounts of individuals and business firms. Debits are regarded as good indicators of current business activity.

Totals for the state for May were $1,591,724,449, an increase of 13.5 per cent over May 1955, and a 5.3 per cent increase over April.

Chocolate Seen As Cause of Typhoid Fever

DES MOINES, Iowa (UP)—A recent increase in typhoid fever in five Midwestern states may have been caused by chocolate candy, an Iowa health expert said today.

Iowa has had 44 cases of the disease this year, 16 more than at the same time a year ago. Ten other cases are being investigated. One of the 44 patients died.

Dr. Ralph Heeren, Des Moines, of the Iowa Public Health Department, said Northern Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Eastern Nebraska have reported "about the same marked increase" since Jan. 1.

Heeren said "it seemed like" all of the Iowa typhoid fever patients had eaten chocolate in some form in recent months. Two of them had not, including one elderly woman who was a diabetic.

"I don't want to pin chocolate in too closely. Almost all of us eat chocolate in some form," Heeren said. "But we haven't ruled it out on the basis of one case."

Heeren said "all sorts of food eaten raw" also are being considered. He mentioned carrots, lettuce, onions and "all salad foods."

"It's awfully hard to trace because the cases aren't related to each other at all," Heeren said.

Woman Drops Charges After Man's Arrest

A Salem man was arrested on a citizen's arrest charging disorderly conduct Wednesday night, but the charge was dropped Thursday when the arresting woman decided not to press charges.

Eugene Hewitt (Wimpy) Carver, 328 North 21st St., was arrested by Mary Jane Anderson, 895 Biler St., and turned over to city police officers who were called to the 800 block of North Commercial street. She charged that Carver had made improper advances and then chased her across a parking lot and down an alley. She fell and suffered bruises and abrasions, she said. When she yelled for help, two men came to her aid, she said.

Carver was found nearby by police and was identified and arrested by Miss Anderson. He was held overnight in jail and pleaded innocent in Municipal court Thursday morning. Later in the morning, by mutual agreement of Miss Anderson and Carver, the city attorney's office drew up releases and the case was dropped.

Warne Nunn, director of the new department, said that the desired space, if procured, will be used for some clerical help and also for storage of files, to clear out legislative hearing rooms now used by the motor vehicle division.

Nunn said all division of the new department dealing with the public will remain as present located in the capitol area and no immediate moves of such departments are contemplated.

The new motor vehicles department, created by the 1955 legislature, will come into being on July 1.

Police Plan Enforcement of 'Alley Laws'

Salem motorists were reminded today that it is illegal to cross downtown streets at the alley intersections.

All alley exits have been posted with signs indicating whether a left or right turn only may be made, according to the one-way grid traffic, Chief of Police Clyde A. Warren said.

Motorists have been ignoring the city ordinance prohibiting driving across the street from one alley to another. The practice is dangerous, especially on the three- and four-lane streets, Chief Warren said.

A few motorists have increased the hazard by attempting to use the alleys as streets to escape the traffic lights, he said. Stricter enforcement of the law is planned, he stated.

Summer Brings Bright Day

The weather man did it up brown, Thursday, to show how summer weather should be—but, after all, it was the first day of summer.

Along comes the forecast, however, to say rain is in the picture again by Friday night. A high of around 75 was due for this afternoon in Salem, but it will not be quite so high, Friday, Wednesday was a bit chilly, a maximum of only 66 being registered in Salem, followed by a Thursday morning minimum of 39 degrees.

Sunshine was pretty general in Oregon for Thursday. Increasing cloudiness is due tomorrow in all areas, the east as well as valley regions and on the beaches.

Costs Assessed Complaint In Larceny Hearing

A charge of larceny was dismissed in Marion county district court Thursday and court costs assessed against the complaining witness.

Judge E. O. Stadler Jr. ruled that "it appearing that the action was brought without probable cause," the charge against Joseph Working, 1905 Lee St., he dismissed and that $5 court costs be assessed against the complainant, Hugo R. Gallun, Rt. 4, Box 195.

The action arose over Gallun's complaint that Working had stolen nine Edison batteries from him. Testimony developed that there was a matter of disputed ownership involved. Judge Stadler said, and the case should more properly have been a civil suit to establish ownership.

Traffic Deaths Continue Climb

Traffic deaths in Oregon showed a 20 per cent increase for the first four months of the year, over a similar period a year ago, the state traffic safety division reported Thursday.

Traffic accidents and injuries are running ahead also, the division reported. By the end of April, later in the month for which accident figures are available, 19,953 traffic mishaps had been reported. The total for the same period in 1955 was 19,875.

Division officials said the months ahead, when vacation travel is at its peak, may tell the story as far as the state's traffic record for the year is concerned.

Crop of Pigs Shows Decline

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department today said the 1955 spring pig crop totaled 53,015,000 head, a decline of 8 per cent from the spring of 1955.

This decline in pig production is expected to mean higher prices for good butcher hogs this fall. A spring pig crop of 57,690,000 head in 1955 caused hog prices to drop about 40 per cent last fall. The department predicted a fall pig crop of 25 million head, down 8 per cent from the 1955 fall crop.

The department estimated the total spring and fall pig crop for 1955 would be 98,065,000 head, down 8 per cent from the 95,601,000 head produced in the spring and fall crops last year.

The department said the number of sows farrowing this spring totaled 7,650,000 which was also 8 per cent less than the 8,359,000 sows farrowing last spring. The number of pigs saved per litter was 6.94, establishing a new record for spring farrowing and compares with 6.90 pigs per litter in 1955.

More Emphasis On Reactors Claimed Need

By RENNIE TAYLOR Associated Press Science Reporter

EUGENE (UP)—An all-out program for developing reactors for atomic power to match the government's emphasis on the atom in foreign policy was advocated Thursday by Dr. Henry DeWolf Smyth, one of the architects of the original uranium bomb.

Because of the costs and other economic risks involved, private enterprise probably will stick to the few types of reactor design that have come closest to proving their efficiency, Dr. Smyth told reporters.

This will leave several other types undeveloped unless the government undertakes a program to test their worth fully, Dr. Smyth said.

Experimentation with reactors of radical design is the only way to get the final word on which ones are best suited to the world's varying needs, the scientist added.

It will take full-sized reactors, not just pilot plants or intermediate sizes, to do this, he said. This means units capable of producing power in the 100,000 kilowatt range.

Despite the far-flung atomic energy operations in this country, we have only one reactor specifically designed to produce power, Dr. Smyth said. He referred to the power unit in the submarine Nautilus. Another power reactor is under construction at Shippingport, Pa., and others are in various stages of design or discussion.

However, a vast pile of information about materials, heat production and the types of fuel elements has accumulated. Reactor specialists know pretty well what all these will do, but nothing can be learned about how expensive they will be in power production until they are built into reactors and tested, Dr. Smyth said.

This country's position of world leadership, its foreign policy and its own future need for more power are all point to the advisability of putting this information to practical test, the scientist said.

Dr. Smyth participated in the initial work on the A-bomb and wrote the famous official book describing its development. He was a member of the Atomic Energy Commission for more than five years but resigned in September, 1954, "for a variety of reasons." He now heads the board of scientific and engineering research at Princeton University. He is vice president of the American Physical Society and came here to attend one of its meetings on the University of Oregon campus.
